Overall resource changes

Other changes

1.19 As shown in table 1.14 (1), resource changes reflect a net increase of $67,400, comprising: (a) an increase of $60,100 under posts and $1,900 under other staff costs related to adjustments to standards applicable to posts and positions; (b) an increase of $4,600 under non-staff compensation due to adjustments to the remuneration of the Chair of the Advisory Committee; (c) a decrease of $400 under contractual services due to slightly lower standard costs for the core software package at United Nations Headquarters; and (d) an increase of $1,200 under general operating expenses due to anticipated changes in price levels of communications services.

Other assessed resources

1.20 As reflected in tables 1.14 (2) and 1.15 (2), other assessed resources amount to $957,200. The resources would complement regular budget resources and provide for the requirements indicated in the report of the Secretary-General on the budget for the support account for peacekeeping operations for the period from 1 July 2026 to 30 June 2027 (A/80/631).

1.21 Information on the timely submission of documentation and advance booking for air travel is reflected in table 1.17.

1.22 The compliance rate for travel of the members of the Advisory Committee to their countries of origin is affected by national policies and route changes, which can affect advance travel planning undertaken by the secretariat of the Committee to make travel arrangements within the specified notice period. Ticketing compliance has continued to improve, exhibiting a 25 percentage point increase compared with the 2024 period and a 36 percentage point increase compared with 2023. The Secretariat continues to optimize its support to the work of the Committee with a view to achieving the target compliance rate.

New and expanded mandates

1.25 As shown in table 1.18, resource changes reflect an increase of $104,100, which relates to the provision for the travel of representatives for the additional week of meetings scheduled for the eighty-seventh session of the Committee on Contributions, to be held in 2027. Pursuant to the working methods of the Committee, during its consideration of the scale of assessments, which takes place every three years, the Committee will meet for four weeks instead of three weeks.

1.26 Information on advance booking for air travel is reflected in table 1.19. The secretariat of the Committee will continue to raise the awareness of travellers on the policy for the advance purchase of air tickets.

Overall resource changes

Technical adjustments

1.30 The decrease of $14,100 relates to the removal of non-recurrent provisions associated with official travel that were approved for 2026 and are no longer required in 2027.

Other changes

1.31 As shown in table 1.23 (1), resource changes reflect an increase of $39,300, comprising: (a) an increase of $29,600 under posts due to adjustments to standards applicable to posts; and (b) a net increase of $9,700 under contractual services due to anticipated changes in price levels of data processing services ($9,900), offset in part by slightly lower standard costs for the core software package at United Nations Headquarters ($200).

Other assessed resources

1.32 As reflected in table 1.23 (2), other assessed resources amount to $3,671,800. The resources would complement regular budget resources and provide for the requirements for the audits of peacekeeping operations.

Extrabudgetary resources

1.33 As reflected in tables 1.23 (3) and 1.24 (2), extrabudgetary resources amount to $6,965,800. The resources would complement regular budget resources and would be used mainly to provide for one post (General Service (Other level)) and non-post resources that would be used to support the audit of technical cooperation projects undertaken by the Department of Economic and Social Affairs, the regional commissions and the Office of the United Nations High Commissioner for Human Rights (OHCHR), as well as trust fund-related audits included in United Nations entities and the full range of activities, entities and programmes falling under the auspices of the Secretariat (see A/80/5 (Vol. I)).

1.34 The extrabudgetary resources under the present section are subject to the oversight of the Board.

1.35 Information on the timely submission of documentation and advance booking for air travel is reflected in table 1.26. The Board secretariat will continue to strive to achieve 100 per cent compliance with the advance booking of air travel policy.

5. Secretariat of the United Nations Staff Pension Committee (including reimbursement from the United Nations for services provided by the United Nations Joint Staff Pension Fund)

B. Proposed post and non-post resource requirements for 2027

Overview

1.36 The United Nations Joint Staff Pension Fund was established by the General Assembly in 1949 to provide retirement, death, disability and related benefits to the staff of the United Nations and such other organizations as might be admitted to its membership. In accordance with the regulations adopted by the Assembly, the Pension Fund is administered by the United Nations Joint Staff Pension Board, a staff pension committee for each member organization and a secretariat of the Pension Board and each such committee.

1.37 The expenses incurred by the staff pension committee in the administration of the regulations of a member organization are met by the general budget of that organization. However, given that the central secretariat of the Pension Fund grew out of the secretariat of the United Nations Staff Pension Committee, it continued to handle pension administration for the United Nations by special arrangement with the Pension Board. For those services, the United Nations reimburses the Pension Fund in accordance with the cost-sharing arrangement, as approved by the General Assembly in its resolution 75/246.

1.38 At the time that the present report was being prepared, the proposed budget of the Pension Fund for 2027 had not been finalized. The estimates will be subject to further revision in accordance with the administrative budget of the Pension Fund for 2027 and action taken by the General Assembly at its eighty-first session on the basis of the recommendations that the Pension Board may make in 2026 with respect to that budget. A statement of administrative and budgetary implications will be submitted to the Assembly at its eighty-first session should the Pension Board's recommendations involve resources different from those estimated in the present report.

1.39 The proposed regular budget resources for 2027, including the breakdown of resource changes, as applicable, are reflected in table 1.27.

Explanation of variances by factor

Overall resource changes

Technical adjustments

1.49 As shown in table 1.32, resource changes reflect a net increase of $108,500, as follows:

(a) An increase of $110,200 relates to the higher provision at continuing vacancy rates for the P-4 post established in 2026 pursuant to General Assembly resolution 80/242, which was subject to a 50 per cent vacancy rate in accordance with the established practice for newly established posts;

(b) A decrease of $1,700 relates to the removal of non-recurrent provisions associated with furniture and equipment that were approved for 2026 and are no longer required in 2027.

Other changes

1.50 As shown in table 1.32, resource changes reflect a net increase of $14,600, comprising: (a) $14,200 under posts and $300 under other staff costs related to adjustments to standards applicable to posts and positions; (b) a decrease of $100 under contractual services due to slightly lower standard costs for the core software package at United Nations Headquarters; and (c) an increase of $200 under general operating expenses due to anticipated changes in price levels of communications services.

1.51 Information on the timely submission of documentation and advance booking for air travel is reflected in table 1.36. The secretariat of the Committee will continue to implement measures to maintain the rate of compliance regarding the advance purchase of air tickets by raising the awareness of travellers and requesting them to finalize travel arrangements as soon as possible.

II. Secretary-General

B. Proposed post and non-post resource requirements for 2027

Overview

1.52 In accordance with Article 97 of the Charter of the United Nations, the Secretary-General, who is appointed by the General Assembly on the recommendation of the Security Council and who, in turn, appoints the staff, is the Chief Administrative Officer of the Organization. The Secretary-General also has an important political function by virtue of Article 99 of the Charter and a role in all United Nations meetings and such other functions as are entrusted to him or her by other principal organs of the Organization, as provided for in Article 98.

1.53 As the Chief Administrative Officer of the Organization, the Secretary-General is entrusted with a broad range of responsibilities under the Charter. Within the sphere of competence of the office, the Secretary-General takes action, on his or her own initiative, on a wide range of political, economic, social and humanitarian questions, reporting to and requesting guidance from the General Assembly and the Security Council, as appropriate. The Secretary-General uses his or her best efforts to assist in settling disputes between States and may bring to the attention of the Council any matter that may threaten the maintenance of international peace and security. Moreover, the Secretary-General plays a key role in efforts to ensure the observance of human rights. The Secretary-General provides policy direction to the departments, offices and other organizational units of the Secretariat in the execution of their functions and guidance and coordination to the programmes and other elements of the Organization. In addition, as Chair of the United Nations System Chief Executives Board for Coordination (CEB), the Secretary-General has a coordinating function in relation to the entire United Nations system of organizations. The activities of the Secretary-General in 2027 will be directed towards the achievement of the priorities of the Organization.

III. Executive direction and management

1.58 The proposed resources under executive direction and management would provide for the Executive Office of the Secretary-General and the offices of the Directors-General of the United Nations Offices at Geneva, Vienna and Nairobi. Those offices provide support to the Secretary-General in his or her capacity as Chief Administrative Officer of the United Nations under Article 97 of the Charter of the United Nations by assisting in: (a) the establishment of general policy and in the exercise of executive direction in relation to the work of the Secretariat, the United Nations funds and programmes and other entities within the Organization; (b) the supervision and coordination of the work of the Organization pursuant to the decisions of the Secretary-General and to the relevant directives of the intergovernmental bodies concerned; (c) relations with the press and the public; (d) inter-agency coordination functions in relation to the United Nations system of organizations, regional organizations and non-governmental organizations (NGOs); (e) relations with the principal organs of the United Nations and host Governments; and (f) contacts with Governments and delegations pursuant to Articles 98 and 99 of the Charter. Further details are provided under the relevant components. The proposed level of resources provides for the full, efficient and effective implementation of mandates.

1. Executive Office of the Secretary-General

B. Proposed post and non-post resource requirements for 2027

Overview

1.59 The Executive Office of the Secretary-General provides assistance to the Secretary-General in the establishment of general policy, in the executive direction, coordination and expeditious performance of the work of the Secretariat and of the programmes and other elements of the Organization, and in contacts with Governments, delegations, the press and the public. It provides further assistance to the Secretary-General in strategic planning, the preparation of the annual report of the Organization and the annual report on the rule of law, political, economic and inter-agency affairs, liaison and representation functions and the fulfilment of the priorities and mandates set out by the General Assembly. The resources of the Office also provide for the post of Deputy Secretary-General, whose functions and responsibilities are defined in paragraph 1 of Assembly resolution 52/12 B.

1.60 The Executive Office functions as an integrated office, with reporting lines through the Deputy Secretary-General and the Chef de Cabinet to the Secretary-General. The units within the Office work as a team to support the Secretary-General and the activities of the principals regardless of their direct reporting lines. The resources for the Office provide for post and non-post resources in support of the activities of the Secretary-General. The overall number of posts approved for 2027 remains unchanged.

1.61 In accordance with the 2030 Agenda for Sustainable Development, in particular target 12.6 of the Sustainable Development Goals, in which organizations are encouraged to integrate sustainability information into their reporting cycles, and in compliance with the cross-cutting mandate set out in paragraph 19 of General Assembly resolution 72/219, the Executive Office has continued to integrate environmental management practices into its operations to ensure resource efficiencies, waste reduction and system-wide behavioural changes across the United Nations. In 2025, the Office continued to implement management changes to lower its carbon and resource footprint, by further streamlining correspondence and document processing workflows, and incentivizing a reduction in the use of printed material as a good office practice. The recycling of event content and media branding was also promoted. Following Assembly resolution 77/161 on promoting zero-waste initiatives to advance the 2030 Agenda, the Office has helped to raise awareness of waste reduction measures across daily processes, while advocating for more circularity and resource efficiency in Office initiatives and procurement of services.

1.62 In line with the United Nations Disability Inclusion Strategy launched by the Secretary-General in 2019, the Executive Office continues to champion system-wide efforts to advance the inclusion of persons with disabilities. It strives to make the reports of the Secretary-General issued by the Office accessible to persons with disabilities. For example, the report of the Secretary-General on the work of the Organization was published in accessible formats, including ePub and Easy Read. In 2025, the Office enhanced the accessibility of the General Assembly high-level week through the provision of International Sign interpretation and live captioning at the Sustainable Development Goals Moment. In 2027, the Office will continue its efforts to ensure, where feasible, that reports, communications and events of the Secretary-General are accessible. The Office is also taking active steps to ensure the provision of reasonable accommodation to staff members with disabilities and will continue such efforts in 2027.

Deputy Secretary-General

1.63 The Deputy Secretary-General, whose functions and responsibilities are defined in paragraph 1 of General Assembly resolution 52/12 B, will continue to play a central leadership role in ensuring coherence and strategic direction across the United Nations development system. The Deputy Secretary-General supports the Secretary-General in elevating the Organization's impact in the economic, social and environmental spheres, while also reinforcing linkages with the humanitarian, peace and security, and human rights pillars. Through sustained engagement with Member States, regional organizations, international financial institutions and diverse stakeholders he or she helps garner attention and resources aimed at sustainable development. As Chair of the United Nations Sustainable Development Group, the Deputy Secretary-General convenes the executive heads of all United Nations development entities and directly oversees the Development Coordination Office. He or she also guides coordinated efforts to advance the sustainable development agenda, including the implementation of intergovernmentally agreed frameworks, such as the Sevilla Commitment of the Fourth International Conference on Financing for Development, the Paris Agreement on climate change, relevant components of the Pact for the Future, and the Doha Political Declaration of the of the "World Social Summit" under the title "the Second World Summit for Social Development". The Deputy Secretary-General also leads the implementation of all mandates to reposition the United Nations development system. Within the Executive Office of the Secretary-General, he or she directly supervises the Sustainable Development Unit, while also chairing the Rule of Law Coordination and Resource Group.

Chef de Cabinet

1.64 The Chef de Cabinet supports the Secretary-General in the execution of his or her political role and engagements. The Chef de Cabinet acts as an interface with Member States and, on behalf of the Secretary-General, primarily with the General Assembly and the Security Council. In addition, the Chef de Cabinet oversees the administrative and management portfolio, senior leadership appointments and the implementation of management reforms, peace and security reforms, and other reforms as requested by the Secretary-General, as well as the alignment of the various reform streams. The Chef de Cabinet also oversees the efforts of the Organization to advance equitable geographical distribution and gender parity, to prevent sexual exploitation and abuse and to address racism within the Organization. The Chef de Cabinet chairs the Management Committee, the Management Performance Board, the High-level Steering Group on preventing sexual exploitation and abuse and the Senior Emergency Policy Team. The Chef de Cabinet also oversees the work of, and substantive support provided to, those bodies and the Standing Principals' Group. The Chef de Cabinet provides direction and oversees the overall management of the Executive Office and directly oversees the Political, Peacekeeping, Humanitarian and Human Rights Unit, the Strategic Communication and Speechwriting Unit, the Office of the Spokesperson, the Senior Leadership Appointment Team and the Central Records Unit.

Office of the Secretary-General

1.65 The Office of the Secretary-General provides support and assistance to the Secretary-General. The Office liaises with the Deputy Secretary-General and the Chef de Cabinet, and conveys the guidance of the Secretary-General. It reviews and clears documentation, correspondence, notes, letters, reports and statements. The Office oversees the scheduling of meetings and events, the preparation of scenarios and the travel of the Secretary-General, and is responsible for preparation for scheduled activities, including consolidating background notes, key messages, remarks and speeches, and liaising with permanent missions.

Central Records Unit

1.66 The Central Records Unit manages all incoming correspondence for the Secretary-General and for the principals of the Executive Office of the Secretary-General, including the Deputy Secretary-General, the Chef de Cabinet and unit chiefs. It also provides records management services, advice to Office staff on information sensitivity, classification and handling, document management and quick reference services.

Senior Leadership Appointment Team

1.67 The Senior Leadership Appointment Team applies expert institutional knowledge to produce well-informed advice for the Chef de Cabinet in managing the appointments of senior leadership for the approval of the Secretary-General. Senior leadership appointments refer to those appointments at the Under-Secretary-General, Assistant Secretary-General and Director levels.

Office of the Spokesperson

1.68 The Office of the Spokesperson for the Secretary-General provides information to the media on the work of the Secretary-General and the United Nations system as a whole through daily briefings, direct responses to media enquiries, press conferences, background briefings and interviews with the Secretary-General, the Deputy Secretary-General and other senior officials. The Office provides advice on media relations to the Secretary-General, the Deputy Secretary-General and United Nations officials. Personnel of the Office travel with the Secretary-General, keep him or her abreast of breaking news, interact with media to ensure coverage of the activities of the Secretary-General, and ensure that all statements made are placed on record.

Political, Peacekeeping, Humanitarian and Human Rights Unit

1.69 The responsibilities of the Political, Peacekeeping, Humanitarian and Human Rights Unit include working closely with the relevant line departments to provide situational awareness, trend analysis and advice on emerging and ongoing issues of interest and concern across the political, peacekeeping, humanitarian and human rights portfolios; supporting senior management decision-making on country situations and relevant thematic files; ensuring effective and coordinated United Nations system analysis, reporting and response on situations of interest and concern; ensuring policy oversight and quality assurance of various communications and reports of the Secretary-General on political, peacekeeping, humanitarian or human rights issues; providing high-quality and well-coordinated input to public and private communications; and ensuring that human rights concerns are adequately reflected in the above-mentioned work. The Unit also plays a critical role in supporting the Secretary-General in the implementation of the relevant peace and security actions in the Pact for the Future.

Rule of Law Unit

1.70 The Rule of Law Unit acts as a catalyst of action in strengthening United Nations activities to promote the rule of law. The Unit serves as the focal point in the Executive Office for legal questions, the rule of law, counter-terrorism and the prevention of violent extremism, international justice and accountability, organized crime and drugs, transitional justice and anti-corruption, and provides support for the system-wide coordination, coherence and quality of rule of law activities of the United Nations. It develops system-wide strategies, policy direction, best practice materials and guidance for the Organization in promoting the fundamental importance of the rule of law. The Unit provides quality assurance of, and input for, various communications and reports of the Secretary-General on rule of law issues. Moreover, the Unit provides support to the Rule of Law Coordination and Resource Group in carrying out the tasks set out in the related report of the Secretary-General

(A/61/636-S/2006/980) and implementing the New Vision of the Secretary-General for the Rule of Law, and leads the preparation of the Secretary-General's annual report on the rule of law.

Scheduling and Travel Unit

1.71 The Scheduling and Travel Unit oversees the scheduling of meetings, events and travel of the Secretary-General, handling requests for invitations and individual meetings in consultation with departments, offices and units. The responsibilities of the Unit include preparation for scheduled activities (meetings, events and travel), including the consolidation of briefing materials, the preparation of scenarios and the organization of the travel of the Secretary-General.

Strategic Communication and Speechwriting Unit

1.72 The Strategic Communication and Speechwriting Unit provides communications advice and support to the Secretary-General. The Unit drafts speeches, video messages, op-ed articles and other materials for delivery by the Secretary-General. The Unit also works with communications colleagues and others across the United Nations system on strategic planning and crisis communications; helps formulate key messaging; ensures that the Secretary-General's speeches and messages are disseminated as widely as possible; and provides speech support to the Deputy Secretary-General and other senior officials in the Executive Office.

Strategic Planning and Monitoring Unit

1.73 The Strategic Planning and Monitoring Unit provides support for strategic decision-making, priority-setting, forward planning, analysis and advice, and risk and change management to foster alignment across the United Nations system, including on science and emerging and frontier issues. The Unit ensures strategic direction and coherence in planning frameworks, and supports analyses, reviews, assessments and plans for integrated United Nations response efforts, with a focus on crisis-affected and fragile settings, including the preparation of strategic options for engagement based on information from the United Nations system. The Unit translates the guidance of the Secretary-General into strategic directives. It also supports institutional coherence on system-wide capabilities in the areas of artificial intelligence, data, digital technology, foresight and behavioural science to support the Organization in offering solutions to the challenges of the twenty-first century.

Pact for the Future Implementation Team

1.74 The Pact for the Future Implementation Team was established following the Summit of the Future to coordinate, facilitate and support the United Nations system's implementation of the Pact for the Future and its annexes: the Global Digital Compact and the Declaration on Future Generations. This includes serving as the secretariat to the steering committee for implementation of the Pact, which is chaired by the Secretary-General, tracking and reporting on implementation efforts across the United Nations system, and ensuring clear communication of progress. The Team also supports regular engagement with Member States and a broad range of stakeholders, in partnership with relevant United Nations entities, to advance implementation efforts. Finally, the Team works closely with relevant Secretariat entities to lay the groundwork to support formal reviews of the Pact and its annexes by Member States in 2027 and 2028, helping to ensure that these milestones are substantive, inclusive and forward-looking.

Sustainable Development Unit

1.75 The Sustainable Development Unit supports strategic engagement on sustainable development, guided by the 2030 Agenda, the Addis Ababa Action Agenda of the Third International Conference on Financing for Development, the Sevilla Commitment, the Paris Agreement and other relevant intergovernmentally agreed commitments. The Unit supports the Secretary-General and Deputy Secretary-General in mobilizing ambition and action aimed at accelerating Sustainable Development Goal progress. The Unit has helped shape the narrative on key global issues and sharpened the United Nations system's focus on catalytic Goal transitions that unlock transformative policy change and finance at scale. Priority areas under the responsibility of the Unit include financing for development; energy, climate action and environmental sustainability; digitalization; food systems; jobs and social protection; global health; water and sanitation; education; and migration and development. The Unit's work is anchored in cross-pillar collaboration and the intrinsic link between peace, stability and sustainable development. Under the "leave no one behind" pillar, priority attention is consistently given to gender equality, youth engagement and the inclusion of persons with disabilities, Indigenous Peoples and local communities. The work of the Unit remains instrumental in supporting the implementation of the Pact for the Future, consolidating the United Nations development system's repositioning, and strengthening a culture of collaboration across the system, as well as with external stakeholders and partners.

1.78 As shown in table 1.44 (1), the overall resources proposed for 2027 amount to $15,651,700, reflecting an increase of $534,000 (or 3.5 per cent) compared with the approved budget for 2026. Resource changes result from technical adjustments, new and expanded mandates and other changes. The proposed level of resources provides for the full, efficient and effective implementation of mandates.

Explanation of variances by factor

Overall resource changes

Technical adjustments

1.79 As shown in tables 1.44 (1) and 1.45 (1), the decrease of $217,700 relates to the phased abolition of four posts (1 Under-Secretary-General, 1 P-5 and 2 General Service (Other level)) approved by the General Assembly in its resolution 80/242 with an effective date in 2026 but later than 1 January.

New and expanded mandates

1.80 As shown in table 1.44 (1), resource changes reflect an increase of $460,000 under other staff costs relating to the proposed establishment of two general temporary assistance positions (1 P-5 and 1 P-2), in accordance with General Assembly resolution 80/251, and an increase of $5,200 under non-post resources associated with the proposed establishment of those two positions under contractual services ($3,600), general operating expenses ($1,200) and supplies and materials ($400).

1.81 In its resolution 80/251 on mandate creation, implementation and review for an efficient and effective United Nations, the General Assembly, inter alia, requested the Secretary-General, including in her/his capacity as Chair of CEB, to facilitate coordination and the assignment of implementation responsibilities among Secretariat entities and across the United Nations system, as appropriate, based on comparative and collaborative advantage, and consistent with decisions of the respective intergovernmental mandating organs. Accordingly, it is proposed to establish two general temporary assistance positions to enable the Executive Office of the Secretary-General to dedicate capacity to systematizing comparative and collaborative advantage reviews, thereby informing the assignment of implementation responsibilities among Secretariat entities, in coordination with the CEB secretariat, as follows:

(a) Senior Programme Management Officer (P-5): The incumbent would provide senior-level programme management and substantive support for systematizing the required reviews and advice requested by Member States, including mandated reports, mandate implementation reviews, system-wide results management and system-wide coordination mechanisms. The position is required at the P-5 level to lead engagement with senior leaders across the Secretariat and the United Nations system, resolve interdepartmental and inter-agency issues, provide authoritative advice on intergovernmental and system-wide processes, and ensure coherent, timely and strategically aligned inputs for consideration by Member States;

(b) Associate Data Analyst (P-2): Under the guidance of the Senior Programme Management Officer, the incumbent would support the collection, cleaning, consolidation and validation of system-wide quantitative and qualitative data; maintain structured data sets and analytical trackers; assist in the development of indicators, baselines and progress dashboards; and contribute to data analysis and visualization for reporting on mandated reports, mandate implementation reviews, system-wide results management and other analytical inputs requested by Member States.

Other changes

1.82 As shown in table 1.44 (1), resource changes reflect a net increase of $286,500, comprising: (a) an increase of $313,800 under posts and $10,000 under other staff costs related to adjustments to standards applicable to posts and positions; (b) a decrease of $38,200 under posts due to the proposed reclassification of one post of Assistant Secretary-General to Director (D-2) (see annex II to the present report); and (c) a net increase of $900 under contractual services due to anticipated changes in price levels of printing and data processing services ($3,100), offset in part by slightly lower standard costs for the core software package at United Nations Headquarters ($2,200).

Other assessed resources

1.83 As reflected in tables 1.44 (2) and 1.45 (2), other assessed resources amount to $1,165,300. The resources would complement regular budget resources and provide for the requirements indicated in the report of the Secretary-General on the budget for the support account for peacekeeping operations for the period from 1 July 2026 to 30 June 2027 (A/80/631).

Extrabudgetary resources

1.84 As reflected in tables 1.44 (3) and 1.45 (3), extrabudgetary resources amount to $6,785,600, reflecting a decrease of $13,726,500 (or 66.9 per cent). The resources would complement regular budget resources and would be used to provide for 23 posts (1 D-2, 1 D-1, 6 P-5, 5 P-4, 5 P-3, 1 P-2 and 4 General Service (Other level)) and non-post resources that would be used to support the delivery of mandates, including supporting the Secretary-General in his or her responsibilities and the Executive Office's activities in all regions of the world, providing support for the financing of activities related to the maintenance of international peace and security, and providing for special projects to be undertaken by the Office.

1.85 The extrabudgetary resources under the present section are subject to the oversight of the Executive Office, under delegated authority from the Secretary-General.

1.86 Information on the timely submission of documentation and advance booking for air travel is reflected in table 1.47. The vast majority of the travel undertaken in the Executive Office is in connection with the formal delegations of the Secretary-General and of the Deputy Secretary-General. The official visits of the Secretary-General and of the Deputy Secretary-General involve complex preparation and logistical arrangements with respect to the agenda and scheduling with numerous high-level government officials. Therefore, such preparations are, in many cases, finalized close to the departure date and are subject to last-minute changes. Furthermore, the official visits, in most cases, involve multiple consecutive meetings in different countries and regions in order to save financial resources that would have been otherwise incurred had the travel been to a single destination with a round trip to New York. Hence, the coordination of these multiple-leg trips with numerous high-level participants is more complex and involves additional extensive preparations with unforeseen circumstances. It should be noted that the Executive Office often works directly with the Travel Unit and reserves the tickets on the basis of a preliminary itinerary to secure the tickets at a low price, before the formal actions are recorded in Umoja, which are then completed at a later stage, once final information is confirmed. The Executive Office is mindful of and takes the utmost efforts to achieve improved compliance with the advance booking of air travel policy.

Overall resource changes

Other changes

1.105 As shown in tables 1.63 (1) and 1.64 (1), resource changes reflect a net increase of $27,300, comprising: (a) an increase of $25,300 under posts and $100 under other staff costs related to adjustments to standards applicable to posts and positions; (b) an increase of $1,200 under contractual services due to higher standard costs for the core software package for non-field personnel outside of United Nations Headquarters; and (c) an increase of $700 under general operating expenses due to anticipated changes in price levels of communications services.

Extrabudgetary resources

1.106 As reflected in tables 1.63 (2) and 1.64 (2), extrabudgetary resources amount to $317,200, reflecting a decrease of $7,400 (or 2.3 per cent). The resources would complement regular budget resources and would be used mainly to provide for one post (General Service (Other level)) and non-post resources that would be used to support the implementation of activities of the Office of the Director-General, including serving as the representative of the Secretary-General and performing representation and liaison functions with host Government, permanent missions and intergovernmental organizations and NGOs based in Nairobi.

1.107 The extrabudgetary resources under the present section are subject to the oversight of the Director-General of the United Nations Office at Nairobi (Under-Secretary-General), under delegated authority from the Secretary-General.

1.108 Information on the advance booking for air travel is reflected in table 1.66. The Office of the Director-General continues to plan and monitor travel activities in close collaboration with processing offices, including the Travel Unit, to improve compliance with the advance booking of air travel policy.

