Distribution of proposed resources for 2027
(Number of posts/thousands of United States dollars)

2. The overall increase of $804,000 for the nine special political missions is attributable primarily to increased requirements for civilian personnel resulting from the application of lower vacancy rates and the application of the latest salary rates. The increase was offset in part by reduced requirements resulting from: (a) the proposed net abolishment of 89 posts and positions, especially in the United Nations Assistance Mission in Afghanistan (UNAMA) and the United Nations Integrated Office in Haiti (BINUH); (b) the reduction of the civilian personnel complement in BINUH due to the handover of support functions to the United Nations Support Office in Haiti (UNSOH) and its revised mandate; (c) reduced rental and maintenance costs for the premises in Tripoli based on the latest contractual arrangements, as well as a non-recurrent provision for security construction approved in 2026 in the United Nations Support Mission in Libya (UNSMIL); (d) reduced requirements under air operations owing to the downsizing of the mission's fleet by two aircraft in the United Nations Verification Mission in Colombia, and a reduction in flight hours based on the latest utilization rates in UNSMIL and UNAMA; (e) lower communication carrier and connectivity costs, as well as reduced centralized services costs, resulting from efficiency measures taken since 2025 that included the lower staffing levels and the closure of 10 subregional offices in the United Nations Verification Mission in Colombia; (f) reduced requirements for fuel for generators reflecting energy efficiency measures and a reduced mission footprint following the closure and nationalization of field offices approved in 2026 in UNAMA; and (g) reduced requirements for military and police personnel resulting from the reconfiguration of deployments, including the decrease in the actual deployed strength of the United Nations Guard Unit in UNSMIL (167 out of 234 authorized personnel) and the decrease in the deployment of United Nations police officers in BINUH from 48 to 5 personnel.

Vacancy rates

3. The proposed vacancy rates applied in the budget take into account the experience to date. The assumptions considered for the proposed vacancy factors include: (a) the 12-month average vacancy rate from January to December 2025; and (b) the actual vacancy rate as at 31 March 2026. The lower of the two was used as the budgeted vacancy rate.

4. For BINUH and UNAMA, where there are a large number of posts proposed for abolishment in 2027, the proposed vacancy rates duly considered the total number of vacant posts and positions as at 31 March 2026, net of the number of posts and positions proposed for abolishment, so as to arrive at the appropriate budgeted vacancy rates.

5. The above-mentioned approach is in line with the policy guidance to improve the accuracy and consistency of the vacancy factors applied in the proposed budgets for 2027 and to ensure that the proposed vacancy rates are based, as much as possible, on actual rates. A vacancy rate of 50 per cent has been applied when calculating the costs associated with proposed establishments and reassignments. Annex II outlines the proposed vacancy rates for 2027.

Efficiency gains

6. The proposed budget reflects efficiencies and cost-reduction measures, resulting in reduced requirements for military and police personnel, civilian personnel and operational costs. Requirements for military and police personnel are reduced primarily as a result of the planned utilization of commercial airlines, in lieu of charter flights, for the rotation of the United Nations Guard Unit personnel in UNSMIL. Requirements for civilian personnel are reduced mainly as a result of: (a) the proposed abolishment of 61 posts and the downward reclassification of two posts (1 P-5 and 1 P-4) in UNAMA, reflecting targeted efficiency measures through organizational optimization, functional streamlining and improved resource allocation; (b) the proposed abolishment of one D-1 post and the nationalization of two international posts (1 P-3 and 1 P-2) to National Professional Officers in the United Nations Verification Mission in Colombia; and (c) the promotion of national capacity for the delivery of critical mandated activities in UNSMIL.

7. In addition, requirements for operational costs are reduced mainly owing to efficiencies achieved under the following classes of expenditure:

   (a) Facilities and infrastructure, reflecting reduced fuel consumption for generators resulting from project upgrades in UNAMA; and fuel-optimization measures, including reduced heating in non-essential areas and the use of smaller generators after working hours for critical facilities only, leading to a reduction in fuel consumption from 36,000 litres in 2026 to 25,000 litres in 2027 in the Office of the United Nations Special Coordinator for Lebanon;

   (b) Consultants and consulting services, owing to increased reliance on in-house capacity in the United Nations Office for West Africa and the Sahel (UNOWAS);