IV. Office of the Special Representative of the Secretary-General for Children and Armed Conflict

A. Proposed programme plan for 2027 and programme performance in 2025

Overall orientation

Mandates and background

1.109 The Special Representative of the Secretary-General for Children and Armed Conflict is responsible for the protection of children affected by armed conflict and for advocating to end and prevent the six grave violations against children identified by the Security Council from occurring in the first place. The six grave violations are the denial of humanitarian access for children (resolution 1261 (1999)); the recruitment and use of children (resolution 1379 (2001)); the killing and maiming of children (resolution 1882 (2009)); rape and other forms of sexual violence against children (ibid.); attacks on schools and hospitals (resolution 1998 (2011)); and the abduction of children (resolution 2225 (2015)). The Office of the Special Representative works primarily in the situations of armed conflict or of concern identified in the annual report of the Secretary-General on children and armed conflict. The Office covers 22 situations in 5 geographical regions and promotes enhanced monitoring and reporting at the subregional level in the Lake Chad basin and central Sahel regions, in accordance with the 2025 report of the Secretary-General on children and armed conflict (A/79/878-S/2025/247).

1.110 The mandate was established by the General Assembly in its resolution 51/77, in which the Assembly outlined key priorities of the mandate of the Special Representative, which were further formulated and shaped in subsequent Assembly resolutions and decisions, including resolution 58/245, as well as Security Council resolution 1261 (1999) and subsequent Council resolutions. The key elements of the mandate of the Special Representative are therefore to: (a) provide political leadership and high-level advocacy for the improved protection of children affected by armed conflict; (b) lead the collection of information and reporting on the plight of these children; (c) advocate, build awareness of and give prominence to ending and preventing grave violations; (d) work with United Nations partners, Member States, civil society and pertinent intergovernmental bodies to propose ideas, undertake research and facilitate discussions on the best approaches to enhance the protection response for children in situations of armed conflict, including through improved accountability processes; (e) undertake diplomatic engagement with parties to armed conflict and affected Member States in order to secure commitments to end and prevent violations against children; and (f) facilitate the work of operational child protection actors on the ground through the development and promotion of best practices, such as ensuring that child protection issues are included in peace processes, appropriate release procedures are in place, reintegration programmes are strengthened to avoid re-recruitment opportunities, child protection expertise and capacity are reinforced, and regional and national prevention plans and policies against the six grave violations are promoted.

1.111 By its resolution 80/190, the General Assembly recommended that the Secretary-General extend the mandate of the Special Representative for an additional period of four years, until 2029. As of 2027, it is proposed that a single post will serve a dual role, concurrently comprising the responsibilities of the Special Representative of the Secretary-General for Children and Armed Conflict and the Special Representative of the Secretary-General on Violence against Children, with one incumbent heading the two distinct offices focused on their respective mandates.

Programme of work

Objective

1.112 The objective, to which the Office contributes, is to eradicate the six grave violations committed against children in situations of armed conflict through strengthened mechanisms for the protection of children used in armed conflict, prevent these violations from occurring in the first place, and improve measures to better protect children in situations of armed conflict, including by ensuring that children are placed at the centre of peace negotiations and securing optimal conditions for the release and reintegration of children, thereby avoiding re-recruitment and contributing to sustainable peace.

Strategy and external factors for 2027

1.113 To contribute to the objective, the Office will strengthen mechanisms for the protection of children used in armed conflict, prevent these violations from occurring in the first place, and improve measures to better protect conflict-affected children. Specifically, the Office will:

(a) Monitor and report on violations against children in situations of armed conflict through the reinforcement of existing child protection capacities on the ground and facilitate information exchanges to identify and mitigate trends in the use of children in armed conflict, including during transition phases of relevant United Nations peace operations, in line with Security Council resolution 2764 (2024), the most recent Council resolution on children and armed conflict;

(b) Enhance its diplomatic engagement, including through direct dialogue and/or country visits by the Special Representative, with parties to armed conflict to promote ending and preventing the use and abuse of children, and continue to advocate the protection of children affected by conflict and the prevention of grave violations against them through analysis, public outreach and targeted support, as well as the development of groups of friends of the mandate in affected States and regions;

(c) Develop community, national, subregional and regional prevention plans, as well as other preventive measures, guided by Security Council resolutions 2427 (2018) and 2601 (2021), while promoting the adoption of international norms and standards for the protection of children by Member States;

(d) Analyse the best practices emerging from ongoing activities to stop grave violations committed against children and promote the continued roll-out of specific public awareness campaigns in all countries and regions where there is active armed conflict and, whenever possible, in all official languages of the United Nations;

(e) Develop curricula with partners, conduct training for defence and security personnel and assist in capacity-building for governing structures, United Nations partners, academics and civil society;

(f) Undertake research into the six grave violations, with a focus on the recruitment and use of children, provide guidelines, as relevant, to assist in their monitoring, promote the comprehensive discussion of reintegration needs and promote the inclusion of child protection issues into peace processes;

(g) Organize and participate in seminars, workshops, conferences and other relevant meetings, including with regard to the implementation of the Pact for the Future and the working group on peace and security, to raise awareness of child protection and prevention best practices and proposed best international standards on the protection and release of children who are victims of the six grave violations;

(h) Enhance data analysis and information management capacity to better capture the differentiated protection needs of children, including on the basis of age, gender and disability, and whether they are on the move, internally displaced, refugees or victims of cross-border trafficking, and the factors that can exacerbate their vulnerability, such as climate change, poverty and inequality, the proliferation of and illicit trafficking in arms, the impact of landmines, explosive remnants of war and improvised explosive devices, and the impact of new technologies;

(i) Support Member States in making progress towards the achievement of the Sustainable Development Goals, including Goals 3, 4, 5 and 8, in particular target 8.7 on the eradication of child labour, including the recruitment and use of child soldiers; Goals 10 and 16, in particular target 16.2 on ending abuse, exploitation, trafficking and all forms of violence against and torture of children; and Goal 17, in particular target 17.18 on enhancing capacity-building support to increase significantly the availability of high-quality, timely and reliable data disaggregated by income, gender, age, race, ethnicity, migratory status, disability, geographical location and other characteristics.

1.114 The above-mentioned work is expected to result in:

(a) A decrease in the number of violations committed against children in armed conflict and an increase in the number of children released by armed forces and groups and reintegrated, including through repatriation and removal from situations of armed conflict, in line with the commitments agreed to in action plans, handover and release protocols, other commitments and mutually agreed practices;

(b) Stronger national and regional protection and prevention systems and accountability mechanisms through justice, remediation and reparations processes, involving Member States, to address gaps in knowledge, common standards and procedures for dealing with children under threat;

(c) Strengthened efforts to protect children, including those threatened by intercommunal violence and the emergence of new parties to armed conflict, and specific groups of children at risk;

(d) Increased mitigation capacity of Governments to prevent violations and ensure equal access to and the continuation of education in conflict;

(e) An international political consensus that tailored, systematic and sustainable reintegration support should be provided to all released children, including those repatriated or removed from armed conflict zones, and that child protection issues should be included in all peace processes, in order to break the cycle of violence;

(f) Enhanced capacity of Member States and United Nations country task forces on monitoring and reporting, and their equivalents in countries where there is no monitoring and reporting mechanism in place, to support children and vulnerable communities on the ground and to ensure the continuity, effectiveness and sustainability of child protection activities, including during mission transitions or withdrawals;

(g) Increased participation of children in decision-making processes relating to issues that have an impact on them, including their protection and reintegration needs, in accordance with the Convention on the Rights of the Child.

1.115 With regard to external factors, the overall plan for 2027 is based on the following planning assumptions:

(a) The political environment would be supportive for the improved measures put in place to end and prevent violations committed against children in situations of armed conflict in all situations of the children and armed conflict agenda;

(b) The political environment would be supportive of international human rights law, in particular the rights of the child, and international humanitarian law, in particular the special respect and protections afforded to children;

(c) The dynamics of contemporary armed conflict in which children are normally victimized allow for access to monitor and assist in the implementation of these measures.

1.116 With regard to cooperation with other entities at the global, regional, national and local levels, the Office will continue to garner support for the protection of children in armed conflict, including through engagement with Member States and groups of friends on children and armed conflict, to keep the plight of conflict-affected children high on the global political agenda and to advocate the ratification and implementation of the Convention on the Rights of the Child and its Optional Protocol on the involvement of children in armed conflict, and the endorsement of political commitments. The Office will reinforce partnerships with regional and subregional actors for the adoption of measures to prevent grave violations before they occur and engage with mediation actors to encourage the inclusion of child protection issues in mediation and peace processes. The Office will also work closely with civil society organizations, communities, academia and research institutes to build expertise and raise awareness of the protection of children in armed conflict.

1.117 With regard to inter-agency coordination and liaison, the Office will continue to support country task forces on monitoring and reporting on grave violations against children and engage with parties to conflict to strengthen advocacy for the adoption of measures to end and prevent these violations, including through capacity-building initiatives. The Office will continue to support the dissemination of technical guidelines through the Monitoring and Reporting Mechanism Technical Reference Group, an inter-agency group bringing together the Office, the United Nations Children's Fund (UNICEF), the Department of Peace Operations and the Department of Political and Peacebuilding Affairs to provide guidance to United Nations partners implementing the mandate in the field. The Office will also support the exchange of information within the Task Force on Children and Armed Conflict at United Nations Headquarters. In addition, the Office will continue to strengthen its cooperation with the Offices of the Special Representative of the Secretary-General on Violence against Children and the Special Representative of the Secretary-General on Sexual Violence in Conflict, notably with regard to monitoring and reporting on sexual violence affecting children, through information exchange, common messaging and joint events and initiatives, for a more effective and coordinated advocacy to ensure that the plight of conflict-affected children is visible on the international agenda.

1.118 The Office integrates a gender perspective into its operational activities, deliverables and results, as appropriate. In 2027, the Office will continue to mainstream a gender perspective into the Monitoring and Reporting Mechanism to strengthen its gender-sensitive analyses of grave violations against children in armed conflict, including through enhanced data analysis and support for the capacity-building activities of its field partners. The Office will follow up on the outcomes of a specialized workshop delivered to country task forces on monitoring and reporting in 2023 through a review of the draft tipsheet for strengthening gender analysis in monitoring and reporting and examine the operationalization of the workshop's report and recommendations within the Monitoring and Reporting Mechanism Technical Reference Group, which provides guidance to field-based United Nations monitors of grave violations committed against children in armed conflict. The Special Representative will continue advocacy for the protection of girls' education from attacks, including within the framework of the endorsement and implementation of the Safe Schools Declaration. The Office will also ensure that the platforms that it creates, alongside partners, will allow for the voices of children to be heard in relevant forums and for the differentiated experience between girls and boys to be highlighted. Wherever possible, the Office will mainstream a gender perspective and examine the intersection between gender and other factors in the research that it conducts and the lessons learned and best practices that it collects and disseminates on the protection of conflict-affected children. The Office will also develop a concise policy aimed at more systematically integrating a gender perspective into its work.

1.119 In line with the United Nations Disability Inclusion Strategy, the Office will strengthen its efforts to address the protection requirements of children with disabilities in armed conflict. The Office will build on the discussion paper on the protection of children with disabilities in armed conflict published in 2023 by continuing to disseminate its conclusions and advocating with partners for the implementation of its recommendations, including the strengthening of data collection on children with disabilities in armed conflict; the consultation of persons with disabilities, including children, and the organizations that represent them; and the provision of awareness-raising and capacity-building initiatives on disability inclusion. The Office will continue its advocacy efforts to raise awareness of the plight of children with disabilities in armed conflict, and mainstream disability inclusion and its intersection with other diversity factors.

Adjustments arising from the UN80 Initiative

1.120 The proposed programme plan for 2027 reflects efforts of the programme to implement all mandates in a more efficient and effective manner.

1.121 The Office will be guided by any future decisions taken in the context of the UN80 Initiative, in accordance with the applicable rules and procedures, including decisions, resolutions and established practice of the competent intergovernmental organs. This includes any decisions concerning the proposal for a single post to serve a dual role, concurrently comprising the responsibilities of the Special Representative of the Secretary-General for Children and Armed Conflict and the Special Representative of the Secretary-General on Violence against Children, as part of the review of thematic and geographic envoys.

Evaluation activities

1.122 An evaluation by the Office of Internal Oversight Services (OIOS) of children and armed conflict in peacekeeping operations, completed in 2025, has guided the proposed programme plan for 2027.

1.123 In response to the results of the evaluation referenced above, the Office will initiate a review of the handover of the political tasks related to the children and armed conflict mandate during mission drawdown, withdrawal and exit through the Monitoring and Reporting Mechanism Technical Reference Group at Headquarters (consisting of the Office, the Department of Peace Operations, the Department of Political and Peacebuilding Affairs and UNICEF), including a review of existing guidelines.

Programme performance in 2025

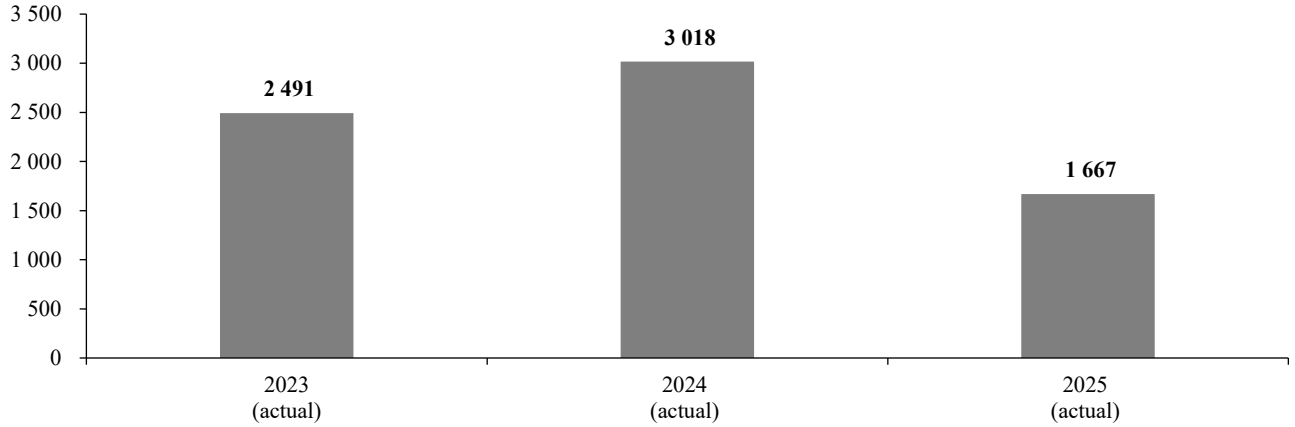

Decrease in the verified number of children in detention

1.124 As stipulated in article 37 (b) of the Convention on the Rights of the Child, the detention of children should be used only as a measure of last resort and for the shortest appropriate period of time. While detention is not one of the six grave violations against children in armed conflict, the number of children deprived of liberty for alleged or actual association with parties to conflict remains a significant concern, as detention may expose children to further protection risks, impede their recovery and reintegration and undermine efforts to treat children associated with parties to conflict primarily as victims entitled to protection and reintegration support, in line with Security Council resolution 2427 (2018). The Office has engaged in sustained advocacy with Member States and with parties to conflict to adopt specific measures to end and prevent the detention of children for association with parties to conflict, such as the establishment of handover protocols to ensure their safe transfer to civilian child protection actors. In contexts like Haiti and Yemen, for example, the adoption and implementation of handover protocols for the transfer of children allegedly associated with armed groups led to the actual release of dozens of detained children to civilian actors. In the Democratic Republic of the Congo, Nigeria and Somalia, engagement with the authorities led to the transfer of children to civilian actors for reintegration purposes. The Office also monitors and reports on the number of children deprived of liberty for alleged or actual association with parties to conflict. After a sharp increase in 2024 due to the emergence of new conflicts and the intensification of existing conflict situations, the verified number of children in detention declined in 2025, notwithstanding deteriorating political and security conditions across several situations on the children and armed conflict agenda.

Performance measure: verified number of children in detention (annual)

Planned results for 2027

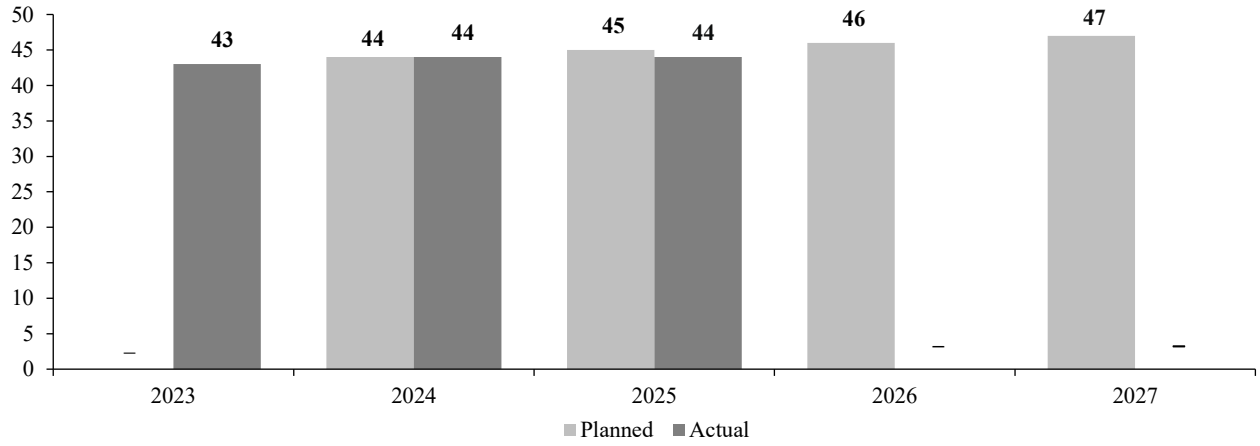

Result 1: increase in the signature of action plans, handover protocols and other commitments between the United Nations and parties to conflict to end and prevent grave violations against children

Programme performance in 2025 and target for 2027

1.126 The Office's work contributed to the adoption and implementation of measures to protect children in countries on the children and armed conflict agenda, including steps which could lead to the signature of action plans, such as in Myanmar and the Sudan, which did not meet the planned target of one additional action plan signed in 2025. The target was not met because although three action plans were under discussion in three different contexts, the listed parties had not yet agreed to their adoption by the end of 2025.

1.127 Progress towards the objective and the target for 2027 are presented in the performance measure below (see figure 1.XII).

Performance measure: number of joint action plans, handover protocols and other commitments between the United Nations and parties to conflict to end and prevent grave violations against children (cumulative)

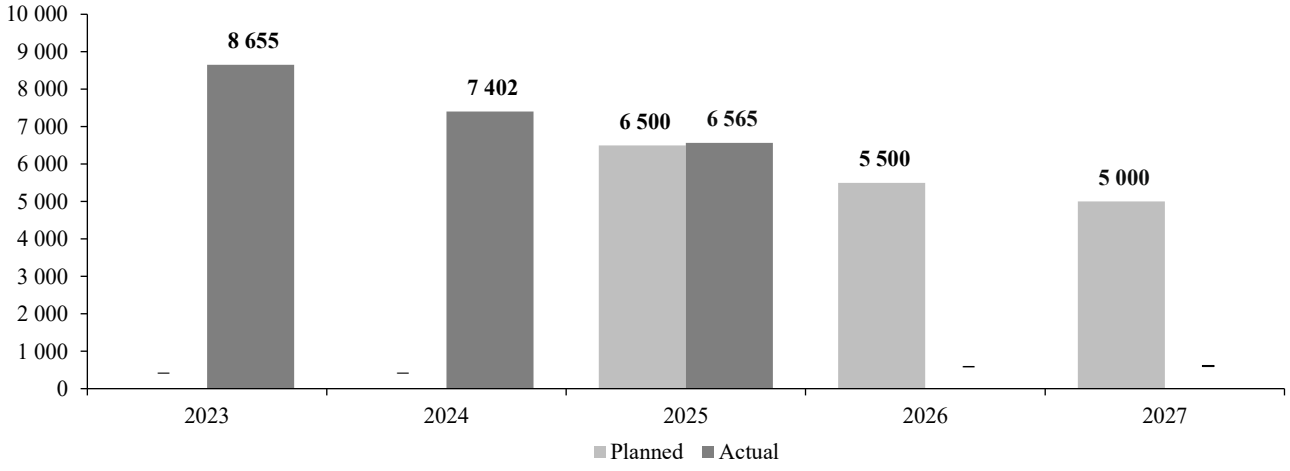

Result 2: decrease in the number of children recruited and used by parties to conflict in situations of armed conflict

Programme performance in 2025 and target for 2027

1.128 The programme's work contributed to a decrease in the number of children recruited or used by parties to conflict in situations of armed conflict to 6,565 children, which did not meet the planned target of 6,500 children. Despite the progress achieved, the target was not met due to escalating conflicts in situations on the children and armed conflict agenda.

1.129 Progress towards the objective and the target for 2027 are presented in the performance measure below (see figure 1.XIII).

Performance measure: number of children recruited or used by parties to conflict in situations of armed conflict (annual)

Result 3: more children released from armed forces and armed groups

Proposed programme plan for 2027

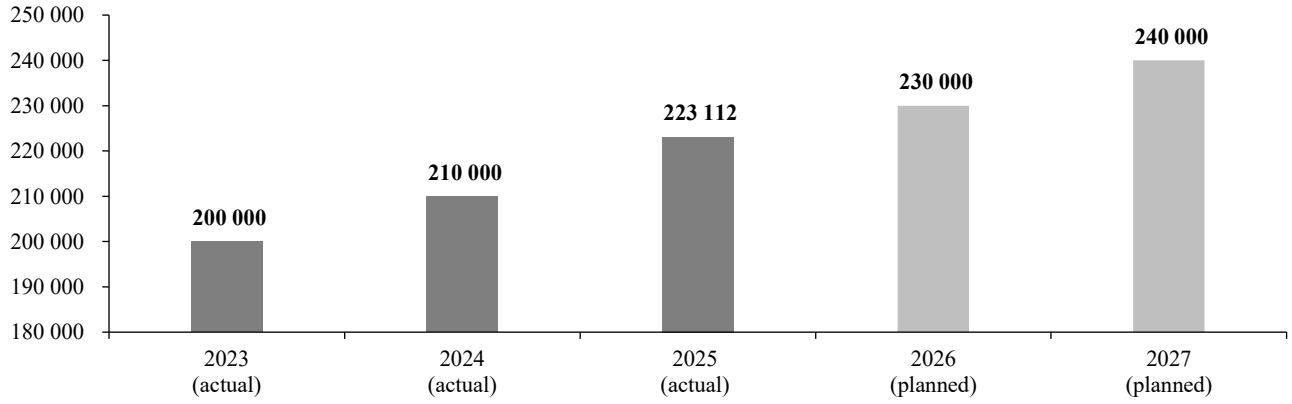

1.130 The recruitment and use of children in armed conflict constitutes one of the six grave violations identified by the Security Council and remains a core focus of the Office's monitoring, reporting and engagement with parties to conflict. Most action plans and related commitments concluded between the United Nations and parties to conflict include provisions for the release of children, the establishment of handover protocols to ensure their safe transfer to child protection actors, and measures to prevent future recruitment. To support partners involved in the reintegration of children formerly associated with armed forces and groups, the Office, in partnership with the United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization (UNESCO), published guidance for teachers and educators, aimed at equipping them with the skills and knowledge to understand and address these children's complex educational needs and support their reintegration into society.

Lessons learned and planned change

1.131 The lesson for the Office, based on its research and the experience of its partners delivering reintegration programming, was that the timely release of children, their safe handover to child protection services and the provision of reintegration support are essential peacebuilding measures. These interventions help prevent relapse into conflict and contribute to post-conflict recovery, long-term peace and sustainable development. In applying the lesson, the Office will intensify direct engagement with parties to conflict and reinforce support for United Nations partners, through capacity-building and efforts to maintain or strengthen child protection presence on the ground, in order to secure the release and handover of children. It will also advance the operationalization of its guidance for teachers and educators, including by disseminating the guidance among policymakers and United Nations partners, while engaging with conflict-affected countries to support its roll-out and practical application. The Office will further enhance advocacy to promote the integration of comprehensive measures for prevention, protection, justice and reparations for child victims in a future convention on the prevention and punishment of crimes against humanity.

1.132 Expected progress towards the objective is presented in the performance measure below (see figure 1.XIV).

Explanation of variances by factor

Overall resource changes

Technical adjustments

1.138 The increase of $47,900 relates to the higher provision at continuing vacancy rates for the General Service (Other level) post established in 2026 pursuant to General Assembly resolution 80/242, which was subject to a 50 per cent vacancy rate in accordance with the established practice for newly established posts.

Other changes

1.139 As shown in tables 1.71 (1) and 1.72 (1), resource changes reflect a net increase of $58,700, comprising: (a) an increase of $55,400 under posts and $3,400 under other staff costs related to adjustments to standards applicable to posts and positions; (b) a decrease of $400 under contractual services due to slightly lower standard costs for the core software package at United Nations Headquarters; and (c) an increase of $300 under general operating expenses due to anticipated changes in price levels of communications services.

Extrabudgetary resources

1.140 As reflected in tables 1.71 (2) and 1.72 (2), extrabudgetary resources amount to $2,544,900. The resources would complement regular budget resources and would be used mainly to provide for three posts (1 P-4, 1 P-3 and 1 General Service (Other level)) and non-post resources that would be used to support various activities of the Office, including the enhancement of its capacity and expertise; support for public outreach and advocacy campaigns; and the enhancement of analysis, assessment and responses to new and emerging trends in violations against children in armed conflict.

1.141 The extrabudgetary resources under the present section are subject to the oversight of the Special Representative (Under-Secretary-General), under delegated authority from the Secretary-General.

1.142 Information on the timely submission of documentation and advance booking for air travel is reflected in table 1.74. While the Office makes every effort to follow the advance booking of air travel policy, it is not always possible to comply owing to unforeseen circumstances, such as receiving invitations to high-level events hosted by Member States or regional organizations less than three weeks before the event. In addition, owing to the nature of the mandate, political opportunities and openings arise unexpectedly that require staff to travel at short notice to seize such opportunities and advance the implementation of the mandate. The Office will continue to strive to improve the planning of its travel to improve its compliance with the advance booking of air travel policy.

V. Office of the Special Representative of the Secretary-General on Sexual Violence in Conflict

A. Proposed programme plan for 2027 and programme performance in 2025

Overall orientation

Mandates and background

1.143 The Office of the Special Representative of the Secretary-General on Sexual Violence in Conflict is responsible, in line with Security Council resolution 1888 (2009), for providing coherent and strategic leadership and promoting the coordination of efforts among relevant stakeholders, through primarily the United Nations Action against Sexual Violence in Conflict, on preventing and addressing sexual violence as a weapon of war and tactic of terrorism and for engaging with justice and security sectors, all parties to armed conflict, civil society and the survivors of such crimes.

1.144 The mandate derives from the priorities established in relevant General Assembly resolutions and/or decisions, including resolution 65/259, by which the Assembly established the Office, following the establishment of the mandate of the Special Representative pursuant to Security Council resolution 1888 (2009). In accordance with resolution 1888 (2009) and subsequent related resolutions and recognizing that conflict-related sexual violence remains underreported and insufficiently addressed, the role of the Special Representative and that of the Office is, among others: (a) to give victims and affected communities a voice; (b) to mobilize the political will and action of the international community, in particular to address the impunity of perpetrators of violations; (c) to foster collaboration and partnerships and broaden the circle of stakeholders on the issue; (d) to coordinate advocacy and programmatic responses, in particular in the United Nations system; (e) to ensure more reliable and comprehensive data on sexual violence in conflict as a basis for action at all levels; and (f) to disseminate information/knowledge on approaches and best practices to address sexual violence in conflict.

1.145 The mandate derives from the priorities established in relevant Security Council resolutions, including 1820 (2008), 1888 (2009), 1960 (2010), 2106 (2013) and 2467 (2019), as well as relevant country-specific and sanctions resolutions that make explicit reference to sexual violence in conflict and the mandate of the Special Representative. Furthermore, the adoption of Council resolutions 2331 (2016) and 2388 (2017) extends the scope of work of the Office to the areas of counter-terrorism, anti-trafficking efforts and related security and justice sector engagement.

Programme of work

Objective

1.146 The objective, to which the Office contributes, is to prevent and eradicate sexual violence as a tactic of war and terrorism and improve the provision of multisectoral services for survivors and the delivery of justice and accountability for such crimes.

Strategy and external factors for 2027

1.147 To contribute to the objective, the Office will continue to:

(a) Monitor and report on sexual violence in conflict to the Security Council and other relevant United Nations bodies, including by establishing monitoring, analysis and reporting arrangements to compile updates from situations of concern;

(b) Provide coherent and strategic leadership for the United Nations system on addressing conflict-related sexual violence, including through the United Nations Action against Sexual Violence in Conflict network to enhance prevention, service provision and system-wide coordination and response, and through the Team of Experts on the Rule of Law and Sexual Violence in Conflict to assist national authorities in strengthening the rule of law to ensure accountability for perpetrators of conflict-related sexual violence;

(c) Engage in advocacy, on behalf of the United Nations system, including through direct dialogue and/or country visits by the Special Representative, with Governments and military and judicial representatives, as well as directly with parties to armed conflict on addressing conflict-related sexual violence, with a priority focus on justice and accountability as a key element of deterrence and prevention;

(d) Support efforts at the country level to prevent and respond to conflict-related sexual violence, including through the deployment of and support for women's protection advisers in situations of conflict, with a particular focus on mission transition contexts and non-mission settings, as well as the development of action plans and curricula and the provision of training for national defence and security forces;

(e) Encourage the United Nations sanctions committees to incorporate sexual violence considerations into their programmes of work pursuant to Security Council resolutions 1960 (2010), 2106 (2013), 2331 (2016) and 2467 (2019);

(f) Enhance the data analysis and information management capacity of the United Nations system to better capture the differentiated protection needs of survivors of conflict-related sexual violence, and the factors that can exacerbate their vulnerability;

(g) Adopt and promote a survivor-centred approach in the implementation of all aspects of the mandate, in coordination with survivors of sexual violence, survivors' networks, civil society, regional organizations and relevant United Nations entities, in particular at the country level.

1.148 In doing so, the Office will support Member States in making progress towards the achievement of Sustainable Development Goals 5 and 16.

1.149 The above-mentioned work is expected to result in:

(a) Adoption of concrete and time-bound commitments to prevent and address incidents, patterns and trends of conflict-related sexual violence, and accelerated implementation of existing political and operational agreements with affected States, including through an increase in the number of measures taken by parties to armed conflict to prevent and protect against conflict-related sexual violence;

(b) Increased access to survivor-centred justice, accountability and reparations for all survivors of conflict-related sexual violence, strengthened capacity of rule of law institutions and accountability mechanisms to deliver justice for such violence at the national level, and an increase in the amount of national legislation related to conflict-related sexual violence aligned with international standards and best practices;

(c) Improved access to holistic services, including medical care, psychosocial support and livelihood support, for all survivors, as well as for children born of conflict-related sexual violence;

(d) The Security Council and other relevant bodies having access to timely and reliable United Nations verified reporting and analysis on trends and patterns of violations and response to conflict-related sexual violence;

(e) Increased capacity, coherence and coordination of the United Nations to prevent and respond to conflict-related sexual violence in line with a survivor-centred and trauma-informed approach;

(f) Increased political consensus in multilateral and national settings that conflict-related sexual violence, in line with Security Council resolutions, should be addressed in peace, ceasefire and other conflict-resolution processes and that survivors should have a role in these processes.

1.150 With regard to the external factors, the overall plan for 2027 is based on the following planning assumptions:

(a) Continued high level of political will on the part of all stakeholders, in particular Member States, to work towards preventing and responding to sexual violence and ending the impunity of persistent perpetrators in situations of armed conflict and other situations of concern;

(b) Member States and other key stakeholders see a convergence between their strategic interests and priorities and upholding the international protection framework that has been established to prevent and address conflict-related sexual violence;

(c) The dynamics of armed conflict allow for access to monitor and assist in the implementation of political commitments to prevent and respond to conflict-related sexual violence;

(d) Adequate extrabudgetary resources continue to be available to support delivery of the mandate.

1.151 With regard to cooperation with other entities at the global, regional, national and local levels, the Office will sustain its engagement with regional and subregional actors and multilateral institutions, including the African Union, the League of Arab States, the European Union, the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, the Organization for Security and Cooperation in Europe, the Economic Community of West African States, the International Conference on the Great Lakes Region, the International Organization of la Francophonie, the Inter-Parliamentary Union and the African Development Bank.

1.152 With regard to inter-agency coordination and liaison, the Office will continue to work through the United Nations Action against Sexual Violence in Conflict network, a coalition of 27 United Nations entities, which is chaired by the Special Representative. The network will continue to provide strategic advocacy, knowledge generation, capacity-building, coordination and catalytic country-level support, guided by the recent system-wide needs assessment of the monitoring, analysis and reporting arrangements on conflict-related sexual violence, including through the formulation and dissemination of joint advocacy products to call upon the international community to provide political and financial support for survivors in situations of conflict, and the development of new resources and technical guidance on emerging issues. Advocacy, coordination and the delivery of expert advice and assistance on the justice and accountability dimensions of the mandate will continue to be conducted through the Team of Experts on the Rule of Law and Sexual Violence in Conflict, which operates under the strategic direction of the Special Representative, and comprises the Office, OHCHR, the United Nations Development Programme and the Department of Peace Operations as the co-lead entities. In addition, the Office will continue to strengthen its cooperation with, inter alia, the Office of the Special Representative of the Secretary-General for Children and Armed Conflict, the Office of the Special Representative of the Secretary-General on Violence against Children, the United Nations Global Counter-Terrorism Coordination Compact, the United Nations resident coordinator system, the Department of Political and Peacebuilding Affairs and the Department of Peace Operations through periodic coordination meetings and information-sharing, to inform joint advocacy and operational strategies related to the prevention of and response to conflict-related sexual violence.

1.153 The Office integrates a gender perspective into its operational activities, deliverables and results, as appropriate. Given the nature of the Office's mandate, which is closely linked to the women and peace and security agenda, all its activities are ultimately aimed at promoting gender equality and women's empowerment, as well as at addressing discrimination and harmful social norms that constitute invisible drivers of conflict-related sexual violence. As such, political commitments negotiated with parties to conflict (e.g. joint communiqués, frameworks of cooperation and implementation plans) will continue to integrate the views of women's civil society organizations and will continue to promote the meaningful participation of women and girls in countries where they are often absent in political and decision-making processes, including peace processes. Prevention strategies and response programming will reflect a tailored approach to address sexual violence against all survivors. Information, including on incidents of conflict-related sexual violence, will continue to be systematically disaggregated by sex to allow for gender-sensitive analysis and better inform action by the Security Council.

1.154 In line with the United Nations Disability Inclusion Strategy, the Office will continue to incorporate issues relating to disability inclusion into policy, advocacy, communications and key substantive aspects of its work, including programming, monitoring and reporting in priority situations. The NGO-civil society advisory group of the Office includes entities representing individuals with disabilities and, through this modality, the Office will continue to engage with individuals with disabilities and with relevant organizations during the course of field missions in priority countries. The Office's staff includes individuals with explicit human rights expertise relating to the rights of persons with disabilities, including those targeted with sexual violence in situations of concern.

Adjustments arising from the UN80 Initiative

1.155 The proposed programme plan for 2027 reflects efforts of the programme to implement all mandates in a more efficient and effective manner and contains no substantive adjustments arising from the UN80 Initiative.

1.156 The Office will be guided by any future decisions taken in the context of the UN80 Initiative, in accordance with the applicable rules and procedures, including decisions, resolutions and established practice of the competent intergovernmental organs.

Programme performance in 2025

Strengthened national ownership to prevent conflict-related sexual violence and deliver justice for survivors: the case of Ukraine

1.157 Since 2022, in response to allegations of conflict-related sexual violence in Ukraine, the Office has led the development and implementation of a comprehensive victim-centred system-wide strategy to prevent and respond to conflict-related sexual violence in that country. Early advocacy, the mobilization of United Nations entities and the political and financial support of Member States, and the early deployment of specialized technical advice and expertise resulted in a unique pioneering model that brought together national authorities, the United Nations, survivor networks and partner organizations. A framework of cooperation was signed between the Special Representative, on behalf of the United Nations system, and the Government of Ukraine in May 2022. The framework's implementation plan was subsequently rapidly developed over a period of two months through extensive co-led consultations and comprehensive stakeholder participation as a unified road map across five priority areas: accountability, trafficking, services, reparations and reform of the security sector. Through its advocacy, the Office mobilized the support of and voluntary funding by Member States to deploy specialized expertise to operationalize commitments under the framework. This included the rapid deployment of: (a) specialized capacity to document and verify allegations; (b) a senior women's protection adviser to the Office of the Resident Coordinator to support coordination and oversee the monitoring and reporting arrangements; (c) specialized coordination and programmatic capacity to the United Nations country team; and (iv) international and national experts within key ministries to strengthen national capacity and support the implementation of the framework's commitments. The Team of Experts on the Rule of Law and Sexual Violence in Conflict supported the development of a survivor-centred, trauma-informed strategy in national investigations and prosecutions, set up national specialized units and delivered training, mentoring and technical guidance. Since 2022, more than 650 prosecutors, investigators, judges and legal aid providers have built specialized skills, including in strategic case-building and trauma-informed interviewing, through scenario-based skills training. In addition, the United Nations Action against Sexual Violence in Conflict network spearheaded a catalytic project bringing together six United Nations entities that delivered multisectoral services to more than 2,200 survivors and supported the creation of survivor relief centres across the country. In 2025, nationwide evaluations and consultations to assess progress on the implementation of the framework were co-led by the Office with the Office of the Gender Commissioner and resulted in an updated implementation plan for 2026 and 2027.

1.158 Progress towards the objective is presented in the performance measure below (see table 1.75).

Table 1.75
Performance measure

2023 (actual)	2024 (actual)	2025 (actual)

Planned results for 2027

Result 1: strengthened service provision and justice response on conflict-related sexual violence by national authorities

Programme performance in 2025 and target for 2027

1.159 The Office's work contributed to the signature of a renewed comprehensive commitment from the Government of the Sudan, including provisions related to the justice and security sector, which met the planned target.

1.160 Progress towards the objective and the target for 2027 are presented in the performance measure below (see table 1.76).

Table 1.76
Performance measure

2023 (actual)	2024 (actual)	2025 (actual)	2026 (planned)	2027 (planned)

Result 2: strengthened judicial response from national authorities to bolster survivor-centred justice and accountability for conflict-related sexual violence

Programme performance in 2025 and target for 2027

1.161 The Office's work, through the Team of Experts on the Rule of Law and Sexual Violence in Conflict, contributed to national authorities in four countries (Central African Republic, Colombia, Democratic Republic of the Congo and Ukraine) conducting investigations of conflict-related sexual violence in line with the Office's technical guidance, which exceeded the planned target of one country.

1.162 Progress towards the objective and the target for 2027 are presented in the performance measure below (see table 1.77).

Performance measure

2023 (actual)	2024 (actual)	2025 (actual)	2026 (planned)	2027 (planned)

Result 3: enhanced compliance with international norms on preventing and addressing conflict-related sexual violence

Proposed programme plan for 2027

1.163 The Office seeks to leverage the tool of sanctions and other targeted measures by the Security Council to enhance compliance with prohibitions of conflict-related sexual violence under international humanitarian law. It does so through political and technical engagement with sanctions committees and other key actors, strengthening institutional linkages with partners and deepening information, analysis and advocacy on sexual violence as a tactic of terrorism.

Lessons learned and planned change

1.164 The lesson for the Office was that sanctions and other targeted measures by the Security Council can enhance compliance by parties to conflict and strengthen prevention, and that expertise on monitoring sexual violence and identifying perpetrators is critical to inform Council action. In applying the lesson, the Office will continue to strengthen collaboration with the panels of experts and monitoring teams of relevant sanctions committees through regular briefings and training on conflict-related sexual violence and continue to channel information to sanctions committees from United Nations monitoring, analysis and reporting arrangements.

1.165 Expected progress towards the objective is presented in the performance measure below (see table 1.78).

Table 1.78
Performance measure

2023 (actual)	2024 (actual)	2025 (actual)	2026 (planned)	2027 (planned)
Increased engagement by United Nations sanctions regimes on trends and patterns of conflict-related sexual violence	Enhanced monitoring and reporting of patterns and trends of conflict-related sexual violence through the extension, by the Security Council, of the mandate of the Analytical Support and Sanctions Monitoring Team (Council resolution 2734 (2024))	Strengthened engagement with non-State armed groups on addressing conflict-related sexual violence	Enhanced capacities of the panels of experts to monitor, investigate and report on conflict-related sexual violence	The panels of experts implement technical guidance on investigations of conflict-related sexual violence

Overall resource changes

Other changes

1.171 As shown in table 1.83 (1), resource changes reflect a net increase of $31,600, comprising: (a) an increase of $31,300 under posts related to adjustments to standards applicable to posts; (b) a decrease of $200 under contractual services due to slightly lower standard costs for the core software package at United Nations Headquarters; and (c) an increase of $500 under general operating expenses due to anticipated changes in price levels of communications services.

Extrabudgetary resources

1.172 As reflected in tables 1.83 (2) and 1.84 (2), extrabudgetary resources amount to $5,816,000, reflecting a decrease of $456,900 (or 7.3 per cent). The resources would complement regular budget resources and would be used mainly to provide for 18 posts (1 D-1, 1 P-5, 5 P-4, 4 P-3, 2 P-2 and 5 General Service (Other level)) and non-post resources that would be used to support the delivery of its mandates, including the engagement of the Team of Experts on the Rule of Law and Sexual Violence in Conflict, mandated pursuant to Security Council resolution 2467 (2019), and support for the secretariat of the United Nations Action against Sexual Violence in Conflict network chaired by the Special Representative.

1.173 The extrabudgetary resources under the present section are subject to the oversight of the Special Representative (Under-Secretary-General), under delegated authority from the Secretary-General.

1.174 Information on the timely submission of documentation and advance booking for air travel is reflected in table 1.86. The majority of travel for the Office is related to the high-level engagements of the Special Representative with priority countries and technical missions to follow up on the formal agreements reached between the Special Representative and national authorities. While every effort is made to ensure advance planning for all official travel, the finalization of travel requests for such missions depends on visa approvals and confirmations of missions and meetings with government interlocutors by the national authorities.

VI. Office of the Special Representative of the Secretary-General on Violence against Children

A. Proposed programme plan for 2027 and programme performance in 2025

Overall orientation

Mandates and background

1.175 The Special Representative of the Secretary-General on Violence against Children is responsible for mobilizing action and political support to prevent and eliminate all forms of violence against children. The mandate of the Office of the Special Representative derives from the priorities established in relevant General Assembly resolutions and decisions, including resolutions 62/141, 67/152, 73/155, 78/187 and 80/190. While noting substantial progress achieved since establishing the mandate of the Special Representative, the Assembly, in renewing the mandate of the Special Representative for a further four-year period until 2029, has recognized the urgency of pursuing further action to ensure the protection of children from violence. As of 2027, it is proposed that a single post will serve a dual role, concurrently comprising the responsibilities of the Special Representative of the Secretary-General on Violence against Children and the Special Representative of the Secretary-General for Children and Armed Conflict, with one incumbent heading the two distinct offices focused on their respective mandates.

Programme of work

Objective

1.176 The objective, to which the Office contributes, is to accelerate action to end all forms of violence against children by 2030.

Strategy and external factors for 2027

1.177 To contribute to the objective, the Office will:

(a) Promote the acceleration of efforts towards the achievement of the Sustainable Development Goals relating to addressing all forms and drivers of violence against children and gender-based violence by undertaking high-level advocacy at the global, regional and national levels in collaboration with key stakeholders;

(b) Support Member States in the implementation of their pledges arising from the first Global Ministerial Conference on Ending Violence against Children;

(c) Support States members of the Pathfinding Global Alliance on Ending Violence against Children, which was noted by the General Assembly in its resolution 80/190 as both a contribution to and accelerator of the prevention and protection of children against violence, in the implementation of their identified priority actions facilitating peer learning and knowledge-sharing among States;

(d) Engage and support political, legislative, programmatic and monitoring processes at the global, regional, national and local levels to strengthen investment in child protection and well-being; conduct country visits in close cooperation with United Nations resident coordinators and regional or country teams; provide technical cooperation and practical guidance to Member States, including with respect to strengthening the collection of data on violence against children; share context-specific promising practices; and enhance demand-driven bilateral and multilateral partnerships;

(e) Increase the attention given to violence against children in the United Nations system, including through leading the Inter-Agency Working Group on Violence against Children and through advocacy for the system-wide mainstreaming of child rights, including the integration of child protection into United Nations programmatic tools, such as the United Nations Sustainable Development Cooperation Frameworks;

(f) Advocate, as Chair of the United Nations task force on children deprived of liberty, for the use of the detention of children to be only a measure of last resort; work towards prevention, rehabilitation and community-based alternatives to deprivation of liberty; and gather and report on promising practices regarding alternatives to detention and institutionalization;

(g) Promote the role of children as agents of change through inclusive child participation in decision-making processes and the documentation and dissemination of child-led and peer-to-peer initiatives;

(h) Promote investment in integrated, cross-sectoral child- and gender-sensitive protection and violence prevention;

(i) Promote child protection as a cross-cutting theme in global, regional and national action to address trafficking in children.

1.178 The above-mentioned work is expected to result in:

(a) Action to prevent and respond to violence against children mainstreamed into law, policy and programmes through costed intersectoral action plans supported by strong monitoring, coordination and information management systems;

(b) Increased awareness of and action on key thematic and frontier issues requiring specific attention;

(c) Sustained investment in cross-sectoral services for children and their caregivers to prevent and respond to violence against children and gender-based violence;

(d) Adoption and effective implementation of prevention measures, rehabilitation and community-based alternatives to the deprivation of liberty of children;

(e) More effective and systematic involvement of children in decision-making processes, including through an increase in safe and empowering pathways provided by States.

1.179 With regard to the external factors, the overall plan for 2027 is based on the following planning assumptions:

(a) Governments have the political commitment and dedicate resources to accelerate action to prevent and end violence against children, in the framework of the Sustainable Development Goals;

(b) Civil society, faith-based organizations, local communities, the donor community and the private sector are committed to working together for and with children.

1.180 With regard to cooperation with other entities at the global, regional, national and local levels, the Office will continue to strengthen cooperation with intergovernmental regional and subregional bodies. The Office will continue to forge regular engagement with United Nations entities, State partners and others, including regional organizations, based away from New York, building on the strong liaison that it has established and ensuring stronger coherence with regard to child protection and well-being frameworks. The Office will pursue strong collaboration with civil society and faith-based organizations and the private sector.

1.181 With regard to inter-agency coordination and liaison, the Office continues to promote and strengthen collaboration within the United Nations system on ending violence against children, including with the members of the Inter-Agency Working Group on Violence against Children, the members of the United Nations task force on children deprived of liberty, the Office of the Special Representative of the Secretary-General for Children and Armed Conflict, the Special Representative of the Secretary-General on Sexual Violence in Conflict, the special procedures of the Human Rights Council, the human rights treaty bodies, the Special Adviser to the Secretary-General on Africa, the United Nations Youth Office, the Office for Digital and Emerging Technologies, the Department of Economic and Social Affairs, and United Nations resident coordinators and country team members.

1.182 The Office integrates a gender perspective into its operational activities, deliverables and results, as appropriate, including in its advocacy to highlight how various forms of violence affect boys and girls differently and how this must inform and shape responses. Addressing gender discrimination and harmful social norms, as well as connections between violence against women and violence against children, is crucial to preventing and responding to violence against children and will continue to constitute an integral part of the Office's work.

1.183 In line with the United Nations Disability Inclusion Strategy and the principle of leaving no child behind, the Office places an emphasis on addressing some of the most vulnerable and neglected children, among whom are children with disabilities. Promoting policies and strategies for alternative means of care will continue to be at the core of the Office's advocacy. The Office will continue to pay particular attention to the inclusion of children with disabilities in all its consultations.

Adjustments arising from the UN80 Initiative

1.184 The proposed programme plan for 2027 reflects efforts of the programme to implement all mandates in a more efficient and effective manner.

1.185 The Office will be guided by any future decisions taken in the context of the UN80 Initiative, in accordance with the applicable rules and procedures, including decisions, resolutions and established practice of the competent intergovernmental organs. This includes any decisions concerning the proposal for a single post to serve a dual role, concurrently comprising the responsibilities of the Special Representative of the Secretary-General on Violence against Children and the Special Representative of the Secretary-General for Children and Armed Conflict, as part of the review of thematic and geographic envoys.

Evaluation activities

1.186 An evaluation, to be conducted by the entity, of its current three-year strategic plan is planned for 2027.

Programme performance in 2025

Strengthened commitment of the private sector to protecting children from violence in the context of travel and tourism

1.187 Many child protection challenges emerge in the context of travel and tourism, whether as a result of offenders moving within or between States or technology-facilitated abuse, or as an unintended result of the activities and operations of the sector itself. As the travel and tourism industry was rebuilding after the coronavirus disease (COVID-19) pandemic, the Special Representative determined that it was a strategic moment to re-engage the sector and put child protection at the core of its sustainability agenda. The Special Representative consequently focused her 2023 annual report to the General Assembly on this theme and re-engaged the industry. She supported the creation of a working group of the World Travel and Tourism Council, leading industry representatives and civil society to identify and share good practices and develop a joint advocacy strategy. Following sustained advocacy by the Special Representative, the World Travel and Tourism Council included child protection as an explicit priority in its social impact work at its annual meeting in October 2024. Another important milestone was the World Travel and Tourism Council summit in September 2025, during which participating chief executive officers committed to incorporate child protection as a key dimension in their companies' sustainability strategies.

1.188 Progress towards the objective is presented in the performance measure below (see table 1.87).

Planned results for 2027

Result 1: revitalized pathfinding country initiative (Pathfinding Global Alliance on Ending Violence against Children) to end violence against children by 2030

Programme performance in 2025 and target for 2027

1.189 The programme's work contributed to 11 additional Member States joining the Pathfinding Global Alliance in 2025, which exceeded the planned target of five additional Member States, bringing the total to 49 Member States.

1.190 Progress towards the objective and the target for 2027 are presented in the performance measure below (see table 1.88).

Result 2: Member States adopt strategic road maps to accelerate action to end violence against children by 2030

Programme performance in 2025 and target for 2027

1.191 The programme's work contributed to 19 Pathfinding Global Alliance countries adopting road maps or equivalent strategic frameworks to end violence against children, which exceeded the planned target of five countries.

1.192 Progress towards the objective and the target for 2027 are presented in the performance measure below (see figure 1.XVII).

Performance measure: number of Pathfinding Global Alliance countries that have adopted road maps to accelerate action to end violence against children (cumulative)

Result 3: peer learning among Member States accelerates action to end violence against children

Proposed programme plan for 2027

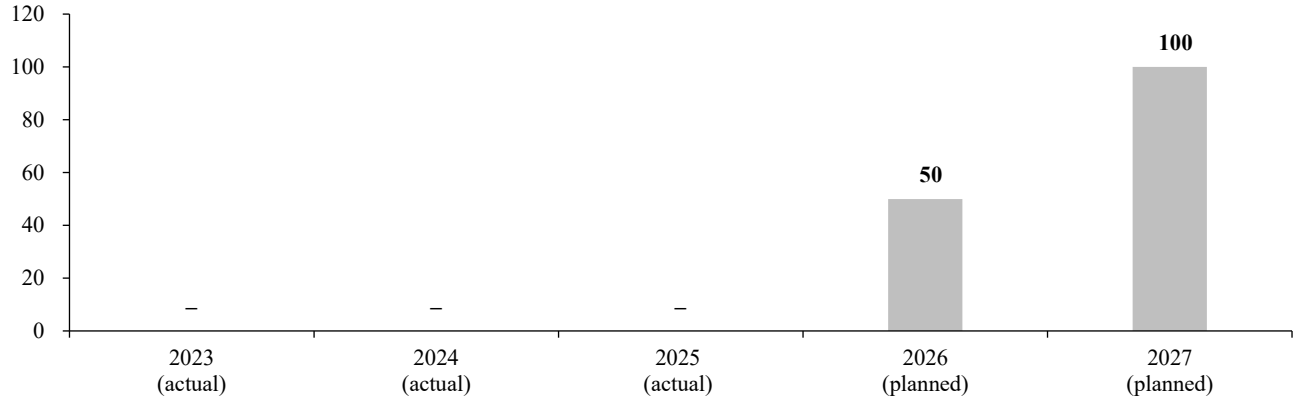

1.193 The facilitation of peer learning among Member States is a key pillar of the Special Representative's mandate. At the request of Member States, she led the development of a marketplace for knowledge-sharing on measures to end violence against children. Supported by the United Nations System Staff College, the marketplace is a platform where States and all key stakeholders can share expertise, have access to practical resources and connect with and learn from one another. It provides a platform for documenting and disseminating strategic actions taken by various stakeholders that have led to concrete changes, showcasing context-specific initiatives that turn ideas into action.

Lessons learned and planned change

1.194 The lesson for the Office was that focusing on peer learning and facilitating direct connections between ministers and senior officials from different Member States is a key entry point to strengthen the implementation of cross-sectoral services. In applying the lesson, the Office will facilitate more bilateral and multilateral opportunities for peer learning and joint work among States. This will allow for enhanced multilateral cooperation, enable a shift from donor-driven to demand-driven support and strengthen a system-wide approach to joint programming.

1.195 Expected progress towards the objective is presented in the performance measure below (see figure 1.XVIII).

Overall resource changes

Other changes

1.201 As shown in tables 1.93 (1) and 1.94 (1), resource changes reflect an increase of $45,200, comprising: (a) an increase of $40,100 under posts and $1,900 under other staff costs related to adjustments to standards applicable to posts and positions; (b) a decrease of $20,100 under posts due to the reclassification of the post of Assistant Secretary-General to Director (D-2) effective 1 July 2027 (see annex II to the present report); (c) an increase of $20,100 under consultants due to additional requirements for specialized expertise to strengthen public information and social media presence, including social media campaigns and child-friendly materials; and (d) a net increase of $3,200 under contractual services due to anticipated changes in price levels of printing, webpage translations and data processing services ($3,500), offset in part by slightly lower standard costs for the core software package at United Nations Headquarters ($300).

Extrabudgetary resources

1.202 As reflected in tables 1.93 (2) and 1.94 (2), extrabudgetary resources amount to $719,700. The resources would complement regular budget resources and would be used mainly to provide for two posts (P-4 and P-3) and non-post resources that would be used to support the delivery of the Office's mandates through the implementation of various outreach activities and the provision of technical advice and support to Member States, regional organizations and other partners.

1.203 The extrabudgetary resources under the present section are subject to the oversight of the Special Representative of the Secretary-General, under delegated authority from the Secretary-General.

1.204 Information on the timely submission of documentation and advance booking for air travel is reflected in table 1.96. The Office will strive to improve the planning of its travel in order to improve its compliance with the advance booking of air travel policy.

VIII. Office of the United Nations Special Coordinator on Improving the United Nations Response to Sexual Exploitation and Abuse

A. Proposed programme plan for 2027 and programme performance in 2025

Overall orientation

Mandates and background

1.210 The Office was established in February 2016, when the Secretary-General appointed the Special Coordinator with a reporting line through the Chef de Cabinet to the Secretary-General to work across the United Nations system's offices, departments and agencies to strengthen the United Nations response to sexual exploitation and abuse, wherever it might occur, from headquarters locations to the most remote field bases. The General Assembly, in its resolution 70/286, and the Security Council, by its resolution 2272 (2016), welcomed the appointment of the Special Coordinator and the Secretary-General's continued efforts to implement and reinforce the United Nations zero-tolerance policy on sexual exploitation and abuse, in particular to strengthen the Organization's prevention, reporting, enforcement and remedial action in order to promote greater accountability. In its resolution 71/278, the Assembly welcomed the continued efforts of the Secretary-General to combat sexual exploitation and abuse, including the appointment of a Special Coordinator on improving the United Nations response to sexual exploitation and abuse and the establishment of a high-level task force to develop, as a matter of urgency, a clear, game-changing strategy to achieve visible and measurable improvements in the Organization's approach to preventing and responding to sexual exploitation and abuse. The Assembly also expressed its support to the Secretary-General, the Office and all relevant departments in their efforts to implement the zero-tolerance policy and, in particular, to strengthen the Organization's prevention, reporting, enforcement and response mechanisms in order to promote greater accountability, and in that regard requested the Secretary-General to continue to work in close consultation with Member States for the effective implementation of the policy.