   (c) Ground transportation, reflecting reduced projected fuel consumption in UNOWAS, following a review of actual utilization patterns; and the transfer of vehicles (four light patrol vehicles and two armoured vehicles) from the United Nations Interim Force in Lebanon (UNIFIL) to the Office of the United Nations Special Coordinator for Lebanon, eliminating planned procurement;

   (d) Air operations, reflecting the discontinuation of the rental and operation of fixed-wing aircraft and the consolidation of aviation requirements in the United Nations Verification Mission in Colombia; the establishment of a cost-recovery arrangement for the use of air assets of UNSOH in lieu of a separate aviation contract in BINUH; and the use of commercial airlines in the United Nations Regional Office for Central Africa (UNOCA) in lieu of the use of special flights associated with its previous co-shared fixed-wing aircraft with the United Nations Organization Stabilization Mission in the Democratic Republic of the Congo;

   (e) Communications and information technology, reflecting the transfer of equipment and supplies, including computers and accessories, from UNIFIL to the Office of the United Nations Special Coordinator for Lebanon through asset optimization and improved operational practices, replacing end-of-life assets and eliminating planned procurement; as well as reduced staffing levels, revised Office of Information and Communications Technology guidelines and a reduction in the number of radio base stations from 15 to 11 in UNAMA;

(f) Medical services, reflecting a change in the modality for paramedic services from commercial contracts to individual contractors in the United Nations Verification Mission in Colombia; and a reduction in the size of the critical care team in UNAMA in line with revised contractual arrangements and operating modalities;

(g) Other supplies, services and equipment, reflecting the transfer of supplies, including rations, from UNIFIL to the Office of the United Nations Special Coordinator for Lebanon; reduced freight volumes resulting from lower acquisition requirements; and reduced unit costs for rations following a change in ration types in UNAMA.

8. Missions achieved efficiencies and savings during the performance period in 2025 through a variety of measures, including: (a) in UNSMIL, revised contractual arrangements and cost reductions for the sustainment of the Mission's compound in Tripoli following the relocation of staff from Tripoli to Tunisia; (b) in the United Nations Verification Mission in Colombia, the conduct of a cost-benefit analysis resulting in the adoption of the UN Fleet lease arrangement as a more efficient and cost-effective modality than commercial contracts, leveraging shared United Nations fleet services, as well as the extension of tours of duty for military observers, resulting in reduced travel costs; and (c) in UNAMA, the abolishment of 17 Driver posts following the further streamlining of activities, the abolishment of one post of Chief, Supply Chain Management (P-5), in connection with the consolidation of the Supply Chain Management and Service Delivery Management pillars, drawing on experience gained in the United Nations Assistance Mission for Iraq, the restructuring of personnel associated with the proposed partial outsourcing of staff counsellor services, and further efficiencies achieved through a revised security posture, revised contractual arrangements for rent and camp management services, and the redesign of the delivery of mine action mandates.

9. Overall, cost efficiencies to be achieved for 2027 are as follows:

Extrabudgetary resources

10. For the sake of brevity, the present document will include a section on extrabudgetary resources only for those missions that have projected extrabudgetary resources in 2026 or 2027.

II. Cross-cutting information

Gender perspective

11. Special political missions are guided by Security Council resolutions[1] on the women and peace and security agenda, which mandate the incorporation of a gender perspective into the political work of the United Nations, including in special political missions. The missions are also guided by General Assembly resolution 75/100 on the comprehensive review of special political missions, in which the Assembly reaffirmed the important role of women in the prevention and resolution of conflicts and in peacebuilding and recognized the importance of the equal and effective participation and the full involvement of women at all levels, at all stages and in all aspects of the peaceful settlement of disputes, conflict prevention and conflict resolution.

12. Specific examples of how special political missions integrate a gender perspective into their operational activities, deliverables and results are given under the individual missions in the present report.

Disability inclusion

13. In line with the United Nations Disability Inclusion Strategy, special political missions review the Strategy with a view to further advancing disability inclusion through inclusive messaging, awareness-raising and promoting the Strategy through their work, including in political and peace processes. The missions also support mitigating measures to overcome accessibility challenges, in addition to the efforts undertaken by relevant United Nations entities to ensure the accessibility of facilities, platforms, security and other infrastructure to facilitate easy access and use by persons with disabilities.