1.211 The Special Coordinator drives and oversees United Nations efforts to prevent and respond to sexual exploitation and abuse across the United Nations system. Through the development of procedures, protocols, standardized tools and support for United Nations entities at Headquarters and in the field, the Special Coordinator continues efforts to align approaches and enhance coordination, cooperation and system-wide coherence.

Programme of work

Objective

1.212 The objective, to which the Office contributes, is to advance the United Nations response to sexual exploitation and abuse and to ensure a continuous focus on and sustained high-level attention to the prevention and response to sexual exploitation and abuse through a victim-centred approach.

Strategy and external factors for 2027

1.213 To contribute to the objective, the Office will:

(a) Coordinate with United Nations entities, departments and offices to ensure the alignment and institutionalization of strategies to prevent and respond to sexual exploitation and abuse by developing initiatives to mitigate the risks of sexual exploitation and abuse across the United Nations system;

(b) Promote the implementation of the Secretary-General's strategy to combat sexual exploitation and abuse across the system's more than 30 affiliated funds, programmes and specialized agencies and act as the secretariat of the Secretary-General's institutionalized standing bodies for protection against sexual exploitation and abuse, such as the High-level Steering Group on preventing sexual exploitation and abuse, convened by the Chef de Cabinet, which oversees the implementation of the Secretary-General's strategy;

(c) Guide organization-wide change management to implement the updated Secretary-General's Bulletin on sexual exploitation and abuse across all categories of United Nations personnel, both uniformed and civilian, and non-United Nations actors;

(d) Consult with international, regional and subregional organizations, Member States, United Nations independent human rights experts, civil society organizations, national human rights institutions, academic institutions and think tanks, as appropriate, to ensure that policies and operational efforts across the United Nations system reflect best practice;

(e) Monitor and enhance the Secretary-General's public reporting mechanism for allegations of sexual exploitation and abuse;

(f) Strengthen accountability and transparency through a multifaceted approach which engages leadership across Member States and within the United Nations system, reinforces commitment, processes and engagement at the national level, fosters collaboration with Member States, augments investigative capacity, strengthens legislative frameworks and ensures a victim-centred, trauma-informed approach;

(g) Work closely with managers at all levels across the United Nations system to provide strategic support and guidance, and strengthen leadership capacity through advocacy, policy development and practical learning.

1.214 The above-mentioned work is expected to result in:

(a) Strengthened prevention of and responses to sexual exploitation and abuse in a coherent and coordinated manner, including improved awareness, risk mitigation, data collection, evidence-based interventions, monitoring and analysis of performance, and victim support and assistance by the United Nations system;

(b) Institutionalization of an organizational culture that prohibits sexual exploitation and abuse and inaction in that regard, with a robust and consistent understanding among United Nations personnel of standards of conduct and the purpose of mission of the United Nations, to advance cultural change and address the underpinnings of sexual exploitation and abuse, including gender imbalances and the abuse of authority due to power differentials.

1.215 With regard to external factors, the overall plan for 2027 is based on the following planning assumptions:

(a) Personnel, at all levels, prioritize combating sexual exploitation and abuse within United Nations operations;

(b) Adequate resources are available to support delivery of the mandate;

(c) The United Nations system supports the alignment and institutionalization of measures to prevent and respond to sexual exploitation and abuse, including through sustained, predictable funding.

1.216 With regard to inter-agency coordination, the Office will continue to seek cooperation with all United Nations partners, including agencies, funds and programmes, and the Inter-Agency Standing Committee and its Champion on protection from sexual exploitation and abuse and sexual harassment, to ensure coordination with relevant mandates and a coherent and consistent response. The Office will also continue to collaborate with the Office of the Victims' Rights Advocate, the Department of Management Strategy, Policy and Compliance and the Department of Global Communications, among other entities within the Organization, to ensure alignment of messages relating to the prevention of and response to sexual exploitation and abuse in internal and external communications. Furthermore, the Office will work closely with the Development Coordination Office and resident coordinators, globally, to support their roles and responsibilities in accordance with the management and accountability framework of the United Nations development and resident coordinator system. The Office will continue to serve as the secretariat of the Secretary-General's circle of leadership on the prevention of and response to sexual exploitation and abuse in United Nations operations, which comprises global leaders who actively support the agenda of combating sexual exploitation and abuse.

1.217 In line with the United Nations Disability Inclusion Strategy, the Office will identify ways to ensure the integration of disability inclusion across all programmes and interventions. This involves mainstreaming disability inclusion through training and outreach material on preventing and responding to sexual exploitation and abuse, including on victim support, that is tailored to address the distinct needs and challenges of individuals with disabilities.

Adjustments arising from the UN80 Initiative

1.218 The proposed programme plan for 2027 reflects changes arising from the UN80 Initiative. In particular, the tables of deliverables reflect updated deliverables for 2026, in line with the approved programme budget for 2026.

1.219 The Office will be guided by any future decisions taken in the context of the UN80 Initiative, in accordance with the applicable rules and procedures, including decisions, resolutions and established practice of the competent intergovernmental organs.

Evaluation activities

1.220 The following evaluations completed in 2025 have guided the proposed programme plan for 2027:

(a) Review of policies and practices to prevent and respond to sexual exploitation and abuse in the United Nations system organizations, conducted by the Joint Inspection Unit (JIU/REP/2025/2);

(b) Comprehensive assessment of protection from sexual exploitation and abuse, commissioned by the Office.

1.221 In response to the results of the evaluations referenced above, the Office will work towards establishing a coordinated approach across the United Nations system to prevent and respond to sexual exploitation and abuse through an updated system-wide strategy and a five-year implementation plan. Key areas of focus will include aligning policies, definitions and approaches on emerging issues, including technology-facilitated sexual exploitation and abuse, to ensure coherence across all entities and address gaps identified by the evaluations. The Office will also ensure harmonized data collection and reporting standards across the system. In addition, efforts will focus on strengthening system-wide vetting and screening procedures through standardized tools and harmonized implementation protocols and strengthening the accountability framework by assessing and updating disciplinary measures, procedural steps and processes related to criminal referrals. The Office will further support system-wide efforts to promote a consistent victim-centred approach grounded in dignity, informed choice and meaningful access.

Programme performance in 2025

Expanded integration of protection measures in country cooperation frameworks

1.222 Sexual exploitation and abuse are inherent risks across all United Nations system entities, regardless of context. In 2025, the Office worked with relevant actors to help ensure that those served by, and serving alongside, United Nations personnel can trust the Organization and remain safe. To support this effort, the Office further strengthened its strategic role in key coordination forums, enhanced outreach initiatives and deepened collaboration with both internal and external stakeholders, including government counterparts, to reinforce common standards. This included continued advocacy for the integration of a model clause on protection from sexual exploitation and abuse in United Nations Sustainable Development Cooperation Frameworks, as part of broader efforts to promote joint action, build national capacity and mainstream protection into government systems.

1.223 Progress towards the objective is presented in the performance measure below (see table 1.103).

1.224 The programme's work contributed to senior leaders having access to additional tools and guidance to fulfil their protection from sexual exploitation and abuse roles and responsibilities, which met the planned target.

1.225 Progress towards the objective and the target for 2027 are presented in the performance measure below (see table 1.104).

Programme performance in 2025 and target for 2027

1.226 The programme's work contributed to increased coordination, policy alignment and more systematic implementation of protection from sexual exploitation and abuse at both the headquarters and country levels, which met the planned target.

1.227 Progress towards the objective and the target for 2027 are presented in the performance measure below (see table 1.105).

Result 3: strengthened system-wide strategic approach to addressing sexual exploitation and abuse

Proposed programme plan for 2027

1.228 Combating sexual exploitation and abuse demands system-wide commitment and action at all levels and across all pillars of the United Nations. The Office is working to develop a new system-wide strategy, which is anticipated to be launched in 2027. The new strategy is intended to strengthen policy coherence, expand comprehensive education for all personnel and deliver targeted capacity-building.

Lessons learned and planned change

1.229 The lesson for the Office was that meaningful and sustained change cannot be achieved through compliance exercises and normative measures alone but requires the continuous implementation of a deliberate and system-wide strategy that promotes cultural change, continuous learning and engagement across the United Nations system and its partners. In applying the lesson, the Office will continue to build momentum through an updated system-wide strategy that advances standards of conduct and policies on sexual exploitation, abuse and harassment; deepens leadership development to reinforce managerial responsibility and role modelling of expected behaviours; and strengthens mechanisms to support consistent implementation across peacekeeping, humanitarian and development contexts.

1.230 Expected progress towards the objective is presented in the performance measure below (see table 1.106).

Explanation of variances by factor

Overall resource changes

Other changes

1.236 As shown in table 1.111 (1), resource changes reflect an increase of $18,400, comprising: (a) an increase of $18,300 under posts related to adjustments to standards applicable to posts; (b) a decrease of $11,100 under posts due to the reclassification of the post of Under-Secretary-General to Assistant Secretary-General effective 1 September 2027 (see annex II to the present report); (c) an increase of $11,100 under contractual services for specialized short-term support related to communications, data analysis and information management activities; and (d) a net increase of $100 under contractual services due to anticipated changes in price levels of data processing services ($200), offset in part by slightly lower standard costs for the core software package at United Nations Headquarters ($100).

Other assessed resources

1.237 As reflected in table 1.111 (2), other assessed resources amount to $50,600. The resources would complement regular budget resources and provide for the requirements indicated in the report of the Secretary-General on the budget for the support account for peacekeeping operations for the period from 1 July 2026 to 30 June 2027 (A/80/631).

Extrabudgetary resources

1.238 As reflected in table 1.111 (3) and 1.112 (2), extrabudgetary resources amount to $1,500,000, reflecting an increase of $500,000 (or 50 per cent). The resources would complement the regular budget resources and would be used mainly to provide for three posts (1 P-4, 1 P-3 and 1 General Service (Other level)) and non-post resources to support the delivery of the Office's mandate, including specific activities such as legal research and technical support on protection against sexual exploitation and abuse, travel of staff and contractual services, as well as general operating expenses for gratis personnel.

1.239 The extrabudgetary resources under the present section are subject to the oversight of the Special Coordinator (Assistant Secretary-General), under delegated authority from the Secretary-General.

1.240 Information on the timely submission of documentation and advance booking for air travel is reflected in table 1.114. While the Office makes every effort to follow the advance booking of air travel policy, it is not always possible to comply owing to unforeseen circumstances, including the need to travel to the field on short notice. The Office will continue to strive to improve the planning of its travel to improve its compliance with the advance booking of air travel policy.

IX. Office of the United Nations Ombudsman and Mediation Services

A. Proposed programme plan for 2027 and programme performance in 2025

Overall orientation

Mandates and background

1.241 The Office of the United Nations Ombudsman and Mediation Services is responsible for providing confidential, impartial and independent conflict resolution services to address work-related issues of staff members and non-staff personnel, upon request. In doing so, the United Nations Ombudsman makes an essential contribution to making the Organization a productive, healthy and enabling workplace.

1.242 The mandate of the Office derives from the priorities established in relevant General Assembly resolutions and/or decisions, including resolutions 55/258 and 56/253. The Office was further strengthened by the Assembly, pursuant to its resolutions 61/261 and 62/228, to create an integrated and geographically decentralized Office. By its resolution 73/276, the Assembly requested the Secretary-General to establish, within existing resources, a pilot project to offer access to informal dispute resolution services to non-staff personnel. By its resolution 78/248, the Assembly decided to regularize the pilot project for access by non-staff personnel to the services of the Office, within existing resources.

Programme of work

Objective

1.243 The objective, to which this Office contributes, is to ensure the effective functioning of the Organization by enhancing harmony in the workplace through an efficient and effective option for staff and non-staff personnel to seek redress to grievances.

Strategy and external factors for 2027

1.244 To contribute to the objective, the Office will:

(a) Provide the full range of conflict resolution services to United Nations staff and non-staff personnel in three core areas: addressing workplace grievances from staff and non-staff personnel through case intervention; engaging with relevant stakeholders to provide systemic feedback for improvements in the workplace; and strengthening, through capacity-building initiatives, the ability of staff and non-staff personnel to address workplace conflict effectively;

(b) Strengthen the Organization’s informal conflict resolution system through the enhanced accessibility, visibility and effectiveness of services, focusing on outreach efforts to raise awareness of the importance of informal dispute resolution as a preferred first step;

(c) Ensure that staff and non-staff personnel, irrespective of location, have access to the informal pillar of the administration of justice and to informal conflict resolution services, including by providing services in all six official languages of the United Nations;

(d) Conduct regular presentations on “civility, communication and community” in various languages to global offices to promote and facilitate healthy dialogue among colleagues.

1.245 The above-mentioned work is expected to result in:

(a) A more harmonious and collaborative work environment for United Nations staff and non-staff personnel;

(b) More productive and more effective functioning of the Organization;

(c) Improved awareness among managers, staff and non-staff personnel of the importance of resilience and flexibility in fostering a harmonious workplace.

1.246 With regard to the external factors, the overall plan for 2027 is based on the following planning assumptions:

(a) All staff and non-staff personnel, including those in supervisory functions, avail themselves of opportunities to resolve workplace issues through established informal mechanisms;

(b) All staff and non-staff personnel observe applicable United Nations regulations and rules regarding the terms and conditions of employment and apply lessons learned from decisions of the United Nations Dispute Tribunal and the United Nations Appeals Tribunal.

1.247 With regard to cooperation with other entities and inter-agency coordination and liaison, the Office will continue to build stronger collaboration with the formal system of administration of justice to explore opportunities for more referrals from the formal to the informal pillar. The Office will also continue to cooperate with the network of ombudsmen and mediators of the United Nations system so as to contribute to improved system-wide cohesion and impact in the area of conflict resolution in the workplace.

1.248 The Office integrates a gender perspective into its operational activities, deliverables and results as appropriate. This includes gender considerations in the delivery of conflict resolution services and in the identification of systemic issues, including feedback on gender-related inequities observed in cases presented to the Office. The Office will also continue to support the implementation of the strategy included in the system-wide policy on gender equality and the empowerment of women. The Office also compiles gender-disaggregated data.

1.249 In line with the United Nations Disability Inclusion Strategy, the Office will take into account the needs of persons with disabilities and facilitate their full and effective participation in its activities. In collaboration with the Department of Global Communications, the Office will maintain accessibility features on its website and online platforms to support users with temporary or long-term disabilities.

Adjustments arising from the UN80 Initiative

1.250 The proposed programme plan for 2027 reflects efforts of the Office to implement all mandates in a more efficient and effective manner and contains no substantive adjustments arising from the UN80 Initiative.

1.251 The Office will be guided by any future decisions taken in the context of the UN80 Initiative, in accordance with the applicable rules and procedures, including decisions, resolutions and established practice of the competent intergovernmental organs.

Evaluation activities

1.252 The following evaluation completed in 2025 has guided the proposed programme plan for 2027: evaluation conducted by the Office on client satisfaction.

1.253 In response to the results of the evaluation referenced above, the Office will promote the early use of mediation through targeted outreach and engagement with stakeholders to identify opportunities for piloting early referrals. Where possible, the Office will also offer additional conflict competence skills-building workshops for staff and non-staff personnel to equip them with practical tools to help prevent or constructively address workplace conflicts, including by managing difficult conversations, giving and receiving feedback, and fostering a harmonious workplace.

1.254 An evaluation on client satisfaction, to be conducted by the Office, is planned for 2027.

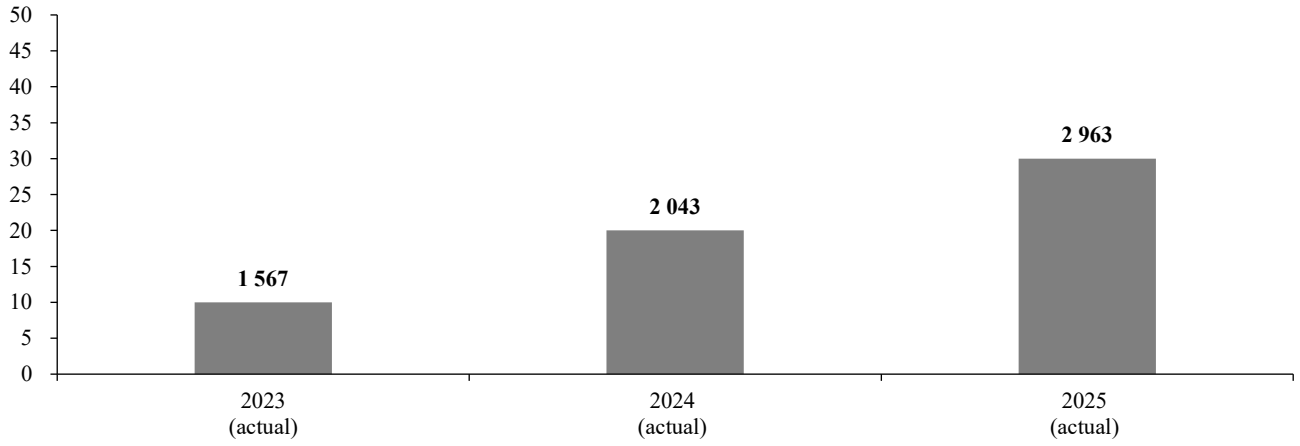

Programme performance in 2025

Managing workplace conflict better through capacity- and skill-building activities

1.255 The principle of dignity is a cornerstone of the Organization, as reaffirmed in the Staff Regulations and Rules of the United Nations, in which it is stated that "staff members shall uphold and respect the principles set out in the Charter, including faith in fundamental human rights, in the dignity and worth of the human person and in the equal rights of men and women". In its systemic observations, the Office has consistently highlighted concerns related to issues of dignity and respect and has pointed out the impact of such issues on team climate and morale, stressing the need to foster an inclusive and respectful work environment. In 2025, the Office organized workshops on civility, communication and community, focusing on the connection between dignity, communication and civility in the workplace, and enabling participants to reflect on how their interactions can enhance or undermine dignity.

1.256 Progress towards the objective is presented in the performance measure below (see figure 1.XXI).

Performance measure: number of personnel equipped to manage workplace conflict

Planned results for 2027

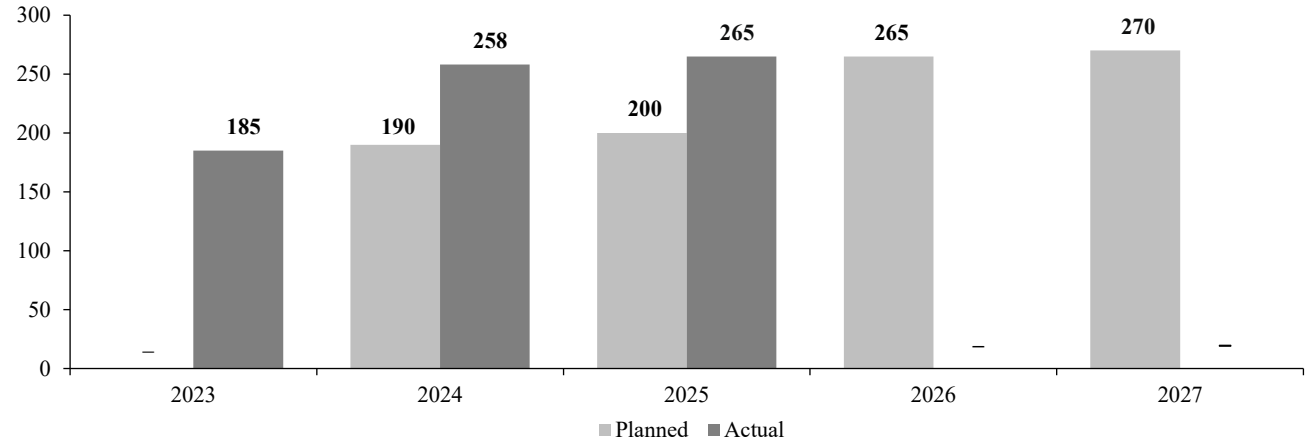

Result 1: United Nations non-staff personnel have access to informal conflict resolution services

Programme performance in 2025 and target for 2027

1.257 The Office's work contributed to 265 non-staff personnel utilizing informal conflict resolution services, which exceeded the planned target of 200.

1.258 Progress towards the objective and the target for 2027 are presented in the performance measure below (see figure 1.XXII).

Performance measure: number of non-staff personnel using informal conflict resolution services (annual)

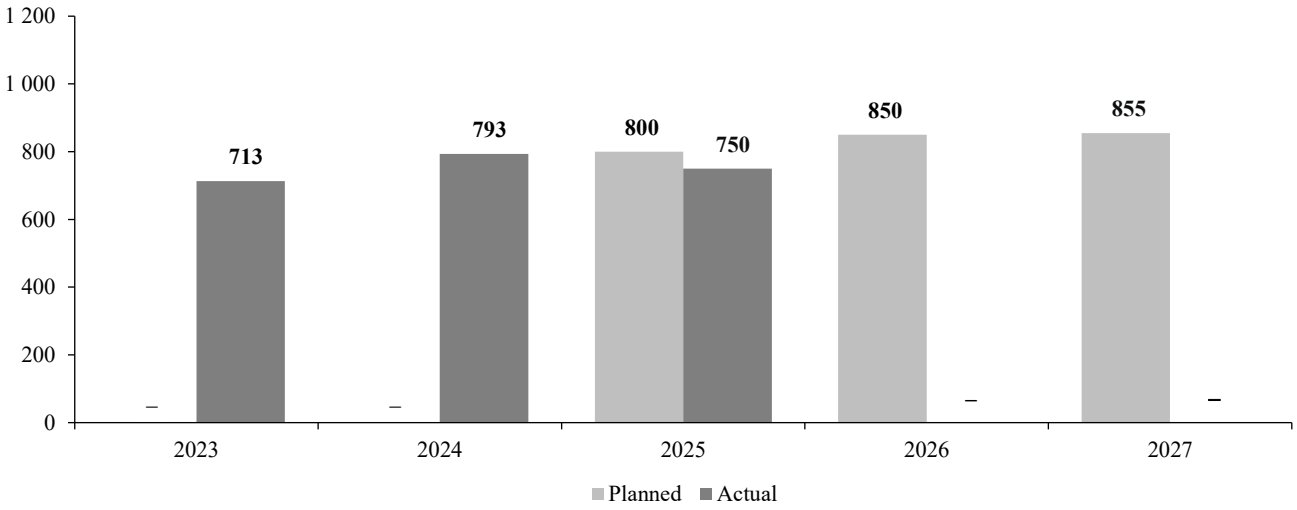

Result 2: increased access of services for staff in the field

Programme performance in 2025 and target for 2027

1.259 The Office's work contributed to 750 informal conflict services being accessed by staff in the field, which did not meet the planned target of 800. The target was not met primarily due to financial constraints that limited the Office's ability to conduct in-person visits, particularly to hardship duty stations and remote locations.

1.260 Progress towards the objective and the target for 2027 are presented in the performance measure below (see figure 1.XXIII).

Performance measure: number of informal conflict services accessed by staff in the field (annual)

Result 3: improved awareness of mediation services

Proposed programme plan for 2027

1.261 The Office, through its mediation services, provides a structured, collaborative process to manage and help to resolve workplace disputes, conflicts, concerns and differences with the assistance of an impartial third party. This approach is most useful when parties are seeking to resolve a specific, identified issue. The Office conducts information sessions about understanding the benefits and added value of workplace mediations as the "informal first approach" to conflict resolution in the Organization.

Lessons learned and planned change

1.262 The lesson for the Office was that there was a lack of awareness and knowledge among staff and managers of the benefits of mediation as a constructive and accessible approach to resolving workplace conflicts. In applying the lesson, the Office will seek to increase awareness of mediation and conduct additional sessions in various languages to reach United Nations personnel globally.

1.268 As reflected in tables 1.119 (1) and 1.120 (1), the overall resources proposed for 2027 amount to $4,173,600, reflecting an increase of $15,700 (or 0.4 per cent) compared with the approved budget for 2026. Resource changes result from technical adjustments and other changes. The proposed level of resources provides for the full, efficient and effective implementation of mandates.

Explanation of variances by factor

Overall resource changes

Technical adjustments

1.269 As shown in tables 1.119 (1) and 1.120 (1), the decrease of $74,400 relates to the phased abolition of one General Service (Other level) post approved by the General Assembly in its resolution 80/242 with an effective date in 2026 but later than 1 January.

Other changes

1.270 As shown in tables 1.119 (1) and 1.120 (1), resource changes reflect an increase of $90,100, comprising: (a) an increase of $86,800 under posts related to adjustments to standards applicable to posts; and (b) a net increase of $3,300 under contractual services relating to (i) an increase of $2,300 due to anticipated changes in price levels of data processing services and (ii) a net increase of $1,000 due to higher standard costs for the core software package for non-field personnel outside of United Nations Headquarters ($1,300), offset in part by slightly lower standard costs for the core software package at United Nations Headquarters ($300).

Other assessed resources

1.271 As reflected in tables 1.119 (2) and 1.120 (2), other assessed resources amount to $2,431,200. The resources would complement regular budget resources and provide for the requirements indicated in the report of the Secretary-General on the budget for the support account for peacekeeping operations for the period from 1 July 2026 to 30 June 2027 (A/80/631).

Extrabudgetary resources

1.272 As reflected in table 1.119 (3), extrabudgetary resources amount to $733,100. The non-post resources would complement regular budget resources and would be used mainly to support the delivery of the Office's mandates, including the provision of conflict resolution services to the International Court of Justice, the World Meteorological Organization, the International Trade Centre, United Nations University, the World Intellectual Property Organization and the International Telecommunication Union in accordance with the corresponding memorandums of understanding.

1.273 The extrabudgetary resources under the present section are subject to the oversight of the United Nations Ombudsman (Assistant Secretary-General), under delegated authority from the Secretary-General.

1.274 Information on the timely submission of documentation and advance booking of air travel is reflected in table 1.122. The Office will strengthen its efforts to ensure the advance booking of tickets in line with the advance booking of air travel policy and improve its compliance rate.

X. Office of Administration of Justice

A. Proposed programme plan for 2027 and programme performance in 2025

Overall orientation

Mandates and background

1.275 The Office of Administration of Justice is responsible for the overall coordination of the system of administration of justice and contributing to its functioning in a fair, transparent and efficient manner. The mandate of the Office derives from relevant General Assembly resolutions, including resolutions 61/261, 62/228 and 63/253, by which the Assembly established a new, independent, transparent, professionalized, adequately resourced and decentralized system of administration of justice and placed emphasis on the need to ensure the fair and just treatment of United Nations staff and the accountability of managers and staff alike.

Programme of work

Objective

1.276 The objective, to which the Office contributes, is to ensure access to justice, respect for the rights and obligations of staff members and the accountability of managers and staff members alike through the efficient and effective functioning of the system of administration of justice.

Strategy and external factors for 2027

1.277 To contribute to the objective, the Office will:

(a) Provide easy access to jurisprudence through the website of the United Nations system of administration of justice, the fully searchable jurisprudence database accessible via the case law portal, and outreach means;

(b) Provide legal advice and assistance and, where appropriate, legal representation to staff;

(c) Enhance the case management systems and procedures and provide substantive, technical and administrative support to the United Nations Dispute Tribunal and the United Nations Appeals Tribunal;

(d) Raise awareness of and increase access to workplace dispute resolution mechanisms, with a focus on field missions and offices.

1.278 The above-mentioned work is expected to result in:

(a) Improved decision-making by managers;

(b) Increased access to information on when and how to pursue a claim before the Tribunals;

(c) Effective dispute resolution;

(d) More expedient processing of cases.

1.279 With regard to the external factors, the overall plan for 2027 is based on the following planning assumptions:

(a) Staff members avail themselves of opportunities to resolve workplace disputes through established informal mechanisms;

(b) Staff members observe applicable United Nations regulations and rules regarding the terms and conditions of employment and apply lessons learned from decisions of the Tribunals prior to filing applications;

(c) Caseload and disposal of cases remain stable;

(d) Staff members in remote locations have Internet connectivity to file electronically.

1.280 With regard to inter-agency coordination and liaison, the Office will continue to implement its comprehensive outreach strategy to provide staff with improved access to information and resources to resolve workplace grievances. To continue to implement this strategy and reach out to the largest number of staff members possible, particularly in locations away from Headquarters, the Office will work collaboratively with several entities and the separately administered funds and programmes. In 2027, the Office will continue to invest in promoting outreach activities to raise awareness of the case law portal, including in cooperation with other agencies. The Office will also continue to coordinate the preparation of the report of the Secretary-General on the functioning of the system of administration of justice and report on trends and observations.

1.281 The Office integrates a gender perspective into its operational activities, deliverables and results, as appropriate. The Office will continue to identify any systemic issues concerning gender inequality in the access to the system of administration of justice and recommend remedial action. The Office's gender team will continue to support the implementation of the system-wide policy on gender equality and the empowerment of women.

1.282 In line with the United Nations Disability Inclusion Strategy, the Office will maintain accessibility features on the website of the Office that benefit users with temporary or long-term disabilities, in collaboration with the Department of Global Communications.

Adjustments arising from the UN80 Initiative

1.283 The proposed programme plan for 2027 reflects efforts of the Office to implement all mandates in a more efficient and effective manner and contains no substantive adjustments arising from the UN80 Initiative.

1.284 The Office will be guided by any future decisions taken in the context of the UN80 Initiative, in accordance with the applicable rules and procedures, including decisions, resolutions and established practice of the competent intergovernmental organs.

Programme performance in 2025

Improved capabilities in tracking cases filed with the United Nations Dispute Tribunal

1.285 In 2025, the Office enhanced the United Nations Dispute Tribunal caseload dashboard to improve transparency in the assignment of cases to judges. The updated functionality enables users to view case assignments at the individual case level, including by case number and judicial assignment. This enhancement provides greater clarity to applicants and other stakeholders on the status and progression of cases. It also supports more timely processing of cases by providing key stakeholders with greater visibility of caseload distribution, thereby enabling more effective planning.

1.286 Progress towards the objective is presented in the performance measure below (see table 1.123).

Table 1.123
Performance measure

Planned results for 2027

Result 1: improved transparency of the system of administration of justice through the use of business intelligence and reporting on trend analysis

Programme performance in 2025 and target for 2027

1.287 The Office's work contributed to increased transparency of the system of administration of justice through the addition of Power BI enhancements to publicly accessible dashboards such as the United Nations Dispute Tribunal dashboard, along with additional trend and statistical analysis, which met the planned target.

1.288 Progress towards the objective and the target for 2027 are presented in the performance measure below (see table 1.124).

Result 2: increased use of legal advice from the Office of Staff Legal Assistance

Programme performance in 2025 and target for 2027

1.289 The Office's work contributed to 2,712 legal assistance requests from staff members being received by the Office of Staff Legal Assistance, which exceeded the planned target of 1,650.

1.290 Progress towards the objective and the target for 2027 are presented in the performance measure below (see figure 1.XXVI).

Performance measure: number of legal assistance requests from staff members received by the Office of Staff Legal Assistance (annual)

Result 3: more timely resolution of cases before the United Nations Dispute Tribunal

Proposed programme plan for 2027

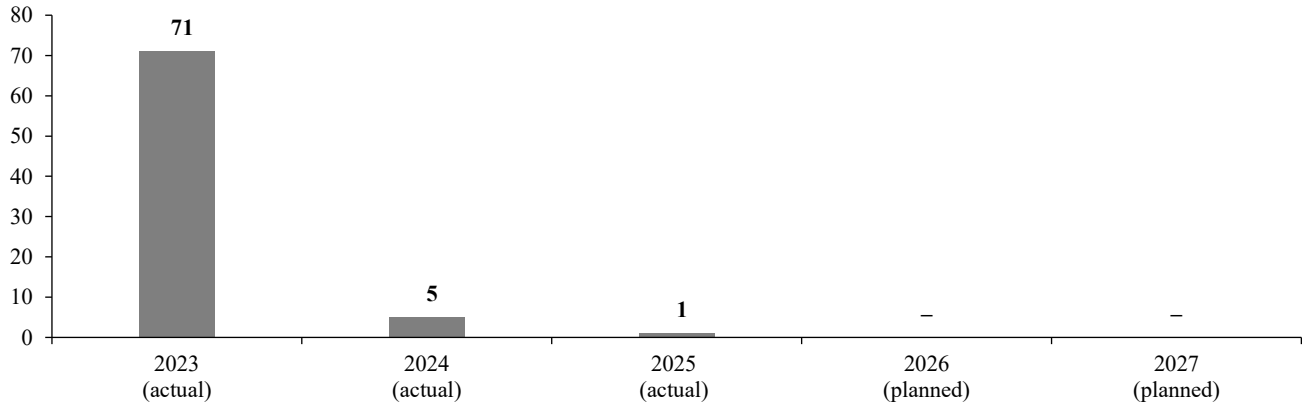

1.291 Cases before the United Nations Dispute Tribunal are assigned to judges, with the General Assembly establishing a 90-day deadline for the first judicial action and a 400-day deadline for the disposition of each case. In order to support timely and efficient dispute resolution, it is important that cases be assigned to judges by the registries without delay following submission. Previously, cases were held for assignment until a judge was available, which could delay the commencement of active judicial case management. The Office has begun systematically assigning cases to duty judges, who are rostered to receive and manage newly filed cases, within a short time frame, as appropriate, after a case has been filed. This measure facilitates timely case management by judges, enabling cases to progress towards hearings or closing submissions and disposal, and contributing to a reduction in overall case processing timelines.

Lessons learned and planned change

1.292 The lesson for the Office was that prompt case assignment to duty judges and earlier judicial case management contribute to timely case disposal. In applying the lesson, all new cases will be assigned to duty judges within a short time frame, as appropriate, after a case has been filed.

1.293 Expected progress towards the objective is presented in the performance measure below (see figure 1.XXVII).

1.298 As reflected in tables 1.129 (1) and 1.130 (1), the overall resources proposed for 2027 amount to $10,422,500, reflecting an increase of $141,000 (or 1.4 per cent) compared with the approved budget for 2026. Resource changes result from other changes. The proposed level of resources provides for the full, efficient and effective implementation of mandates.

Overall resource changes

Other changes

1.299 As shown in tables 1.129 (1) and 1.130 (1), resource changes reflect an increase of $141,000 comprising: (a) an increase of $123,500 under posts and $10,300 under other staff costs related to adjustments to standards applicable to posts and positions; (b) a net increase of $1,300 under contractual services related to higher standard costs for the core software package for non-field personnel outside of United Nations Headquarters ($1,900), offset in part by slightly lower standard costs for the core software package at the United Nations Headquarters ($600); and (c) an increase of $5,900 under general operating expenses due to anticipated changes in price levels of communications services.

Other assessed resources

1.300 As reflected in tables 1.129 (2) and 1.130 (2), other assessed resources amount to $152,400. The resources would complement regular budget resources and provide for the requirements indicated in the report of the Secretary-General on the budget for the support account for peacekeeping operations for the period from 1 July 2026 to 30 June 2027 (A/80/631).

Extrabudgetary resources

1.301 As reflected in table 1.129 (3) and 1.130 (3), extrabudgetary resources amount to $3,112,000, reflecting a decrease of $152,800 (or 4.7 per cent). The resources would complement regular budget resources and provide for six posts (2 P-4 and 4 P-3) for the provision of legal assistance to staff and for non-post resources to support the delivery of the Office's mandates.

1.302 The extrabudgetary resources under the present section are subject to the oversight of the Executive Director of the Office, under delegated authority from the Secretary-General.

1.303 Information on the timely submission of documentation and advance booking for air travel is reflected in table 1.132. The lower compliance rate in 2025 was attributable to visa-processing and travel-related constraints associated with the judicial selection process, which affected travel arrangements during the reporting period. The Office will continue to monitor its travel plans to ensure compliance with the advance booking of air travel policy.

XI. Ethics Office

A. Proposed programme plan for 2027 and programme performance in 2025

Overall orientation

Mandates and background

1.304 The Ethics Office was established as an independent Secretariat office and is responsible for assisting the Secretary-General in ensuring that all staff members perform their functions consistent with the highest standards of integrity, as required under the Charter of the United Nations. The mandate of the Office derives from the priorities established in relevant General Assembly resolutions and/or decisions, including resolutions 60/1 and 60/248. The Office also assists the Secretary-General in reporting annually to the Assembly on the implementation of ethics policies in response to Assembly resolution 60/254 and on the activities of the Ethics Panel of the United Nations pursuant to Assembly resolution 63/250. Pursuant to Assembly resolution 77/278, the Office directly presents an annual report to the Assembly. Further to Assembly resolution 70/305, the Office has been mandated to participate in providing an induction briefing to all Presidents of the General Assembly and their offices, to review the financial disclosures of those Presidents and to vet all private contributions to the Office of the President of the General Assembly. As provided for in Assembly resolution 71/263, the Office aims to do its part in the swift and effective implementation of the revised policy on protection against retaliation and to cultivate an organizational culture in which staff feel free to speak up.

Programme of work

Objective

1.305 The objective, to which the Office contributes, is to achieve and sustain an organizational culture of integrity, accountability and transparency, wherein all staff members observe and perform their functions consistent with the highest standards of integrity required under the Charter of the United Nations.

Strategy and external factors for 2027

1.306 To contribute to the objective, the Office will:

(a) Provide independent and preventive ethics advice, guidance and briefings to staff and management to ensure that ethical standards are well understood, support ethics standard-setting and promote policy coherence within the Secretariat and among the Organization's separately administered organs and programmes;

(b) Deliver its services in line with its terms of reference outlined in the relevant Secretary-General's bulletins (ST/SGB/2005/22, ST/SGB/2007/11 and ST/SGB/2007/11/Amend.1), through the administration of the annual financial disclosure programme, the provision of guidance and confidential ethics advice (including pre-appointment disclosure reviews for senior appointments and through the ethics helpline), the conduct of ethics briefings and outreach, and the fulfilment of the Office's responsibilities regarding the protection against retaliation policy, and by ensuring policy support and coherence of ethical standards;

(c) Identify risks in staff engagement in outside activities, in particular in terms of potential conflicts of interest and their impact on the Organization;

(d) Foster a shared understanding of the standards of conduct for the international civil service through the Ethics Network of Multilateral Organizations member entities affiliated with CEB;

(e) Support the Organization's overall strategy on risk management, including identifying and mitigating personal and organizational conflicts of interest through the financial disclosure programme and the provision of advice, and, upon request, work with the various owners of the risks identified in the enterprise risk registry in updating and implementing their response plans;

(f) Communicate and demonstrate the availability of measures for protection against retaliation, by continuously working within the Secretariat (with the Department of Global Communications, OIOS and the Department of Management Strategy, Policy and Compliance) and throughout the United Nations system through outreach activities.

1.307 The above-mentioned work is expected to result in:

(a) Greater public trust in the integrity of the Organization through the financial disclosure exercise, retaining the foundational defence for the Organization from personal conflicts of interest and potential reputational damage;

(b) Awareness among a greater number of staff of ethical standards and practices and of provisions for protection against retaliation;

(c) Enhanced organizational culture of integrity, transparency and accountability.

1.308 With regard to the external factors, the overall plan for 2027 is based on the following planning assumptions:

(a) Staff continue to avail themselves of the services provided by the Office;

(b) Financial disclosure statements from staff are submitted to the Office in a timely manner;

(c) All necessary documentation is provided by staff when seeking protection against retaliation;

(d) The security and public health situations in duty stations will allow for in-person outreach missions, when required.

1.309 With regard to cooperation with other entities at the global, regional, national and local levels, the Office expects to participate in the annual meeting of the Ethics Network of Multilateral Organizations.

1.310 With regard to inter-agency coordination and liaison, the Director of the Office will continue to chair and provide functional leadership to the Ethics Panel to increase coherence in the work of member ethics offices, as reflected in Secretary-General's bulletins ST/SGB/2007/11 and ST/SGB/2007/11/Amend.1. The Office will continue to engage with the Ethics Network of Multilateral Organizations member entities affiliated with CEB in the interest of ethics policy coherence and to promote protection against retaliation in the United Nations system. It will also continue to administer the financial disclosure requirements of those system entities that have opted to outsource this requirement to the Secretariat's Ethics Office. It will further continue to review contested matters by the staff of the separately administered organs and programmes of the Ethics Panel.

1.311 The Office integrates a gender perspective into its operational activities, deliverables and results, as appropriate. It disaggregates its service data by gender, where possible. The Office has received more enquiries from women consistently over the years and has responded to them. As a practice, and when funds allow, outreach mission teams of the Office will continue to be in pairs and gender-balanced. Subject to demand from requesting entities, the Office will provide gender-disaggregated information.

1.312 In line with the United Nations Disability Inclusion Strategy, the Office will take into account the needs of persons with disabilities and facilitate their full and effective participation in its activities.

Adjustments arising from the UN80 Initiative

1.313 The proposed programme plan for 2027 reflects efforts of the Office to implement all mandates in a more efficient and effective manner and contains no substantive adjustments arising from the UN80 Initiative.

1.314 The Office will be guided by any future decisions taken in the context of the UN80 Initiative, in accordance with the applicable rules and procedures, including decisions, resolutions and established practice of the competent intergovernmental organs.

Evaluation activities

1.315 The Office plans to conduct an internal evaluation in 2027 on a topic to be determined.

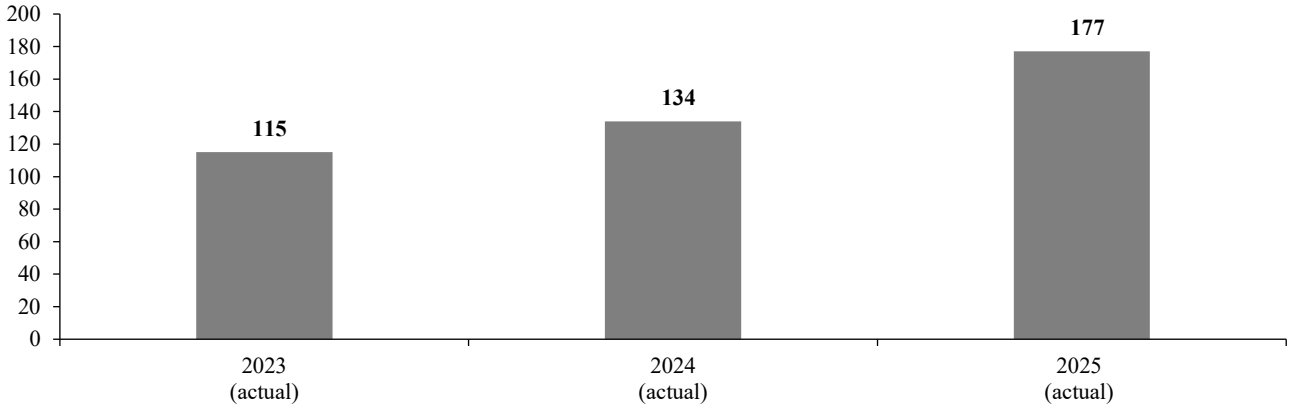

Programme performance in 2025

Increased staff confidence in seeking advice on protection against retaliation

1.316 Ensuring that misconduct can be reported without fear of retaliation is essential for fostering integrity, transparency and accountability across the Organization. The Office provides confidential advice, guidance and education on ethics-related matters, including issues concerning protection against retaliation. Over the years, the Office has observed a steady rise in requests related to protection against retaliation, especially requests for advice and preliminary reviews. These trends reflect several factors: the increasing complexity of operational environments; heightened global expectations around compliance and accountability; and shifts and uncertainty in staff work situations, which can be attributed to the ongoing management initiatives and resulting structural changes within the Organization. Early interventions, aimed at addressing concerns, preventing risks of retaliation and redressing instances of retaliation, are critical for maintaining and strengthening trust among staff in the accountability framework of the Organization, and for safeguarding its credibility. In 2025, the Office responded to 177 advice queries on retaliation, compared with 134 in 2024, reflecting an increase of 32 per cent and a continued upward trend since 2021. This sustained rise reflects growing staff confidence in seeking confidential advice and engaging with the Organization's misconduct reporting framework at an early stage. Through targeted outreach aimed at strengthening staff knowledge of, and trust in, the Organization's policy on protection against retaliation, the Office has supported staff in understanding and gaining confidence in the Organization's misconduct reporting channels, contributing to a culture grounded in ethics, transparency and accountability.

1.317 Progress towards the objective is presented in the performance measure below (see figure 1.XXIX).

Planned results for 2027

Result 1: enhanced ethical awareness and access to ethics services by field personnel

Programme performance in 2025 and target for 2027

1.318 The Office's work contributed to improved access of field personnel to ethics services and support through the increased delivery of tailored advice and outreach services targeting staff serving in field missions, United Nations country teams and resident coordinators, which met the planned target.

1.319 Progress towards the objective and the target for 2027 are presented in the performance measure below (see table 1.133).

Table 1.133
Performance measure

2023 (actual)	2024 (actual)	2025 (actual)	2026 (planned)	2027 (planned)
Field personnel have access to more interactive media materials on topics relating to ethical standards	Field personnel have access to more tailored services through customized guidance, workshops, town halls and other outreach activities, taking into account the local context and specific circumstances of field operations	Improved access of field personnel to ethics services and support through the increased delivery of tailored advice and outreach services targeting staff serving in field missions, United Nations country teams and resident coordinators	Field personnel have access to knowledge products in the area of ethical risks and measures to address them	Field staff have increased access to Ethics Office services through enhanced digital and interactive resources

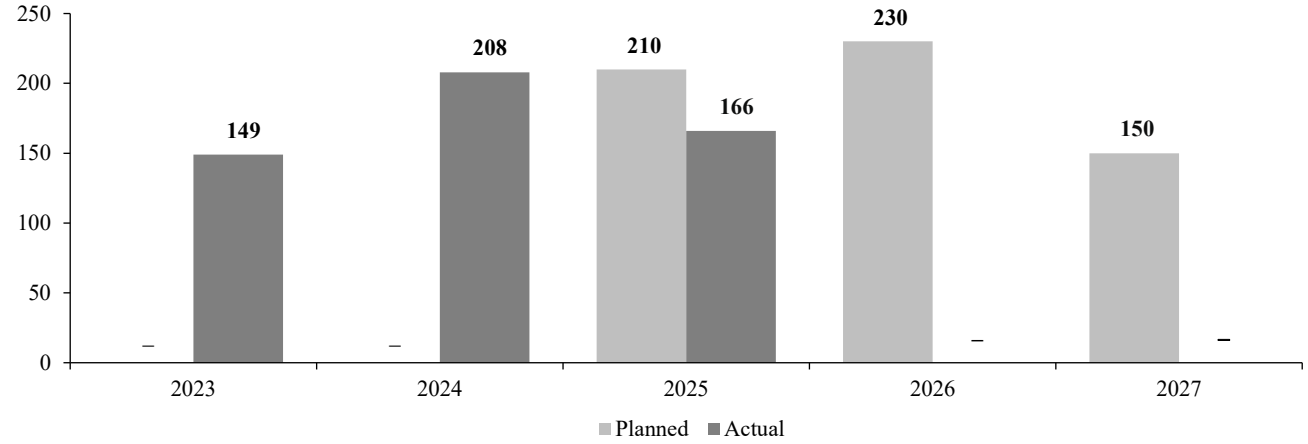

Result 2: increased transparency and accountability through enhanced advice and guidance provided through the financial disclosure programme

Programme performance in 2025 and target for 2027

1.320 The Office's work contributed to 166 filers in the financial disclosure programme receiving advice and recommendations on mitigation of conflict of interest, which did not meet the planned target of 210. The target was not met owing to enhanced efforts by the Office through its advisory services, outreach and training activities, which contributed to a reduction in the number of staff members requiring guidance on conflicts of interest.

1.321 Progress towards the objective and the target for 2027 are presented in the performance measure below (see figure 1.XXX).

Performance measure: number of filers in the financial disclosure programme who received advice and recommendations on mitigation of conflict of interest (annual)

Result 3: enhanced staff understanding of and timeliness in protection against retaliation processes

Proposed programme plan for 2027

1.322 A trusted system in which personnel can report misconduct, wrongdoing or ethical concerns without fear of retaliation is a cornerstone of a strong culture of speaking up. Effective implementation of the protection against retaliation policy encourages staff to report concerns and enables the Organization to identify and mitigate risks in a timely manner. The Office has strengthened staff awareness of the policy through its enhanced advisory services and by ensuring adherence to policy deadlines in handling protection against retaliation matters, which helps instil trust in the effectiveness of the policy and the protection of whistle-blowers.

Lessons learned and planned change

1.323 The lesson for the Office was that increased staff understanding of the protection against retaliation policy, combined with the timely processing of complaints, reinforces trust in the effectiveness of the policy. In applying the lesson, the Office will strengthen its approach to enhancing staff understanding of the policy through more targeted training and advisory services. It will also continue to ensure timely delivery at each stage of the protection against retaliation review process, thereby reinforcing confidence in the effectiveness of the Organization's accountability system.

1.324 Expected progress towards the objective is presented in the performance measure below (see table 1.134).

Table 1.134
Performance measure

2023 (actual)	2024 (actual)	2025 (actual)	2026 (planned)	2027 (planned)
Newly onboarded staff members received mandatory training on the protection against retaliation policy	Availability of early advice on protection against retaliation enhanced staff understanding of the policy	Increase in the number of staff seeking early advice on protection against retaliation	Comprehensive information on protection against retaliation is available to staff through an enhanced online portal	Final determinations on retaliation are completed, on average, within 30 days of receipt of the OIOS investigation report and related documentation

1.328 Additional details on the distribution of the proposed resources for 2027 are reflected in tables 1.139 to 1.141 and figure 1.XXXI.

1.329 As reflected in tables 1.139 (1) and 1.140 (1), the overall resources proposed for 2027 amount to $2,514,700, reflecting an increase of $43,400 (or 1.8 per cent) compared with the approved budget for 2026. Resource changes result from other changes. The proposed level of resources provides for the full, efficient and effective implementation of mandates.

Overall resource changes

Other changes

1.330 As shown in tables 1.139 (1) and 1.140 (1), resource changes reflect an increase of $43,400, comprising: (a) an increase of $38,000 under posts and $700 under other staff costs related to adjustments to standards applicable to posts and positions; and (b) a net increase of $4,700 under contractual services due to anticipated changes in price levels of data processing services ($5,000), offset in part by slightly lower standard costs for the core software package at United Nations Headquarters ($300).

Other assessed resources

1.331 As reflected in tables 1.139 (2) and 1.140 (2), other assessed resources amount to $938,200. The resources would complement regular budget resources and provide for the requirements indicated in the report of the Secretary-General on the budget for the support account for peacekeeping operations for the period from 1 July 2026 to 30 June 2027 (A/80/631).

Extrabudgetary resources

1.332 As reflected in table 1.139 (3), extrabudgetary resources amount to $1,248,200. The non-post resources would complement regular budget resources and would be used mainly to support the delivery of the Office's mandates and cover the administration of the financial disclosure programme.

1.333 The extrabudgetary resources under the present section are subject to the oversight of the Director of the Office, under delegated authority from the Secretary-General.

1.334 Information on the timely submission of documentation and advance booking for air travel is reflected in table 1.142. The Office plans to continue its 100 per cent compliance with the advance booking of air travel policy.

XIII. Resident coordinator system

A. Proposed programme plan for 2027 and programme performance in 2025

Overall orientation

Mandates and background

1.337 General Assembly resolution 72/279 on the repositioning of the United Nations development system and the Economic and Social Council segment on operational activities for development guide the scope and implementation of the activities of the resident coordinator system. In line with resolutions 72/279, 75/233, 79/226 and other relevant Assembly resolutions, the substantive mandates of the resident coordinator system are oriented around supporting countries in the implementation of the 2030 Agenda. The management of the resident coordinator system rests with the Development Coordination Office under the oversight of the Chair of the United Nations Sustainable Development Group, with resident coordinators reporting directly to the Secretary-General. Resident coordinators are the designated representatives of the Secretary-General for development coordination at the country level. At the heart of the resident coordinator system are 130 resident coordinators leading 130 United Nations country teams operating in over 160 countries and territories.

Programme of work

Objective

1.338 The objective, to which the resident coordinator system contributes, is to accelerate Member States' progress towards achieving the Sustainable Development Goals through leadership of the strengthened United Nations development support, robust coordination mechanisms, tools and frameworks, the effective management of joint resources and improved transparency of results to improve the impact, efficiency and effectiveness of operational activities for development at the country, regional and global levels.

Strategy and external factors for 2027

1.339 To contribute to the objective, the resident coordinator system will scale up development support to national Governments in order to implement the 2030 Agenda, including by strengthening the design and implementation of United Nations Sustainable Development Cooperation Frameworks. Specifically, the resident coordinator system will:

(a) Ensure diverse and effective resident coordinator profiles and skill sets tailored to the needs of countries;

(b) Provide effective support, through the Development Coordination Office, at the global and regional levels, to United Nations country teams in delivering individual and collective results on the Sustainable Development Goals, with the resident coordinator serving as the gateway to the collective offer of the United Nations for Member States;

(c) Act as the secretariat for the United Nations Sustainable Development Group;

(d) Ensure accountable and transparent results of the resident coordinator system and United Nations development system in support of the 2030 Agenda at the global, regional and national levels;

(e) Support high-quality Sustainable Development Goal analysis and tailored responses by United Nations entities and Governments at the country level, by leveraging data-driven solutions, information technology and digital innovation;

(f) Facilitate the achievement of system-wide efficiencies of the United Nations Sustainable Development Group through the following workstreams: business operations strategies, common back offices, global shared services and common premises;

(g) Continue to leverage catalytic funding provided by the Joint Sustainable Development Goals Fund to help countries to accelerate the achievement of the Goals by propelling key transitions in areas such as digitalization, food systems, energy, and social protection and jobs, with an emphasis on the localization of and synergies to be achieved across multiple Goals and fostering systems-level change for the 2030 Agenda;

(h) In line with intergovernmental mandates, support Member States in addressing and proactively managing risks and taking steps to address and prevent crises. This approach will be anchored firmly within the United Nations Sustainable Development Cooperation Frameworks.

1.340 The above-mentioned work is expected to result in:

(a) A stronger convening role of United Nations development stakeholders to offer countries in-depth policy solutions to advance the achievement of the Sustainable Development Goals;

(b) A coherent and transparent approach to United Nations sustainable development operations at the national, regional and global levels, including consistent implementation of system-wide priorities, policies and approaches across United Nations Sustainable Development Group entities;

(c) Strengthened partnerships to support Member States in their efforts to accelerate progress towards attaining the Sustainable Development Goals, including by attracting and leveraging public and private financing for the Goals;

(d) Increased financial resources and effectiveness for United Nations programme implementation by reducing costs through the implementation of efficiency measures and by enhancing the agility of United Nations development activities;

(e) The safeguarding of lives and livelihoods by continuing to address the socioeconomic and long-term impacts of multiple and interlocking crises while protecting and advancing progress on sustainable development.

1.341 With regard to the external factors, the overall plan for 2027 is based on the following planning assumptions:

(a) Adequate funding for the resident coordinator system, as well as for the Joint Sustainable Development Goals Fund and other key pooled funds;

(b) Continued and renewed engagement by Member States on the funding compact and the implementation of related commitments to ensure that the quality and quantity of funding allows the United Nations development system to maximize its comparative advantages and further incentivize United Nations coherence.