Evaluation activities

14. In 2025, the Office of Internal Oversight Services (OIOS) completed its biennial assessment on strengthening the role of evaluation and the application of evaluation findings on programme design and delivery and policy directives. Mission-specific evaluation activities are described, as applicable, under the specific missions in the present report.

[1] Resolutions 1325 (2000), 1820 (2008), 1888 (2009), 1889 (2009), 1960 (2010), 2106 (2013), 2122 (2013), 2242 (2015), 2467 (2019) and 2493 (2019).

III. Special political missions

1. United Nations Office for West Africa and the Sahel

($14,108,500)

A. Proposed programme plan for 2027 and programme performance in 2025

Overall orientation

Mandates and background

15. UNOWAS is responsible for conflict prevention and ensuring sustainable peace and security in West Africa and the Sahel. Its mandate derives from the exchanges of letters between the Secretary-General and the President of the Security Council (S/2016/88 and S/2016/89, S/2016/1128 and S/2016/1129, S/2019/1009 and S/2020/85, S/2023/70 and S/2023/71, and S/2026/53 and S/2026/83), as well as Council resolution 2349 (2017). The mission's current mandate will expire on 31 January 2029.

16. UNOWAS is mandated to: (a) monitor political developments in West Africa and the Sahel and carry out good offices to support conflict prevention, peacebuilding, sustaining peace and mediation efforts in the subregion, mindful of the sustainable development context; (b) enhance regional and subregional partnerships to address cross-border and cross-cutting threats to peace and security; (c) support, through political advocacy and playing a convening role, the implementation of the United Nations integrated strategy for the Sahel; and (d) promote good governance, respect for the rule of law, human rights, constitutional order and women and peace and security considerations in conflict prevention, management and resolution initiatives in West Africa and the Sahel.

17. In 2026, an independent review on the mandate and activities of UNOWAS will be conducted in accordance with the exchange of letters between the Secretary-General and the President of the Security Council (S/2026/53 and S/2026/83).

Programme of work

Objective

18. The objective, to which this mission contributes, is to achieve peace and security in West Africa and the Sahel.

Strategy and external factors for 2027

19. To contribute to the objective, the mission will:

(a) Strengthen its early warning and conflict prevention and resolution action with relevant partners, with a focus on West African countries undergoing political transitions and those scheduled to hold elections in 2027; de-escalate crises relating to governance challenges; lead regional and international diplomatic engagements to build consensus on regional responses; support regional solutions to cross-cutting threats to peace and security; and monitor and assess political developments in the region;

(b) Enhance partnerships with regional and subregional institutions, civil society organizations and United Nations entities to address regional peace and security challenges, focusing on root causes of instability and insecurity in the region, while reinforcing the peace-security-development nexus; and conduct high-level advocacy to facilitate humanitarian assistance and access to critical social services by populations affected by conflict and insecurity;

(c) Accelerate the implementation of the women and peace and security and the youth and peace and security agendas through the promotion of involvement of women and young people in political and decision-making processes and mediation initiatives; and advance the promotion of good governance and respect for human rights and the rule of law;

(d) Strengthen its analytical work, including on governance, constitutional order and the adverse implications of climate change.

20. The above-mentioned work is expected to result in:

(a) Prevention and mitigation of conflicts through consultative political processes, including in countries undergoing political transitions;

(b) Strengthened regional and subregional cross-border responses and coherent, comprehensive and integrated approaches to challenges relating to climate change, transnational organized crime, illicit trafficking, farmer and herder dynamics, intercommunal violence, terrorism, violent extremism and humanitarian access;

(c) Mainstreaming of women's and youth participation into conflict prevention, management and resolution activities;

(d) Strengthened initiatives to address violations of human rights and international humanitarian law and improve constitutional order and security sector governance.

21. With regard to cooperation with other entities, UNOWAS works with the African Union, the Economic Community of West African States (ECOWAS), the Mano River Union, the Lake Chad Basin Commission, the Liptako-Gourma Authority, the Gulf of Guinea Commission, the African Development Bank and other regional entities, national human rights institutions and other civil society groups in the region. The aims of the mission's cooperation with these entities are to strengthen and harmonize regional capacities for conflict prevention and resolution and peacebuilding; advance good governance, constitutional order and respect for human rights and the rule of law and the participation of women and young people in political and decision-making processes; and support regional responses to address climate change as well as cross-border threats to peace and security.