1.342 With regard to inter-agency coordination and liaison, the resident coordinator system will continue to actively coordinate member United Nations entities at the principal, director and technical levels. The resident coordinator system will also work closely with United Nations development entities and Secretariat entities, including peacekeeping and special political missions. The resident coordinators will continue to lead United Nations country teams in supporting national plans and priorities.

1.343 With regard to cooperation with other entities at the global, regional, national and local levels, the resident coordinator system will continue to work closely with Member States, international financial institutions and civil society partners to advance the Sustainable Development Goals and the 2030 Agenda.

1.344 The resident coordinator system integrates a gender perspective into its operational activities, deliverables and results, as appropriate. The resident coordinator system will continue to enhance implementation of and reporting on the United Nations accountability framework on gender equality. For example, through the United Nations System-wide Gender Equality Acceleration Plan, the system will ensure the application of the United Nations country team gender equality marker to track planned investment by the country teams for gender equality and the empowerment of women and to advance gender-responsive realization of the Sustainable Development Goals.

1.345 In line with the United Nations Disability Inclusion Strategy, the resident coordinator system will focus on the implementation of the Strategy and support United Nations country teams in implementing and reporting on the Strategy; in parallel, the system will continue supporting programme country Governments to implement the Convention on the Rights of Persons with Disabilities.

Adjustments arising from the UN80 Initiative

1.346 The proposed programme plan for 2027 reflects efforts of the programme to implement all mandates in a more efficient and effective manner and contains no substantive adjustments arising from the UN80 Initiative.

1.347 The resident coordinator system will be guided by any future decisions taken in the context of the UN80 Initiative, in accordance with the applicable rules and procedures, including decisions, resolutions and established practice of the competent intergovernmental organs. These include, among other things, any decisions concerning proposals related to the regional reset for sustainable development and the creation of regional integrated platforms, and those related to reconfiguring country-level support through cross-pillar delivery, as well as proposals related to the review of funding mechanisms, including proposals outlined in the report on the review of the funding and governance of the resident coordinator system (A/81/120), as requested by the General Assembly in its resolution 79/258 A and to be considered by the Assembly during its eighty-first session.

Evaluation activities

1.348 The following evaluations completed in 2025 have guided the proposed programme plan for 2027:

(a) United Nations Sustainable Development Group system-wide evaluation of the United Nations Disability Inclusion Strategy;

(b) United Nations Sustainable Development Group system-wide evaluation of progress towards a "new generation of United Nations country teams";

(c) OIOS evaluation of resident coordinator system support for graduation in least developed countries;

(d) Twenty evaluations of United Nations Sustainable Development Cooperation Frameworks.

1.349 In response to the findings and recommendations of the system-wide evaluations referenced above, the Development Coordination Office implemented recommendation 2.5 of the system-wide evaluation of the United Nations Disability Inclusion Strategy, which calls for resident coordinators to convene United Nations country teams to develop, implement and monitor disability inclusion action plans to advance the Convention on the Rights of Persons with Disabilities. This included providing dedicated technical support through a toolkit and concise guidance notes, as well as the consolidation of good practices from implementation at the country and regional levels to promote more consistent system-wide practice. In line with the agreed management response to the evaluation on a new generation of United Nations country teams, the Office launched a revision of the guidance on United Nations Sustainable Development Cooperation Frameworks, which was expected to be finalized in the third quarter of 2026. Furthermore, in response to the OIOS evaluation, the Office will deepen its support for resident coordinator offices in least developed countries to enhance integration of the Doha Programme of Action for the Least Developed Countries by United Nations country teams in Cooperation Frameworks. Findings from the evaluations of Cooperation Frameworks are being implemented by relevant United Nations country teams, including to strengthen planning and implementation structures and mechanisms, enhance monitoring, evaluation and data collection systems, increase stakeholder engagement and improve alignment with national priorities.

1.350 Twenty-three evaluations of United Nations Sustainable Development Cooperation Frameworks are planned for 2027: 11 in the Africa region, 5 in the Asia- Pacific region, 5 in the Latin America and the Caribbean region and 2 in the Europe and Central Asia region.

Programme performance in 2025

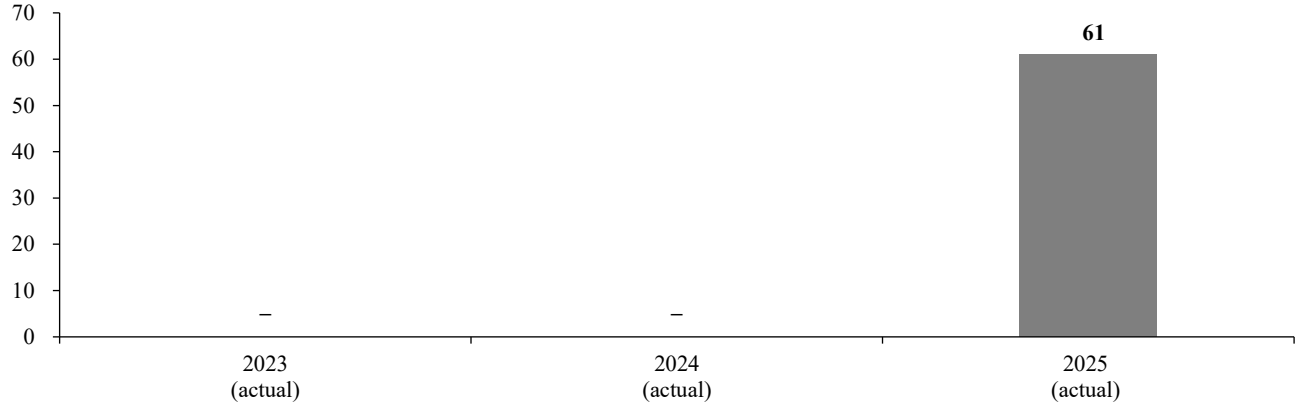

National Governments advanced integrated policy approaches to Sustainable Development Goal acceleration

1.351 Resident coordinators lead United Nations system-wide support to host Governments in ensuring integrated policy formulation at the national level to advance progress across the Sustainable Development Goals. In 2025, resident coordinators worked with host Governments to support their preparation of the new nationally determined contributions under the Paris Agreement, ahead of the thirtieth session of the Conference of the Parties to the United Nations Framework Convention on Climate Change. Resident coordinators supported 107 host Governments in the formulation of such contributions, helping ensure the adoption of an economy-wide approach to support acceleration of the Goals synergistically with climate action. Through their convening leadership, resident coordinators harnessed the expertise of 30 United Nations entities to support Governments in this effort, helping ensure that new nationally determined contributions act as vehicles for integrated policies and financing that spans key sectors and Goals, such as agriculture and food systems (Goal 2), energy (Goal 7), buildings and transport (Goal 11), waste management (Goal 12) and biodiversity (Goals 14 and 15). Significant emphasis was also placed on situating the nationally determined contributions as entry points to reduce inequalities (Goal 10) and advance gender equality (Goal 5), in line with national needs and priorities and within the context of their cooperation frameworks.

1.352 Progress towards the objective is presented in the performance measure below (see figure 1.XXXII).

Performance measure: number of host Governments that submitted updated nationally determined contributions following integrated United Nations support convened by the resident coordinators (annual)

Note: The performance measure is not applicable to 2023 and 2024, as the updated nationally determined contributions were due in 2025.

Planned results for 2027

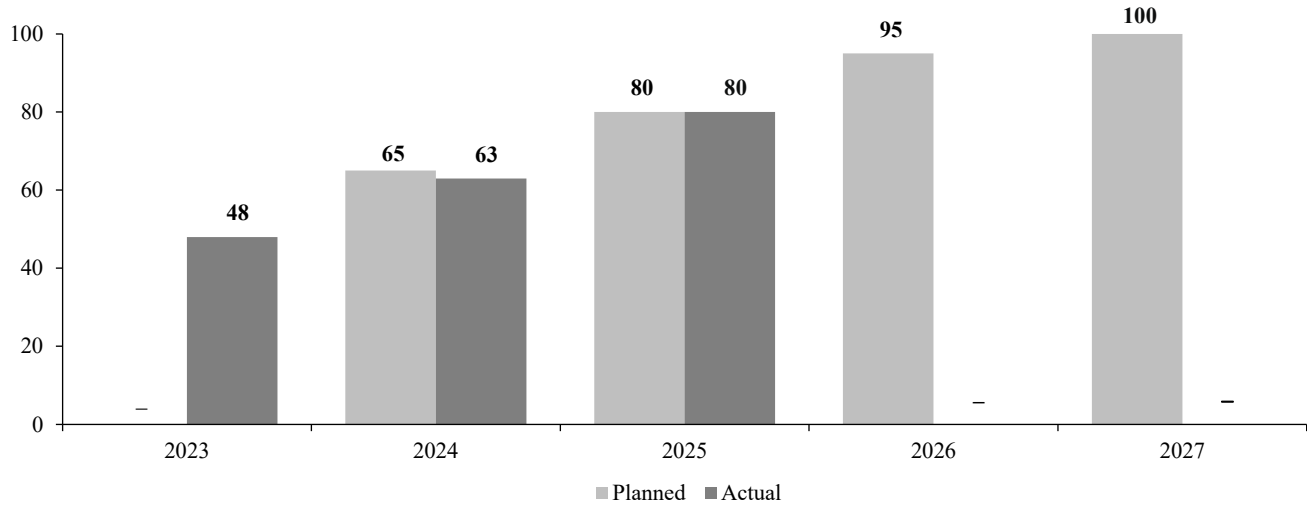

Result 1: increased transparency and accountability for United Nations results and the contribution to the Sustainable Development Goals through standard United Nations Sustainable Development Cooperation Framework indicators

Programme performance in 2025 and target for 2027

1.353 The programme's work contributed to 80 United Nations country teams providing data against agreed common indicators on the United Nations development system's contribution to advancing the Sustainable Development Goals, which met the planned target. This enhanced transparency and provided host countries with greater insight into the results and impact across the entire United Nations country team.

1.354 Progress towards the objective and the target for 2027 are presented in the performance measure below (see figure 1.XXXIII).

Performance measure: United Nations country teams providing data against agreed common indicators on the United Nations development system's contribution to advancing the Sustainable Development Goals (annual)
(Percentage)

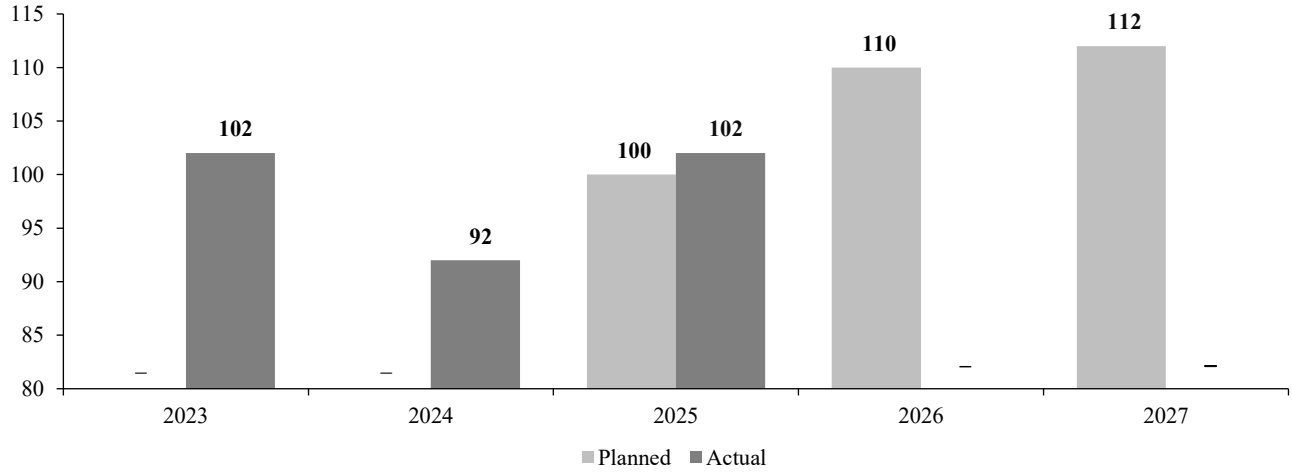

Result 2: enhanced effectiveness of United Nations support in achieving the Sustainable Development Goals through data-driven solutions and digital innovation

Programme performance in 2025 and target for 2027

1.355 The programme's work contributed to 102 United Nations country teams providing support to host country Governments on the use of new technologies and innovation to achieve the Sustainable Development Goals, which exceeded the planned target of 100.

1.356 Progress towards the objective and the target for 2027 are presented in the performance measure below (see figure 1.XXXIV).

Performance measure: number of United Nations country teams providing data against agreed common indicators on the United Nations development system's contribution to advancing the Sustainable Development Goals (annual)

Result 3: safeguarding lives and livelihoods amid the long-term socioeconomic impacts of crises

Proposed programme plan for 2027

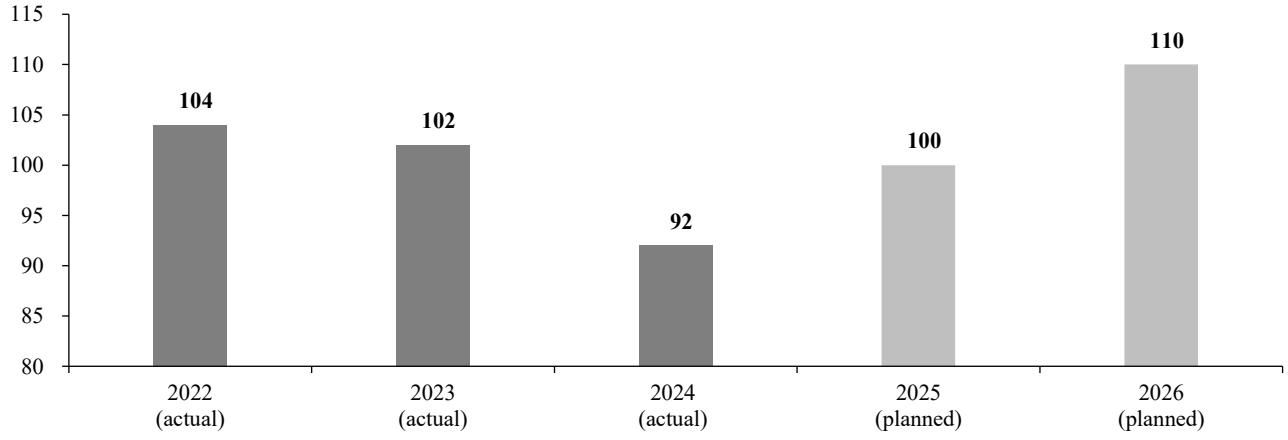

1.357 The International Labour Organization estimates indicate that 3.8 billion people globally lack access to any form of social protection, and that closing this gap would require an additional $1.4 trillion in public financing. At the same time, the global jobs gap – people willing to work but unable to find employment – is projected to reach between 400 and 408 million by 2026. Against this backdrop, the programme is aimed at strengthening support provided by United Nations country teams to safeguard lives and livelihoods in the face of the long-term socioeconomic impacts of crises. The programme is aligned with the commitments of the Second World Social Summit for Social Development, contained in resolution 80/5, which reaffirm the imperative of full and productive employment, decent work for all and universal, inclusive and sustainable social protection systems.

Lessons learned and planned change

1.358 The lesson for the programme was the need for stronger integration between employment and social protection policies, robust and sustainable financing frameworks to underpin scaled-up efforts, and enhanced multilateral cooperation between the United Nations and international financial institutions. In applying the lesson, the programme will promote a more coordinated United Nations approach to social protection and employment, support countries in developing integrated policy frameworks and strategies, and assist in identifying innovative financing options. Through strengthened policy coherence, financing and programming support, the programme will enable increased investment in social protection and livelihoods and accelerate progress towards the Sustainable Development Goals.

Performance measure: percentage of new Cooperation Frameworks that promote integrated approaches to employment, social protection and sustainable finance (annual)

Overview

1.362 The proposed programme budget resources for 2027 (regular budget), including the breakdown of resource changes, as applicable, are reflected in table 1.145.

[a] Includes expenditure of $53 million authorized by the General Assembly in its resolution 79/258 A, in which the Assembly, exceptionally and without creating a precedent, authorized the Secretary-General to enter into commitments with assessment not exceeding $53 million for the resident coordinator system for the period from 1 January to 31 December 2025.

[b] In addition to the $14,313,600 appropriation approved for 2026, the General Assembly, in its resolution 80/242, also authorized the Secretary-General, exceptionally and without creating a precedent, to enter into commitments with assessment not exceeding $53 million for the period from 1 January to 31 December 2026.

1.363 Pursuant to General Assembly resolution 72/279, the resident coordinator system is funded through a 1 per cent coordination levy on tightly earmarked non-core contributions to United Nations system development-related activities, a cost-sharing arrangement among the entities of the United Nations Sustainable Development Group, and voluntary contributions. The proposed programme budget for 2027 reflects an increase of $423,300 under new and expanded mandates, compared with the appropriation for 2026, to cover the Secretariat's share of the cost-sharing arrangement among entities of the United Nations Sustainable Development Group. The proposed increase under grants and contributions reflects the General Assembly's decision in its resolution 79/258 A to adjust the cost-sharing amount for annual inflation, starting from 1 January 2025, pending an agreement on the funding arrangement.

1.364 In its resolution 80/242, the General Assembly recalled paragraphs 3 and 4 of section XVIII of its resolution 79/258 A on the decision to provide sufficient funding for the resident coordinator system and looked forward to receiving the refined comprehensive report at its eighty-first session. The Assembly also noted the need to align the process with the UN80 Initiative and decided to authorize the Secretary-General, exceptionally and without creating a precedent, to enter into commitments with assessment not exceeding $53 million for the period from 1 January to 31 December 2026, in accordance with United Nations financial regulations and rules, to support the funding of the resident coordinator system, and requested the Secretary-General to report on the use of the commitment authority in the context of the performance and budget reports.

1.365 For 2027, the overall resources for the resident coordinator system include the special purpose trust fund and locally mobilized resources. Under the special purpose trust fund, while the resident coordinator system intends to generate up to $281.8 million of pooled funding, comprising voluntary contributions, United Nations Sustainable Development Group cost-sharing and the 1 per cent coordination levy, historical funding patterns indicate potential shortfalls. The sustainability of this funding mix is being further assessed in the context of the report on the financing and governance of the resident coordinator system, to be submitted by the Secretary-General to the General Assembly at its eighty-first session. The distribution of the resources is reflected in tables 1.146 and 1.147.

1.366 Under the locally mobilized resources, the resident coordinator system anticipates $7.3 million of earmarked contributions to be received at the country level for activities financed by third parties that are mobilized locally for activities that are not already funded through the special purpose trust fund (reflected in tables 1.159 (b) and 1.161 (b)).

1.367 The overall resource requirements for 2027 include $281.8 million for the special purpose trust fund for the resident coordinator system (see table 1.147). The forthcoming report by the Secretary-General on the financing and governance of the resident coordinator system will cover the structural and resource requirements. Accordingly, the extrabudgetary estimates for 2027 in the present report are presented at the same level as 2026 estimates.

1.368 Resource requirements of $281.8 million under the special purpose trust fund for 2027 include cost-neutral changes compared with the estimates for 2026. The increase of $195,700 under posts reflects the full provision for the United Nations Resident Coordinator posts in Iraq and Somalia at the D-2 level. These posts were cost-shared with the United Nations Assistance Mission for Iraq and the United Nations Transitional Assistance Mission in Somalia, respectively, prior to their inclusion under the resident coordinator system staffing table in April and November 2026. For 2027, both posts are fully costed under the resident coordinator system staffing table. The increase under posts is offset by corresponding decreases under non-post resources. The net decrease of $195,700 under non-post resources comprises: (a) a reduction of $558,400 under other staff costs, reflecting a decrease in short-term temporary capacity; and (b) a reduction of $2,700 under contractual services, offset in part by an increase of $365,400 under general operating expenses to accommodate anticipated increases under information technology, rental of premises and other service costs.

1.369 The estimated number of posts for the special purpose trust fund in 2027 is reflected in table 1.148. The proposed staffing for 2027 is maintained at the same level as 2026.

Executive direction and management

1.370 The proposed resources under executive direction and management would provide for the Office of the Assistant Secretary-General for Development Coordination. The Office provides strategic planning for the resident coordinator system, supports the Chair, Vice-Chair, principals and working mechanisms of the United Nations Sustainable Development Group, monitors implementation by the Group and United Nations country teams and tracks progress in the implementation of relevant mandates of the quadrennial comprehensive policy review. The Office is responsible for managing engagement with Member States and ensuring their oversight of the resident coordinator system for increased accountability, including by the General Assembly and the Economic and Social Council, and forging strategic partnerships for the mobilization of extrabudgetary resources for the resident coordinator system. The Office also provides substantive engagement and liaison with the highest bodies of decision-making of the United Nations and other departments to ensure greater operational coherence in delivering on the mandate of the resident coordinator system. The Assistant Secretary-General is responsible for the management and oversight of the resident coordinator system, including the resident coordinators, under the direct supervision of the Deputy Secretary-General and Chair of the Group. There is no change in the number and level of posts in 2027 compared with 2026. The distribution of resources is reflected in tables 1.150 and 1.151.

1.371 The extrabudgetary resources under the present component are subject to the oversight of the Office, which has delegated authority from the Secretary-General.

Global coordination

1.373 Under global coordination, branches and sections of the Development Coordination Office at Headquarters work with entities and mechanisms of the United Nations Sustainable Development Group and the broader United Nations system to improve the strategic and operational coherence of operational activities for development. This is achieved by fostering system-wide approaches for integrated policy priorities that accelerate the implementation of the 2030 Agenda. The branches and sections also provide strategic guidance to United Nations country teams for joint analysis, planning, programming, monitoring and assessment of United Nations Sustainable Development Cooperation Frameworks, as well as guidance for joint communications and advocacy on the Sustainable Development Goals and the advancement of system-wide operational efficiencies. Responsibilities under global coordination are implemented by two branches and two sections: the Policy and Programming Branch, the Resident Coordinator System Leadership Branch, the Country Business Strategies Section and the Communications and Results Reporting Section. There is no change in number and level of posts in 2027 compared with 2026.

1.374 The distribution of resources for global coordination is reflected in tables 1.154 and 1.155.

Regional coordination

1.375 The regional teams of the resident coordinator system provide support for country-level coordination. They focus on day-to-day management and support for coherent and effective delivery of operational activities for development by resident coordinators and United Nations country teams through integrated policy programming and operational support, together with the regional teams of the United Nations Sustainable Development Group and the United Nations regional economic and social commissions. The regional offices of the Development Coordination Office are strategically positioned to provide tailored and dedicated support to resident coordinators and their offices, due to their close proximity to the point of delivery and links to other United Nations assets across their respective regions. There is no change in number and level of posts in 2027 compared with 2026.

1.376 The distribution of resources for regional coordination is reflected in tables 1.156 and 1.157.

Country coordination

1.377 Country coordination consists of the work that resident coordinators undertake with the support of resident coordinator offices in leading a new generation of United Nations country teams and development system support for the implementation of the 2030 Agenda at the country level. This independent, impartial and empowered coordination function operates in full alignment with national priorities, needs and planning frameworks under the ownership and leadership of programme countries, for a coherent, effective, efficient and accountable response to country-specific needs, to maximize the impact of the United Nations support and the sustainability of development results.

1.378 The distribution of resources for country coordination is reflected in tables 1.158 and 1.159 (a) for resources under the special purpose trust fund and in table 1.159 (b) for resources under locally mobilized resources.

Programme support

1.379 Programme support services include daily business services and administrative support to the Development Coordination Office at the global level, including in the areas of human resources, information technology, finance, travel, procurement and systems platform management. These services involve the coordination and oversight of and reporting on the Office's headquarters budget; management of the operational relationship with the service providers of the resident coordinator system; provision of backstopping support on business services to the Office's regional desks and resident coordinator offices; coordination and oversight of resident coordinator system results-based budgeting and regular reporting, including reporting to the General Assembly; financial management and financial reporting on all sources of funds for the resident coordinator system; and provision of policy guidance on management accountability and oversight support for the Office, in coordination with other offices within the Secretariat.

1.380 As set out in the report of the Secretary-General on revised estimates relating to the proposed programme budget for 2026 and the support account for peacekeeping operations for the 2025/26 period (A/80/400), as at 1 January 2026, the first phase of common administrative platforms had consolidated common operational, advisory and transactional administrative functions and components of the various Secretariat entities based in relevant duty stations within a single platform. This involved moving the related administrative functions performed by the previous Business Management Branch to one entity that now assumes the overall responsibility for providing the full range of operational and administrative support for the resident coordinator system. Some functions related to strategic planning, legal support and audit support fall outside the scope of this exercise and have been retained in the Development Coordination Office.

1.381 The distribution of resources for programme support is reflected in tables 1.160 and 1.161.

XIV. United Nations Youth Office

A. Proposed programme plan for 2027 and programme performance in 2025

Overall orientation

Mandates and background

1.382 The United Nations has long recognized that the imagination, ideals and energy of young people are vital for the continuing development of the societies in which they live. In 1965, in its resolution 2037 (XX), the General Assembly acknowledged the Declaration on the Promotion among Youth of the Ideals of Peace, Mutual Respect and Understanding between Peoples. In 1995, the Assembly adopted the World Programme of Action for Youth to the Year 2000 and Beyond in its resolution 50/81, which provided a policy framework and practical guidelines to improve the situation of young people. In 2007, the Assembly adopted the Supplement to the World Programme of Action for Youth to the Year 2000 and Beyond in its resolution 62/126, which provided further guidance on promoting the participation of young people in social and economic development. Since 2015, the Security Council, in its resolutions 2250 (2015), 2419 (2018) and 2535 (2020), has called upon all relevant actors to increase the inclusive representation of young people in the prevention and resolution of conflict, including when negotiating and implementing peace agreements.

1.383 In 2013, the Secretary-General appointed the first Envoy on Youth. In 2018, to strengthen the coordination and accountability of the United Nations system with regard to its work on young people, the Secretary-General launched the United Nations Youth Strategy. The General Assembly, in its resolution 76/306, decided to establish the United Nations Youth Office as a dedicated office for youth affairs in the Secretariat, integrating the Office of the Secretary-General's Envoy on Youth. On 27 October 2023, the Secretary-General appointed the first-ever Assistant Secretary-General for Youth Affairs to lead the Office, representing the youngest serving Assistant Secretary-General in the history of the Organization. The mandate derives from the priorities established in relevant resolutions and decisions of the Assembly and the Security Council, including Assembly resolutions 50/81, 62/126, 76/306, 77/336 and 78/179 and Council resolutions 2250 (2015), 2419 (2018), 2535 (2020) and 2807 (2025).

Programme of work

Objective

1.384 The objective, to which the Office contributes, is to ensure the meaningful engagement and leadership of young people in the work of the United Nations and accelerated action at the global, regional and country levels to empower young people, promote their rights and address their needs.

Strategy and external factors for 2027

1.385 To contribute to the objective, the Office will:

(a) Lead engagement and advocacy for the advancement of youth issues across the United Nations in the areas of peace and security, sustainable development and human rights, through engagement with Member State representatives, principals of United Nations organs and senior management of United Nations entities, and in close consultation with young people;

(b) Promote meaningful, inclusive and effective engagement of young people and of youth-led and youth-focused organizations in the work of the United Nations, in close collaboration with United Nations system entities;

(c) Encourage greater United Nations system-wide collaboration, coordination and accountability on the advancement of youth issues, including United Nations support to Member States, as appropriate and upon request, in promoting the effective and meaningful engagement, participation and empowerment of young people;

(d) Engage with youth-focused envoys, representatives and offices of regional organizations on advancing youth issues;

(e) Propose innovative approaches to advance multi-stakeholder initiatives on the engagement and empowerment of young people, for the consideration of Member States, including on quality and inclusive education, decent jobs, skills development, digital transformation and youth-led innovation and solutions;

(f) Promote and facilitate intergenerational and intercultural dialogue, collaboration and solidarity by creating opportunities for young people to not only share and collaborate among one another, but also engage with Member States, the private sector, academia and the United Nations, including through intergovernmental policy forums;

(g) Support efforts to enhance youth representation at the United Nations, including through increasing and improving the conditions of internships and employment opportunities for young people, especially for those from developing countries and with due regard to gender balance;

(h) Support efforts towards the mobilization of financial and technical support and investment to promote and upscale quality and inclusive education and training, skills development, capacity-building and bridging the digital divide, in tandem with job creation, for young people and creating an enabling environment for harnessing their talents and abilities to contribute to their societies;

(i) Conduct outreach to young people and to youth-led and youth-focused organizations, through innovative means, including the use of social media, narrative storytelling and audiovisual content, with an emphasis on the creation of multilingual assets and templates, where possible, for global dissemination through United Nations country teams and United Nations information centres.

1.386 The above-mentioned work is expected to result in:

(a) Meaningful youth engagement being systematically integrated into governance structures, policymaking and decision-making processes at the intergovernmental, regional and national, levels;

(b) Strengthened coherence, accountability and collaboration on youth issues across the United Nations system;

(c) Enhanced mechanisms and increased investments being made available to support socioeconomic opportunities for young people, across social, economic and environmental priorities at the global, regional and national levels.

1.387 With regard to the external factors, the overall plan for 2027 is based on the following planning assumptions:

(a) Member States continue to support the advancement of the situation of young people, including in the implementation of relevant international frameworks and agreements;

(b) Sustained recognition by the global community of the important role that young people play in the promotion of peace and security, sustainable development and human rights;

(c) There is adequate allocation of resources for action on young people and meaningful youth engagement across the United Nations system and national, regional and global institutions.

1.388 With regard to cooperation with other entities at the global, regional, national and local levels, the Office will collaborate with regional and national youth authorities, envoys and regional organizations. It will also prioritize the forging of new relationships and the strengthening of existing collaboration with relevant youth organizations, civil society organizations, academia and the private sector.

1.389 With regard to inter-agency coordination and liaison, the Office will continue to coordinate with more than 60 United Nations entities and all United Nations country teams for improved collaboration, coherence and accountability in youth work across the United Nations system under Youth 2030: The United Nations Strategy on Youth. The Office will provide secretariat support for the strategy's high-level steering committee and the joint working group responsible for advancing coherent action by the United Nations system on youth-related matters. It will also continue to work with the Department of Management Strategy, Policy and Compliance, the Department of Operational Support and United Nations entities and country teams to improve internships and employment opportunities across the United Nations system and beyond, with a focus on advancing socioeconomic opportunities for young people. It will collaborate with the Department of Global Communications to elevate the Organization's work with and for young people and advocate for their rights, participation and protection. It will continue to exercise its system-wide lead on the Youth Strategy to advance the youth, peace and security agenda across the United Nations, in line with Security Council resolution 2807 (2025) and the United Nations Youth Office strategic plan for the period 2025–2028. Building on its engagement in the inter-agency joint secretariat on the youth, peace and security agenda, alongside the United Nations Population Fund and the Department of Political and Peacebuilding Affairs, and through systematic global-level engagement, with intentional linkages to regional and national processes, the Office will advocate for and support the translation of youth, peace and security commitments into practice, including through structured engagement with Member States, parliamentarians and regional organizations. It will also contribute regularly to the work of various inter-agency working groups and partner with relevant United Nations entities, as mandated, on meaningful youth participation in major intergovernmental meetings and across the United Nations system, to accelerate innovative governance models and advocate for global action on youth inclusion and youth leadership. As part of the efforts to strengthen support for young people, the Office will continue to collaborate with OHCHR, including on advancing mental health as a human right.

1.390 The Office integrates a gender perspective into its operational activities, deliverables and results, as appropriate, by ensuring the meaningful participation of girls and young women in United Nations processes and intergovernmental decision-making, facilitating intergenerational discussions on women's leadership, promoting the integration of a gender perspective into youth inclusion and youth-led action and by promoting discussions on sexual and reproductive health and rights as an integral part of the youth agenda.

1.391 In line with the United Nations Disability Inclusion Strategy and guided by the Office's research findings and recommendations on young people with disabilities, the Office will advocate for meaningful participation of young persons with disabilities in the work of the United Nations and beyond. In consultation with young people with disabilities and their networks and organizations, the Office will mainstream disability inclusion into all aspects of its work, with the aim of ensuring accessibility to opportunities, information and events, to the greatest extent possible.

Adjustments arising from the UN80 Initiative

1.392 The proposed programme plan for 2027 reflects efforts of the Office to implement all mandates in a more efficient and effective manner and contains no substantive adjustments arising from the UN80 Initiative.

1.393 The Office will be guided by any future decisions taken in the context of the UN80 Initiative, in accordance with the applicable rules and procedures, including decisions, resolutions and established practice of the competent intergovernmental organs.

Evaluation activities

1.394 A thematic evaluation on youth engagement, to be conducted by OIOS, is planned for 2027.

Programme performance in 2025

Progress in advancing youth priorities and meaningful youth engagement

1.395 In 2025, the United Nations Youth Office, through its flagship initiative, the United Nations Youth Compass, notably the global #YouthLead Festival and decentralized dialogues, significantly expanded the scale and reach of youth engagement in global processes. The initiative engaged over 75,000 young people from 182 countries, enabling them to contribute to forward-looking policy discussions and elevating youth priorities across key global platforms. These contributions supported the integration of youth priorities into United Nations processes, including the launch of phase 2 of the Youth Strategy (2025–2030), which introduced strengthened accountability for meaningful youth engagement, with 67 per cent of performance areas rated “green” across United Nations country teams. They also informed the advancement of global principles for meaningful, inclusive and safe youth engagement under the Pact for the Future. Through these efforts, more structured and accountable approaches to youth engagement were strengthened, enabling young people to contribute to shaping global policy and sustainable development.

1.396 Progress towards the objective is presented in the performance measure below (see table 1.162).

Result 1: youth engagement at all levels: moving from quantity to quality

Programme performance in 2025 and target for 2027

1.397 The Office’s work contributed to the development of core principles for meaningful, representative, inclusive and safe youth engagement in intergovernmental processes and across the work of the United Nations, in consultation with Member States, which met the planned target.

1.398 Progress towards the objective and the target for 2027 are presented in the performance measure below (see table 1.163).

Result 2: towards a global youth investment platform to scale up youth-related programming

Programme performance in 2025 and target for 2027

1.399 The Office's work contributed to young people and United Nations entities, in consultation with Member States, developing an options paper for a global youth investment platform, which met the planned target.

1.400 Progress towards the objective and the target for 2027 are presented in the performance measure below (see table 1.164).

Result 3: strengthened youth participation in peace and security processes

Proposed programme plan for 2027

1.401 In line with action 20 of the Pact for the Future, Member States committed to accelerating implementation of the youth, peace and security agenda and recognized that the full, effective, safe and meaningful participation of young people is critical to maintaining and promoting international peace and security. Efforts across the United Nations system have focused on shifting from the symbolic inclusion of young people to more structured and influential youth engagement in peace and security processes. In 2025, the Office demonstrated that purposeful convening and advocacy efforts, including through the #YouthLead Festival and decentralized dialogues held in September 2025, can mobilize youth engagement at scale and translate political commitments into emerging standards and tools.

Lessons learned and planned change

1.402 The lesson for the Office was that high levels of participation do not automatically translate into meaningful influence, and that sustained partnerships, institutional entry points and follow-up mechanisms are essential to translating political commitments into consistent, meaningful youth participation in peace and security decision-making. In applying the lesson, the Office will focus on institutionalizing regular youth briefings and expert-level discussions in the work of the Security Council, supporting open debates on the report of the Secretary-General on youth and peace and security and strengthening youth inclusion in national responses, including national action plans. The Office will also update guidance and toolkits, strengthen country-level support and peer learning, increase emphasis on evidence and impact-tracking and accelerate digital monitoring and dashboards to progressively replace manual reporting and strengthen feedback, accountability and adaptive management across the implementation of the Youth Strategy and the youth, peace and security agenda.

1.403 Expected progress towards the objective is presented in the performance measure below (see table 1.165).

Overall resource changes

Other changes

1.409 As shown in table 1.170 (1), resource changes reflect an increase of $55,000, comprising: (a) an increase of $53,200 under posts and $1,100 under other staff costs related to adjustments to standards applicable to posts and positions; and (b) a net increase of $700 under contractual services due to anticipated changes in price levels of specialized multimedia services, including web design and virtual event production ($1,200), offset in part by slightly lower standard costs for the core software package at United Nations Headquarters ($500).

Extrabudgetary resources

1.410 As reflected in tables 1.170 (2) and 1.171 (2), extrabudgetary resources amount to $711,900, reflecting a decrease of $1,943,600 (or 73.2 per cent). The non-post resources would complement regular budget resources and support the delivery of mandates, including by supporting meaningful youth engagement and enhancing meaningful youth participation in decision-making processes.

1.411 The extrabudgetary resources under the present section are subject to the oversight of the Assistant Secretary-General for Youth Affairs, under delegated authority from the Secretary-General.

1.412 Information on the timely submission of documentation and advance booking of air travel is reflected in table 1.173. The Office will strengthen its efforts to ensure the advance booking of tickets in line with the advance booking of air travel policy and to improve its compliance rate.

XV. Office of Data Protection and Privacy

A. Proposed programme plan for 2027 and programme performance in 2025

Overall orientation

Mandates and background

1.413 The Office of Data Protection and Privacy was established pursuant to General Assembly resolution 78/252 as an independent office responsible for assisting the Secretariat in ensuring respect for data protection and privacy in the use and processing of personal data by Secretariat entities, consistent with United Nations mandates. The right to privacy in contemporary international law is enshrined in multiple international frameworks, including article 12 of the Universal Declaration of Human Rights and article 17 of the International Covenant on Civil and Political Rights. The Assembly has continued to consider this issue actively, including through its resolution 77/211 and preceding resolutions, by which it reaffirmed the right to privacy in the digital age, and its resolution 78/265, in which it advocated for the safeguard of privacy and the protection of personal data as part of promoting safe, secure and trustworthy artificial intelligence systems.

1.414 In furtherance of relevant resolutions and decisions of the General Assembly, the Secretary-General promulgated a bulletin by which he established a data protection and privacy policy for the Secretariat (ST/SGB/2024/3). The Office contributes to the effective implementation of data protection and privacy standards, in line with that policy, and to fostering a culture of data protection and privacy awareness across the Secretariat.

Programme of work

Objective

1.415 The objective, to which the Office contributes, is to ensure that, when personal data are processed by United Nations Secretariat entities, such processing is consistent with United Nations mandates and in a manner that respects the rights of individuals and groups.

Strategy and external factors for 2027

1.416 To contribute to the objective, the Office will:

(a) Provide independent and impartial advice and support to the Secretary-General and United Nations Secretariat entities on the measures to be taken to ensure compliance with the data protection and privacy rules, regulations, processes and policies of the Secretariat;

(b) Provide assistance to entities, for example, to fulfil requests made by individuals about their personal data to ensure implementation and compliance with relevant data protection and privacy rules, regulations, processes and policies in relation to personal data that are shared across entities, including through Secretariat-wide enterprise systems, or that otherwise relate to several entities;

(c) Establish and maintain a reporting mechanism for receiving and disseminating requests made by individuals about their personal data;

(d) Monitor and report to the Secretary-General on compliance with data protection and privacy rules, regulations, processes and policies of the Secretariat;

(e) Foster a culture of data protection and privacy awareness across the Organization.

1.417 The above-mentioned work is expected to result in:

(a) A workplace culture that recognizes the importance of data protection and privacy across the Secretariat;

(b) Effective prevention, identification and mitigation of data protection and privacy risks across the Organization;

(c) Increased transparency and accountability in the Organization's data protection and privacy practices.

1.418 With regard to the external factors, the overall plan for 2027 is based on the following assumptions:

(a) United Nations Secretariat entities adopt data protection and privacy standards, in line with the data protection and privacy policy;

(b) United Nations Secretariat entities utilize the standardized tools and frameworks provided by the Office to manage operational risk.

1.419 With regard to inter-agency coordination and liaison, the Office will participate in inter-agency networks, as appropriate, including with data protection and privacy officers of United Nations agencies, funds and programmes, to share best practices and advance common practices for data protection and privacy system-wide.

1.420 The Office integrates a gender perspective into its operational activities, deliverables and results. For example, during the Organization-wide implementation of data protection and privacy requirements, the Office will ensure that the Organization's personal data processing activities do not reinforce or exacerbate gender inequalities, or expose women, girls or any other group at heightened risk of gender-based discrimination to harm.

1.421 In line with the United Nations Disability Inclusion Strategy, the Office will ensure that it takes into account the needs of persons with disabilities, both in the accessibility of its services and in its support for the implementation of the data protection and privacy requirements within the Organization. The Office will integrate disability inclusion considerations into the Organization-wide implementation of data protection and privacy requirements to ensure that the Organization's personal data processing activities do not reinforce or exacerbate disability-related inequalities or expose persons with disabilities to harm. The Office will also work to ensure that any relevant content, including information conveyed online such as through privacy notices and forms, contains accessibility features that benefit persons with disabilities.

Adjustments arising from the UN80 Initiative

1.422 The proposed programme plan for 2027 reflects efforts of the Office to implement all mandates in a more efficient and effective manner and contains no substantive adjustments arising from the UN80 Initiative.

1.423 The Office will be guided by any future decisions taken in the context of the UN80 Initiative, in accordance with the applicable rules and procedures, including decisions, resolutions and established practice of the competent intergovernmental organs.

Evaluation activities

1.424 An evaluation to systematically and objectively assess the relevance, efficiency and effectiveness of the Office's activities, with a view to informing programme performance and refining future targets, to be conducted by the Office, is planned for 2027.

Programme performance in 2025

Increased operational readiness in data protection and privacy management

1.425 Effective and coherent data protection and privacy management is essential to ensuring that personal data are handled responsibly across the Organization. In 2025, the Office facilitated a high-level review of the Organization's data protection and privacy capabilities, which provided the insights necessary to refine priorities, identify areas requiring targeted support and clarify key roles and responsibilities across all levels. The high-level review of the Organization's data protection capabilities resulted in heightened awareness across Secretariat entities regarding the critical need for robust privacy frameworks and provided the benchmarks necessary to establish a meaningful, long-term strategy.

1.426 Progress towards the objective is presented in the performance measure below (see table 1.174).

Programme performance in 2025 and target for 2027

1.427 The Office's work contributed to the development of a new data protection and privacy page on the Knowledge Gateway platform, including frequently asked questions, to serve as a central hub for personnel seeking resources and information. The page is expected to be finalized and launched in 2026, which did not meet the planned target of personnel having access to additional information and resources regarding data protection and privacy in the Organization. The target was not met due to delays in recruitment and onboarding. All personnel are now fully onboarded.

1.428 Progress towards the objective and the target for 2027 are presented in the performance measure below (see table 1.175).

Result 2: optimized business processes to integrate and ensure compliance with the data protection and privacy policy across the Organization

Proposed programme plan for 2027

1.429 The Office's work contributed to the development of operational guidance and a responsible, accountable, consulted and informed matrix clarifying key roles, responsibilities and processes related to data protection and privacy compliance, which did not meet the planned target of establishing and operationalizing support mechanisms in order to facilitate timely and effective assistance by the Office to entities and individuals. The target was not met due to delays in recruitment and onboarding. All personnel are now fully onboarded.

1.430 Progress towards the objective and the target for 2027 are presented in the performance measure below (see table 1.176).

Result 3: enhanced organizational resilience and data protection and privacy-by-design maturity in the age of artificial intelligence

Proposed programme plan for 2027

1.431 Effective data protection and privacy risk management is a core component of the Organization's data protection and privacy programme. The Office supports entities in the conduct of data impact assessments to identify and mitigate risks, ensuring that these assessments are embedded in the design phase of personal data processing activities in line with the principles of data protection and privacy by design. With the Organization's growing reliance on technologies, including the expansion of artificial intelligence projects, including under the UN80 Initiative digital workstreams, there is a heightened need to integrate this risk management process systematically and early across relevant workstreams.

Lessons learned and planned change

1.432 The lesson for the Office was that manual, entity-level support on privacy is not scalable for the rapid, decentralized deployment of artificial intelligence technologies across the Secretariat. In applying the lesson, the Office will pivot to a systemic oversight model. This involves embedding data protection and privacy by design as core operating principles for the Organization and deploying a standardized data impact assessment toolkit to ensure high-velocity, low-friction accountability at the engineering stage. This transition will strengthen compliance, improve the systematic and timely identification of data protection and privacy risks, and reinforce centralized oversight for more effective mitigation.

1.433 Expected progress towards the objective is presented in the performance measure below (see table 1.177).

XVI. Office for Digital and Emerging Technologies

A. Proposed programme plan for 2027

Overall orientation

Mandates and background

1.441 In an age of increasing digital interdependence, the General Assembly has long recognized that effective cooperation on technology issues is an indispensable component of addressing the new challenges and opportunities posed by an increasingly digitalized world, inter alia, in resolutions 56/183, 70/1, 70/125, 75/1, 78/132 and 78/160, including as a key driver for the implementation of the 2030 Agenda. The position of Envoy of the Secretary-General on Technology was established in 2021 to advise the senior leadership of the United Nations on key trends in technology, so as to guide the strategic approach taken by the Organization on such issues, to serve as an advocate and focal point for digital cooperation so that Member States, the technology industry, civil society and other stakeholders would have a first port of call for the broader United Nations system, and to facilitate multi-stakeholder policy dialogue on emerging technologies (see A/74/821). The establishment of the Office of the Envoy of the Secretary-General on Technology was noted by the Assembly in its resolution 75/316.

1.442 Through the adoption of the Global Digital Compact (resolution 79/1, annex I), the General Assembly requested the Secretary-General, following consultations with Member States, to submit a proposal to the Assembly for the establishment of an office, building on and incorporating the existing activities and resources of the existing Office of the Envoy of the Secretary-General on Technology, to facilitate system-wide coordination, working closely with existing mechanisms. In its resolution 79/258 A, the Assembly approved the establishment of the Office for Digital and Emerging Technologies and its operational functions. Through its resolution 80/173, the General Assembly noted the establishment of the Office to facilitate United Nations system-wide coordination on digital cooperation, working closely with existing mechanisms, and to support the follow-up to and implementation of the Global Digital Compact.

Programme of work

Objective

1.443 The objective, to which the Office contributes, is to ensure that cooperation on technology governance is advanced for a better future.

Strategy and external factors for 2027

1.444 To contribute to the objective, the Office will:

(a) Advise the senior leadership of the United Nations on key trends in technology, so as to guide the strategic approach taken by the Organization on such issues;

(b) Serve as an advocate and focal point for digital cooperation, through engagement with Member States, the technology industry, civil society and other stakeholders;

(c) Facilitate multi-stakeholder policy dialogue on digital and emerging technology issues;

(d) Strengthen system-wide coordination within and across the United Nations system on digital and emerging technology issues;

(e) Support the follow-up and implementation of the Global Digital Compact.

1.445 The above-mentioned work is expected to result in:

(a) More inclusive and effective cooperation at all levels on digital and emerging technology issues;

(b) Strengthened coherence within and across the United Nations system on digital and emerging technology issues;

(c) Enhanced implementation of the Global Digital Compact.

1.446 With regard to the external factors, the overall plan for 2027 is based on the following assumptions:

(a) Member States continue to engage in constructive dialogue and cooperation on digital and emerging technology issues at the global and regional levels;

(b) Adequate extrabudgetary resources are available to ensure meaningful engagement across the United Nations system, and with national, regional and global institutions and organizations.

1.447 With regard to cooperation with other entities at the global, regional, national and local levels, the Office will collaborate with global and regional organizations, such as the World Bank, the African Union, the European Union and the Organisation for Economic Co-operation and Development. The Office will also prioritize the forging of new relationships and the strengthening of existing ones with relevant civil society organizations, academia and the private sector.

1.448 With regard to inter-agency coordination and liaison, the Office will strengthen system-wide coordination within and across the United Nations system on digital and emerging technology issues, promoting collective synergies and messaging on such issues and reducing duplication for a more effective use of resources across the United Nations system. Such activities include serving as the coordinating entity for the secretariat supporting the Independent International Scientific Panel on Artificial Intelligence; coordinating, as required, a joint secretariat supporting the Global Dialogue on Artificial Intelligence Governance, separate from that supporting the Panel; serving as Co-Chair of the Working Group on Digital Technologies with the International Telecommunication Union; strengthening coordination within and between the processes for the implementation of the Global Digital Compact and the outcomes of the 20-year review of the World Summit on the Information Society, as well as other United Nations processes, such as the multi-stakeholder forum on science, technology and innovation for the Sustainable Development Goals, and coordination with the Technology Bank for the Least Developed Countries; and partnering with and connecting other

United Nations system and non-United Nations entities through joint programming towards the Office's objective. The Office will also advance engagement with the regional economic commissions, the Development Coordination Office and the resident coordinator system to provide guidance on best practices regarding digital transformation for use by Member States, and for connecting to regional, national and local networks in support of implementation of the Global Digital Compact.

1.449 The Office integrates a gender perspective into its operational activities, deliverables and results, as appropriate, including by advocating for the meaningful participation of girls and young women in relevant United Nations processes, and by incorporating a gender perspective on digital and emerging technology issues in multi-stakeholder policy dialogues facilitated by the Office.

1.450 In line with the United Nations Disability Inclusion Strategy, the Office will advocate for the meaningful participation of persons with disabilities in relevant United Nations processes and incorporate the perspectives of persons with disabilities on digital and emerging technology issues in multi-stakeholder policy dialogues facilitated by the Office. The Office will aim to ensure accessibility for persons with disabilities to information produced and events organized by the Office, to the greatest extent possible.

Adjustments arising from the UN80 Initiative

1.451 The proposed programme plan for 2027 reflects efforts of the Office to implement all mandates in a more efficient and effective manner and contains no substantive adjustments arising from the UN80 Initiative.

1.452 The Office will be guided by any future decisions taken in the context of the UN80 Initiative, in accordance with the applicable rules and procedures, including decisions, resolutions and established practice of the competent intergovernmental organs.

Evaluation activities

1.453 The following evaluation completed in 2025 has guided the proposed programme plan for 2027: self-evaluation of the Office's capacity to support resident coordinators for improved localized implementation of the Global Digital Compact.

1.454 In response to the results of the evaluation referenced above, the Office will continue providing guidance to resident coordinators to support localized follow-up and implementation of the Global Digital Compact. In addition, the Office will seek to facilitate a workshop at the annual resident coordinators' retreat.

1.455 A self-evaluation of the Office regarding its role in facilitating United Nations system-wide coordination on digital cooperation and digital and emerging technology issues is planned for 2027.

Programme performance in 2025

Progress on the Global Digital Compact becomes visible to all stakeholders

1.456 The commitments in the Global Digital Compact require significant collective action to achieve its ambitious goals. In 2025, the Office launched the United Nations Digital Cooperation Portal, which significantly enhanced opportunities for all stakeholders to map digital initiatives, connect to global partners and track progress on key priorities.

1.457 In line with the Office's operational function to strengthen system-wide coordination, the portal brings together more than 15 United Nations system entities and numerous stakeholders to present their progress across the five Global Digital Compact objectives. Besides showcasing United Nations system contributions, the portal has become a helpful tracker for external Compact implementation, making use of publicly available resources to show a global summary of initiatives by objective. The portal also offers an innovative suite of resources, compiled under an "AI Toolbox". To increase alignment with the Compact, the platform enables users to demonstrate how their initiatives integrate its objectives and to build a coherent narrative around it.

1.458 Progress towards the objective is presented in the performance measure below (see table 1.186).

Planned results for 2027

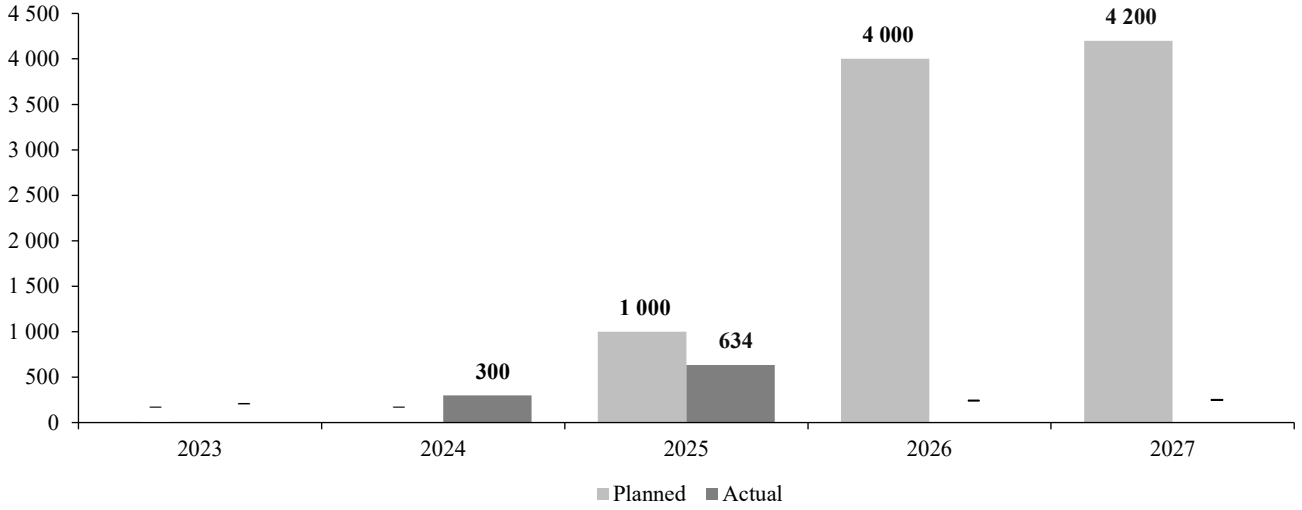

Result 1: strengthened multi-stakeholder commitment to the Global Digital Compact

Programme performance in 2025 and target for 2027

1.459 The Office's work contributed to 634 endorsements of the Global Digital Compact, which did not meet the planned target of 1,000. The target was not met due to numerous organizations opting to express their support through endorsement by umbrella membership organizations.

1.460 Progress towards the objective and the target for 2027 are presented in the performance measure below (see figure 1.XXXVIII).

Performance measure: number of endorsements of the Global Digital Compact (cumulative)

Result 2: advanced cooperation on international governance of artificial intelligence

Proposed programme plan for 2027

1.461 Through the adoption of the Global Digital Compact (resolution 79/1, annex I) in September 2024, the General Assembly committed to establishing a multidisciplinary Independent International Scientific Panel on Artificial Intelligence and initiating a Global Dialogue on Artificial Intelligence Governance within the United Nations. Through its resolution 79/325 of 26 August 2025 on the terms of reference and modalities for the establishment and functioning of the Panel and the Dialogue, the Assembly established these mechanisms within the United Nations and requested the Secretary-General to facilitate appropriate Secretariat support for each, within existing mandates. In September 2025, the Office supported the high-level multi-stakeholder informal meeting to launch the Dialogue on the margins of the high-level week of the General Assembly. The Office also coordinated across the United Nations system and administered the implementation of the Secretary-General's criteria-based open call to recommend a list of 40 members for the Panel for appointment by the Assembly, alongside measures to safeguard the Panel's scientific independence, including administering the mandated conflict of interest disclosure procedure. In February 2026, the General Assembly appointed the members of the Panel for a term of three years. The Office was also assigned the role of coordinating entity for the secretariat supporting the Panel, in line with Assembly resolution 79/325.

Lessons learned and planned change

1.462 The lesson for the Office was that effective Secretariat support for global, multi-stakeholder mechanisms on artificial intelligence requires clear administrative and operational frameworks, early coordination and sustained system-wide engagement to ensure timely and high-quality delivery in conformity with mandates. In applying the lesson, the Office will continue to serve as the coordinating entity of the Panel secretariat and coordinate the separate Dialogue joint secretariat, as required, by leveraging United Nations system-wide capacities and providing and coordinating operational and other support for each mechanism. The Office will ensure that Secretariat support for the Panel serves to safeguard the scientific independence of its work and reports, including through administering the ongoing conflict of interest disclosure process and other relevant measures. The Office will also continue to serve as an advocate and focal point for digital cooperation on artificial intelligence capacity-building, including by taking into consideration the contributions of the Panel and the Dialogue, supporting voluntary and transparent cooperation frameworks or initiatives, and advancing the development of international partnerships on artificial intelligence capacity-building in line with the Global Digital Compact.

1.463 Expected progress towards the objective is presented in the performance measure below (see table 1.187).

1.468 As shown in tables 1.192 (1) and 1.193 (1), the overall resources proposed for 2027 amount to $1,999,900, reflecting an increase of $668,300 (or 50.2 per cent) compared with the approved budget for 2026. Resource changes result from new and expanded mandates and other changes. The proposed level of resources provides for the full, efficient and effective implementation of mandates.

Overall resource changes

New and expanded mandates

1.469 As shown in table 1.189, resource changes reflect an increase of $625,000 under other staff costs relating to the proposed establishment of three general temporary assistance positions (1 P-4 and 2 P-3), in accordance with General Assembly resolution 79/325, and an increase of $12,300 under non-post resources associated with the proposed establishment of the three general temporary positions, under contractual services ($5,400), general operating expenses ($1,800), supplies and materials ($600) and furniture and equipment ($4,500).

1.470 In its resolution 79/325, the General Assembly requested the Secretary-General to facilitate Secretariat support for the Independent International Scientific Panel on Artificial Intelligence and the Global Dialogue on Artificial Intelligence Governance, within existing mandates. In February 2026, the Assembly appointed the members of the Panel for a term of three years. The Secretary-General assigned the Office to serve as the coordinating entity for the secretariat supporting the Panel. The Office will also coordinate, as required, a separate joint secretariat for the Dialogue. Accordingly, it is proposed to establish three general temporary assistance positions, as follows:

(a) Programme Management Officer (Coordination) (P-4): The incumbent would fulfil a critical coordination function, liaising directly with entities of the United Nations system to facilitate appropriate Secretariat support for the Panel by leveraging United Nations system-wide capacities in line with General Assembly resolution 79/325, including ensuring rapporteur support for the Panel's work, servicing informal consultation processes between the Panel and external experts and supporting external communications efforts;

(b) Programme Management Officer (P-3): The incumbent would provide administrative and operational support to the Panel and its members, including scheduling and servicing its plenary and working group meetings, Panel member administration and liaison (e.g. concerning conflict of interest and visa and travel arrangements), document production and processing for the Panel, and coordinating presentations of the Panel to the General Assembly and the Dialogue;

(c) Programme Management Officer (Coordination) (P-3): The incumbent would facilitate appropriate Secretariat support for the United Nations for the Dialogue by leveraging United Nations system-wide capacities in line with General Assembly resolution 79/325, including supporting intergovernmental processes and coordinating with Secretariat and United Nations system entities to ensure inclusive multistakeholder consultation processes, registration and accreditation, and fundraising for inclusive participation from developing countries in the Dialogue.

Other changes

1.471 As shown in table 1.192 (1), resource changes reflect an increase of $31,000, comprising: (a) an increase of $21,200 under posts and $9,400 under other staff costs related to adjustments to standards applicable to posts and positions; and (b) a net increase of $400 under contractual services due to anticipated changes in price levels of data-processing services and a cost-neutral adjustment due to higher standard costs for the core software package for personnel outside of United Nations Headquarters, fully offset by lower standard costs for the core software package at Headquarters.

Extrabudgetary resources

1.472 As reflected in tables 1.192 (2) and 1.193 (2), extrabudgetary resources amount to $2,984,300, reflecting a decrease of $83,600 (or 2.7 per cent). The resources would complement regular budget resources and be used mainly to provide for nine posts (2 P-4, 4 P-3, 2 P-2 and 1 General Service (Other level)) and non-post resources that would be used to support the delivery of the Office's mandates, advancing cooperation on technology issues for a better future.

1.473 The extrabudgetary resources under the present section are subject to the oversight of the Special Envoy of the Secretary-General for Digital and Emerging Technologies (Under-Secretary-General), under delegated authority from the Secretary-General.

XVII. United Nations Alliance of Civilizations

A. Proposed programme plan for 2027 and programme performance in 2025

Overall orientation

Mandates and background

1.475 The United Nations Alliance of Civilizations was established in 2005, as an initiative of the Secretary-General, to explore the root causes of polarization within and between societies and to recommend a programme of action, including through the promotion of intercultural and interreligious dialogue to build bridges of understanding. The Alliance seeks to foster understanding and cooperation across cultures and religions and to counter polarization and extremism.

1.476 The General Assembly, through its resolutions 64/14 and 69/312, expressed its support for the work of the Alliance and reiterated its valuable role in promoting greater understanding and respect among civilizations, cultures, religions and beliefs.

1.477 In its resolution 78/264, the General Assembly requested the Secretary-General to appoint a United Nations Special Envoy to combat Islamophobia. Subsequently, in its resolution 79/258 B, the Assembly approved the conversion of the post of High Representative for the United Nations Alliance of Civilizations (Under-Secretary-General), previously funded from extrabudgetary resources, to regular budget funding under the Alliance under section 1. The post serves a dual role as High Representative for the United Nations Alliance of Civilizations and the United Nations Special Envoy to Combat Islamophobia.

Programme of work

Objective

1.478 The objective, to which the Alliance contributes, is to improve understanding and cooperation among nations and peoples across cultures and religions and to reduce polarization at the local and global levels.

Strategy and external factors for 2027

1.479 To contribute to the objective, the Alliance will:

(a) Promote interreligious and intercultural dialogue, including dialogue among civilizations;

(b) Design and implement peace education initiatives aimed at equipping young people with the critical thinking skills and competencies needed to play an active and positive role in issues of peace and security and in preventing violent extremism and radicalization;

(c) Provide a grant funding mechanism, capacity-building support and mentorship for young people, youth-led organizations and civil society organizations that implement projects related to intercultural and interfaith dialogue, particularly in areas affected by identity-based conflict, with a view to combating intolerance and stereotyping based on religion or belief;

(d) Facilitate dialogues to build stronger partnerships and promote the voices of young people and of civil society at large, including faith actors and grass-roots organizations, thereby fostering mutual understanding and collaboration across divides;

(e) Reinforce synergies with international organizations that work for the integration of migrant communities and promote the role of municipalities and cities in building inclusive and resilient societies;

(f) Develop initiatives that serve to train young people in multimedia storytelling and video production and facilitate collaborative media projects that unite young creators from different cultural and religious backgrounds, with an emphasis on the creation of content that changes the narrative around migrants and promotes tolerance, respect, dialogue and cooperation;

(g) Promote the role and contribution of women as peace mediators, including through the Women's Alliance for Peace initiative and through intercultural and interreligious mediation training aimed at women leaders in conflict contexts;

(h) Identify, showcase and promote the role of religious leaders and faith-based organizations engaged in interreligious mediation;

(i) Develop, support and participate in global communication, advocacy and programming initiatives aimed at amplifying the message of inclusion and peace through sports;

(j) Collaborate with arts institutions, cultural organizations and educational institutions to integrate arts into broader advocacy efforts aimed at promoting tolerance, respect, dialogue and cooperation;

(k) Engage with United Nations entities for a comprehensive and coordinated approach to addressing and responding to Islamophobia, antisemitism and other forms of intolerance based on religion and belief;

(l) Conduct briefings for Member States to highlight the linkages between religious intolerance and human rights, and to contribute to efforts towards the effective development of system-wide responses to all forms of religious intolerance;

(m) Organize tailored institutional events focused on trends in Islamophobia to provide a platform for a multi-stakeholder approach, including Member States, relevant United Nations entities, media providers, civil society and faith actors, in combating Islamophobia;

(n) Engage in dialogue on Islamophobia with State and non-State actors, in order to address the root causes and explore possible solutions and good practices to address Islamophobia;

(o) Engage with Member States and relevant stakeholders to assist, as appropriate, in the implementation of the recommendations contained in the United Nations Plan of Action to Safeguard Religious Sites, including carrying out the "#forSafeWorship" communication campaign; raising the awareness of the international community and the general public about the universality of religious sites; and issuing press statements in condemnation of attacks on worshippers, acts of violence, and attacks on and destruction of religious places, sites and shrines, which are in violation of international law, in both conflict and non-conflict situations;

(p) Engage with relevant United Nations entities and agencies on the implementation of the recommendations contained in the United Nations action plan to enhance the monitoring of and response to antisemitism, including the convening of relevant stakeholders (Member States, regional and international organizations, and Jewish organizations and communities) to explore good practices to respond to antisemitism.

1.480 The above-mentioned work is expected to result in:

(a) Enhanced social stability and an environment conducive to peace and mutual understanding;

(b) Advancement of intercultural and interreligious dialogue, and a culture of peace and mutual respect;

(c) Improved action by Member States and non-State actors in addressing the root causes of all forms of religious intolerance, xenophobia and discrimination based on religion, belief or ethnicity.

1.481 With regard to the external factors, the overall plan for 2027 is based on the following planning assumptions:

(a) Governments have the political commitment and dedicate resources to accelerate action to prevent conflicts and address the root causes of all forms of religious intolerance;

(b) Civil society, faith-based organizations, local communities, the private sector and media are committed to working together to advance intercultural and interreligious dialogue;

(c) Personnel, at all levels, prioritize addressing all forms of religious intolerance within United Nations operations.

1.482 With regard to cooperation with other entities at the global, regional, national and local levels, the Alliance of Civilizations will continue to garner the support of Member States for the advancement of intercultural and interreligious dialogue, a culture of peace and mutual respect, and for the reinforcement of partnerships with regional and subregional actors for the practical implementation of its activities, including with the European Union, the League of Arab States, the Organization of Islamic Cooperation, the Organization of American States, the Council of Europe, the Black Sea Economic Cooperation Organization, the Organization for Security and Cooperation in Europe, the International Organization of Turkic Culture and the Union for the Mediterranean. In addition, the Alliance will continue to work closely with non-State actors, namely civil society, young people, local communities, faith actors, academic institutions, the media, research institutes and the private sector, to build capacity and raise awareness of the role of intercultural and interreligious dialogue in conflict prevention and addressing the root causes of all forms of religious intolerance, xenophobia and discrimination based on religion, belief or ethnicity.

1.483 With regard to inter-agency coordination and liaison, the Alliance will continue to co-chair the United Nations Inter-Agency Task Force on Religion and Sustainable Development and engage its multi-faith advisory council; act as Vice-Chair of the Working Group on Preventing and Countering Violent Extremism Conducive to Terrorism; and lead the establishment and the activities of a United Nations working group to monitor, evaluate and assess the impact of policies and measures to address antisemitism on a regular basis. In addition, the Alliance will continue to strengthen its cooperation with the Department of Global Communications, the Department of Political and Peacebuilding Affairs, the International Organization for Migration, the United Nations Population Fund, the Office of Counter-Terrorism, UNESCO, the Office of the Special Adviser to the Secretary-General on the Prevention of Genocide, OHCHR, the United Nations Youth Office and the Special Rapporteur on freedom of religion or belief through information exchange, joint events and initiatives, for more effective advocacy and coordinated actions to ensure that the prevention agenda remains prominent on the international agenda and to address all forms of religious intolerance in a coherent manner within the United Nations system.

1.484 The Alliance integrates a gender perspective into its operational activities, deliverables and results, as appropriate. In 2027, it will continue to support the Women's Alliance for Peace and promote the inclusion of women peace mediators in conflict mediation and conflict resolution initiatives. It will also continue its advocacy to ensure that the voices of young women and men that support peace processes at the local level are more actively represented at global events organized by the Alliance and other relevant forums. Information on the beneficiaries of the Alliance's programmes will continue to be systematically disaggregated by sex in order to present a gender-sensitive analysis of the impact of the Alliance's programme.

1.485 In line with the United Nations Disability Inclusion Strategy, the Alliance will seek to systematically integrate accessibility and reasonable accommodation considerations into the planning and delivery of its conferences, meetings and capacity-building activities. Accessibility requirements will be applied to conference services, facilities and information materials, and reasonable accommodation needs will be identified and addressed as part of standard event management processes, with the aim of enabling the effective participation of persons with disabilities.

Adjustments arising from the UN80 Initiative

1.486 The proposed programme plan for 2027 reflects efforts of the Alliance to implement all mandates in a more efficient and effective manner and contains no substantive adjustments arising from the UN80 Initiative.

1.487 The Alliance will be guided by any future decisions taken in the context of the UN80 Initiative, in accordance with the applicable rules and procedures, including decisions, resolutions and established practice of the competent intergovernmental organs.

Evaluation activities

1.488 The Alliance plans to conduct an internal evaluation in 2027 on a topic to be determined.

Programme performance in 2025

Enhanced ownership of Member States towards the promotion of a culture of peace, interreligious and intercultural dialogue for mutual understanding, and addressing all forms of religious intolerance

1.489 In December 2025, Saudi Arabia and the Alliance organized the eleventh United Nations Alliance of Civilizations Global Forum in Riyadh, in which 104 official delegations of Member States and international organizations participated, along with religious leaders and faith actors, and representatives of the private sector, civil society, academia, youth, arts, sports and media, who renewed their shared commitment to the enduring power of dialogue, mutual respect and understanding. In the final communiqué of the Forum, Member States pledged to promote a culture of peace and address all forms of religious intolerance, and acknowledged national initiatives, including the eighth Congress of Leaders of World and Traditional Religions, the Tunis International Symposium on Strengthening the Role of the United Nations Alliance of Civilizations in Promoting International Peace and Security, and the World Forum on Intercultural Dialogue organized in Azerbaijan.

1.490 Progress towards the objective is presented in the performance measure below (see table 1.196).

Planned results for 2027

Result 1: increased awareness about contemporary trends in Islamophobia among State and non-State actors

Programme performance in 2025 and target for 2027

1.491 The Alliance's work contributed to Member States, United Nations entities, and civil society and academic institutions exchanging information on the root causes of, and good practices in combating, contemporary forms of Islamophobia, which met the planned target.

1.492 Progress towards the objective and the target for 2027 are presented in the performance measure below (see table 1.197).

Result 2: enhanced United Nations system-wide coordination and stakeholder engagement to address antisemitism

Proposed programme plan for 2027

1.493 It is important to strengthen coordination across the United Nations system and deepen engagement with Member States and non-State actors to address antisemitism, including Holocaust denial and distortion. The Alliance has been supporting stakeholder engagement in the implementation of the United Nations Action Plan to Enhance Monitoring and Response to Antisemitism, which provides recommendations to strengthen monitoring, education, public advocacy and coordinated responses to antisemitism across the United Nations system. Through enhanced collaboration among United Nations entities, Member States, Jewish organizations, faith actors, civil society organizations, educators, youth networks and digital platforms, the Action Plan is aimed at supporting safer and more inclusive societies, improving awareness and understanding of antisemitism and strengthening efforts to counter antisemitic hate speech, attacks on Jewish communities and online manifestations of antisemitism.

Lessons learned and planned change

1.494 The lesson for the Alliance was that effective efforts to combat antisemitism require sustained engagement with both State and non-State actors, as well as coordinated approaches that address the root causes of religious intolerance and hate speech. The Action Plan highlighted the importance of engaging Jewish organizations, educators, faith actors, civil society organizations, youth networks and digital platforms in strengthening monitoring, awareness-raising, Holocaust education and public advocacy efforts. In applying the lesson, the Alliance will continue to facilitate consultations, partnerships and joint initiatives aimed at promoting mutual respect, protecting vulnerable communities and strengthening social cohesion and inclusion.

1.495 Expected progress towards the objective is presented in the performance measure below (see table 1.198).

Explanation of variances by factor

Overall resource changes

Other changes

1.501 As shown in tables 1.203 (1) and 1.204 (1), resource changes reflect an increase of $14,600, comprising: (a) an increase of $13,400 under posts related to adjustments to standards applicable to posts; and (b) a net increase of $1,200 under contractual services due to anticipated changes in price levels of external translation services ($1,300), offset in part by slightly lower standard costs for the core software package at United Nations Headquarters ($100).

Extrabudgetary resources

1.502 As reflected in tables 1.203 (2) and 1.204 (2), extrabudgetary resources amount to $5,350,100, reflecting an increase of $1,002,900 (or 23.1 per cent). The resources would complement regular budget resources and be used to provide for eight posts (1 D-2, 1 P-5, 2 P-4, 2 P-3 and 2 General Service (Other level)) and non-post resources that would be used to support the delivery of mandates, including promoting interreligious and intercultural dialogue, addressing religious intolerance and discrimination, designing and implementing peace education initiatives for the empowerment of young people, and advancing the role and contributions of women as peace mediators.

1.503 The extrabudgetary resources under the present section are subject to the oversight of the Under-Secretary-General of the Alliance, under delegated authority from the Secretary-General.

XVIII. United Nations Sustainable Development Group System-wide Evaluation Office

A. Proposed programme plan for 2027

Overall orientation

Mandates and background

1.505 The United Nations Sustainable Development Group System-wide Evaluation Office is responsible for the provision of independent evaluation evidence that can be used to strengthen learning, transparency and accountability, and to incentivize joint work. As a unique function within the United Nations development system, the work of the Office provides a whole-of-United Nations approach to assess the combined contributions to the 2030 Agenda. The Office conducts evaluations and syntheses to provide insights and learning focused on strategic priorities that cannot be adequately addressed through existing accountability mechanisms or evaluation functions.

1.506 In its resolution 70/1, the General Assembly called for transformative and collaborative action by the United Nations development system. To respond to that imperative, the Assembly, in its resolution 71/243 on the quadrennial comprehensive policy review of operational activities for development of the United Nations system, called for reform of the United Nations development system to support the achievement of the Sustainable Development Goals. The Assembly also underscored "the importance of strengthening a high-quality, independent and impartial system-wide evaluation mechanism of operational activities for development that enhances coherence and interdependence in the overall evaluation architecture of the United Nations development system".

1.507 In his report entitled "Repositioning the United Nations development system to deliver on the 2030 Agenda: our promise for dignity, prosperity and peace on a healthy planet" (A/72/684-E/2018/7), the Secretary-General set out his plan to make the United Nations development system more strategic, accountable, collaborative and responsive to national development needs and priorities, including through the establishment of an independent system-wide evaluation office.

1.508 The General Assembly, in its resolution 72/279, welcomed the strengthening of independent system-wide evaluation measures by the Secretary-General, including measures to improve capacities. Subsequently, in its resolution 76/4, the Assembly requested the Secretary-General to provide Member States with the information needed to fully support and facilitate the establishment and functioning of an independent and well-resourced evaluation office as a critical accountability tool. The Secretary-General has provided this information in his regular reports to the Assembly and the Economic and Social Council on the implementation of the quadrennial comprehensive policy review of operational activities for development of the United Nations system (A/73/63-E/2018/8, A/74/73-/E/2019/14, A/75/79-E/2020/55, A/76/75-E/2021/57, A/77/69-E/2022/47, A/78/72-E/2023/59 and A/80/74-E/2025/53).

1.509 After a transition arrangement was put in place in 2019, the Secretary-General appointed the first Executive Director of the Office in 2023, reporting directly to the Secretary-General. The Economic and Social Council, in its resolution 2023/31, noted the establishment of the Office and looked forward to updates on its functioning and work. The Office operates in accordance with the United Nations Sustainable Development Group System-Wide Evaluation Policy, which was adopted by the Group in November 2024. The policy sets out its mandate in relation to United Nations oversight bodies and evaluation offices and confirms authorities and reporting lines.

1.510 The General Assembly, in its resolution 79/226, requested that the Executive Director of the Office, beginning in 2025, present an annual report to the Economic and Social Council at its operational activities for development segment. The first of these reports (E/2025/57) was presented in 2025.

Programme of work

Objective

1.511 The objective, to which this Office contributes, is to advance the collective contribution of the United Nations development system to accelerate the implementation of the 2030 Agenda and the achievement of the Sustainable Development Goals.

Strategy and external factors for 2027

1.512 To contribute to the objective, the Office will:

(a) Conduct relevant, timely, credible and high-quality system-wide evaluations of development system results and performance to complement the evaluation work of United Nations entities, focused on activities that cannot be adequately addressed through existing accountability mechanisms, taking into consideration a gender perspective, disability inclusion, non-discrimination, human rights and environmental dimensions, as appropriate;

(b) Manage the evaluation of pooled funds and joint initiatives (in which several United Nations entities are working towards a common objective);

(c) Promote increased collaboration on joint and system-wide evaluation, including by mapping the availability of evaluation evidence to inform the development of the global system-wide evaluation plan;

(d) Enhance collective knowledge-sharing and learning through the production of syntheses and summaries of evaluation evidence across the United Nations system, and support the use of system-wide evaluation evidence to inform programme planning and the achievement of results across the United Nations development system;

(e) Lead the implementation of the System-wide Evaluation Policy, providing advice and guidance for the system-wide evaluation function at the country, regional and global levels, including on the design and operationalization of evaluation quality assurance systems to support credible Cooperation Framework evaluations;

(f) Implement systems to ensure efficient and effective evaluation management and follow-up, including to support evaluation quality and adherence to United Nations Evaluation Group norms and standards;

(g) Contribute to the work of the United Nations Evaluation Group and other partners to support the development of common technical guidance and the strengthening of evaluation capacity, including in relation to the generation and use of evidence to inform national progress towards the achievement of the Sustainable Development Goals, in line with the role of evaluation envisaged in the 2030 Agenda.

1.513 The above-mentioned work is expected to result in:

(a) Increased learning and accountability of development activities at the national, regional and global levels, to contribute to consistent implementation of system-wide priorities, policies and approaches across United Nations sustainable development system entities;

(b) Strengthened capacities and use of system-wide evaluation evidence to inform programme planning and the achievement of results across United Nations development system entities;

(c) Complementarity and subsidiarity of system-wide evaluation with the work of United Nations evaluation, oversight and accountability mechanisms.

1.514 With regard to the external factors, the overall plan for 2027 is based on the assumption that adequate voluntary contributions are available to complement regular budget resources to carry out the activities of the Office.

1.515 With regard to cooperation at the global, regional national and local levels, the Office will collaborate with other international evaluation entities. The Office will participate as a member of the United Nations Evaluation Group and cooperate with the United Nations System Staff College to contribute to the development of common technical guidance and to the strengthening of evaluation capacity.

1.516 With regard to inter-agency coordination and liaison, the Office will coordinate its work with OIOS, the Joint Inspection Unit and the Board of Auditors, and collaborate with the evaluation offices of United Nations entities to enhance coherence and leverage their work to maximize existing capacities and minimize costs in the conduct of system-wide evaluation activities.

1.517 The Office integrates a gender perspective into its operational activities, deliverables and results, as appropriate, including implementing guidance on mainstreaming a gender perspective into activities.

1.518 In line with the United Nations Disability Inclusion Strategy, the Office will integrate disability inclusion across all stages of its evaluation activities, in accordance with guidance of the United Nations Evaluation Group.

Adjustments arising from the UN80 Initiative

1.519 The proposed programme plan for 2027 reflects efforts of the Office to implement all mandates in a more efficient and effective manner and contains no substantive adjustments arising from the UN80 Initiative.

1.520 The Office will be guided by any future decisions taken in the context of the UN80 Initiative, in accordance with the applicable rules and procedures, including decisions, resolutions and established practice of the competent intergovernmental organs.

Programme performance in 2025

System-wide evaluation evidence informs UN80 Initiative decision-making

1.521 The shift towards a “new generation of United Nations country teams” was a key priority of the repositioning of the United Nations development system, as set out in General Assembly resolution 72/279. In 2025, the Office completed a system-wide evaluation of progress towards this priority (SWEO/2025/001). The system-wide evaluation identified critical factors that support or hinder progress, providing independent evidence relevant to workstreams 2 and 3 of the UN80 Initiative and the key priorities set out in General Assembly resolution 79/226 on the quadrennial comprehensive policy review. Based on these findings, the evaluation included seven strategic recommendations to close the gap between strategic vision and operational reality, addressing implementation challenges and structural barriers across the United Nations development system.

The United Nations Sustainable Development Group accepted all seven recommendations, with follow-up actions embedded within the relevant work packages of the ongoing UN80 Initiative.

1.522 Progress towards the objective is presented in the performance measure below (see table 1.207).

Planned results for 2027

Result 1: increased availability and use of system-wide evaluation results

Programme performance in 2025 and target for 2027

1.523 In 2025, the Office contributed to the increased availability and use of system-wide evaluation results, with the publication of (a) the Office's first annual report (E/2025/57), (b) the evaluation on progress towards a "new generation of United Nations country teams" and (c) the evaluation of the 2019 United Nations Disability Inclusion Strategy and the launch of a series of evaluations on strategic priorities for the 2024 quadrennial comprehensive policy review (General Assembly resolution 79/226), which did not meet the planned target of a multi-year rolling workplan and a database and reporting system to track system-wide evaluation recommendations in use system-wide. The target was not met due to resource constraints that limited the Office's ability to implement the planned activities.

1.524 Progress towards the objective and the target for 2027 are presented in the performance measure below (see table 1.208).

Table 1.208

Result 2: improved use of United Nations system evaluation evidence by Member States and intergovernmental bodies for decision-making

Proposed programme plan for 2027

1.525 Bridging the gap between the production of evaluation evidence by United Nations entities and its strategic use by intergovernmental bodies and United Nations leadership is important for accountability and learning. The Office has completed a pilot initiative on the use of demand-driven tools and approaches, drawing on artificial intelligence, to simplify and accelerate the system-wide mapping and use of the large volume of evaluations produced annually across the United Nations development system.

Lessons learned and planned change

1.526 The lesson for the Office was that while there is an extensive body of United Nations evaluation evidence, it is fragmented and challenging for stakeholders to access and consider collectively, limiting its contribution to collective learning. In applying the lesson, the Office will strengthen the use of, and learning from, this body of evaluation evidence by preparing timely, accessible and user-friendly knowledge products and dissemination tools, including syntheses, summaries and evidence maps. This is intended to (a) improve equitable access to United Nations evaluation evidence and learning at the country level and (b) strengthen the link between operational activities and intergovernmental processes, contributing to a shared understanding of how the development system is delivering, what improvements are needed and how collective action can be strengthened to accelerate progress towards the Sustainable Development Goals.

1.527 Expected progress towards the objective is presented in the performance measure below (see table 1.209).

Overall resource changes

Other changes

1.532 As reflected in tables 1.213 (1) and 1.214 (1), the resource changes reflect an increase of $2,745,500 owing to the proposed conversion of five posts (1 D-2, 2 P-4, 1 P-2 and 1 General Service (Other level)) and related non-post resources for the Office that were previously funded from extrabudgetary resources, including $19,500 under posts relating to adjustments to standards applicable to posts (see annex II to the present report). The proposed conversion follows a review of the current funding arrangements, including the anticipated decrease in extrabudgetary resources and the need to ensure more predictable and stable funding in support of the Office's independence and transparency.

Extrabudgetary resources

1.533 As reflected in tables 1.213 (2) and 1.214 (2), extrabudgetary resources amount to $822,600, reflecting a decrease of $2,324,800 (or 73.9 per cent). The non-post resources would complement regular budget resources and would be used mainly to conduct system-wide evaluations of joint programmes and initiatives funded from extrabudgetary resources (i.e., funded through multi-donor trust funds) and/or the conduct of system-wide evaluation activities coordinated by the Office, supported by additional funding from the evaluation offices of development system entities.

1.534 The extrabudgetary resources under the present section are subject to the oversight of the Executive Director of the Office, which has delegated authority from the Secretary-General.

1.535 Information on the timely submission of documentation and advance booking for air travel is reflected in table 1.216.

The role played by the Executive Director and the Office incentivizes joint work and collective learning among United Nations development system entities. The Office conducts and advances system-wide evaluative evidence on the United Nations development system's contribution to the implementation of the 2030 Agenda.