22. With regard to inter-agency coordination and liaison, UNOWAS collaborates with the Development Coordination Office and resident coordinators, humanitarian coordinators, United Nations country teams, United Nations agencies, funds and programmes based in Dakar and across the region and other United Nations partners to create political space for humanitarian access and developmental initiatives, including the United Nations integrated strategy for the Sahel. It coordinates with UNOCA on transregional issues affecting West and Central Africa, including terrorism in the Lake Chad Basin, farmer-herder conflicts, climate security, piracy and maritime security in the Gulf of Guinea.

23. In relation to the external factors, the overall plan for 2027 is based on the following planning assumptions:

(a) Demand for UNOWAS good offices to facilitate political dialogue and defuse political tensions, and to support countries undergoing political transitions and institutional reforms;

(b) Heads of State and Governments of West Africa, ECOWAS, the Lake Chad Basin Commission, the Mano River Union, the African Union, the Gulf of Guinea Commission and other regional entities demonstrate the political will for sustained support to regional peace and security mechanisms and a commitment to mobilizing the resources required to address challenges to peace and stability;

(c) ECOWAS early warning and response mechanisms and other regional conflict prevention instruments are operational at the national and regional levels;

(d) The international community remains committed to supporting the countries of the region and regional and subregional organizations in addressing governance and security challenges;

(e) Peacebuilding and peace consolidation efforts by regional and subregional entities and other partners continue;

(f) Political and technical-level engagements with UNOCA in support of the Gulf of Guinea Commission and the Interregional Coordination Centre for Maritime Safety and Security in the Gulf of Guinea continue;

(g) Political commitment on the part of national, regional and international partners to work with the United Nations in the context of the United Nations integrated strategy for the Sahel;

(h) Governments in the region remain willing to engage with UNOWAS and other partners to improve human rights and the rule of law.

Adjustments arising from the UN80 Initiative

24. The proposed programme plan for 2027 reflects changes arising from the UN80 Initiative. In particular, the table of deliverables reflects updated planned deliverables for 2026, in line with the approved programme budget for 2026.

Programme performance in 2025

Sustained dialogue and continuous regional engagements in West Africa and the Sahel

25. In 2025, in the aftermath of the withdrawal of Burkina Faso, Mali and the Niger from ECOWAS, UNOWAS conducted sustained bilateral dialogue with the three countries and with ECOWAS. The mission's efforts contributed to sustained engagement between the Confederation of Sahel States countries and ECOWAS. One example of such engagement was the freezing of the restrictions on free movement of people, goods and services. Moreover, in support of the ECOWAS conflict prevention and peacebuilding mandate, and in line with the UNOWAS-ECOWAS memorandum of understanding, UNOWAS participated in ECOWAS-led missions and high-level consultations that contributed to supporting efforts to restore constitutional order in Guinea-Bissau following the coup d'état in November 2025 and easing institutional tensions in Liberia. UNOWAS also pursued engagement with the revitalized African Union Mission for Mali and the Sahel towards fostering regional dialogue.

26. Progress towards the objective is presented in the performance measure below (see table 4).

Table 4
Performance measure

2023 (actual)	2024 (actual)	2025 (actual)
–	–	Despite the withdrawal of members of ECOWAS, dialogue between members was sustained, allowing for continued engagement on key issues in border and transit areas Regional dialogue was fostered through the adoption of a joint workplan aimed at supporting dialogue efforts between Burkina Faso, Mali and the Niger and ECOWAS countries

Planned results for 2027

Result 1: enhanced regional and subregional partnerships to respond to cross-border and cross-cutting security challenges

Programme performance in 2025 and target for 2027

27. In 2025, the mission's good offices and advocacy efforts contributed to enhancing regional and subregional partnerships to respond to cross-border and cross-cutting security challenges. Despite the withdrawal of members of ECOWAS, regional and subregional partnerships showed capacity to sustain dialogue and collective responses, contributing to a more predictable environment for security coordination and crisis management, which helped to limit spillover, reduce misunderstandings between neighbouring States and preserve space for civilian protection and humanitarian access.

28. In 2027, UNOWAS will continue working towards the establishment of an annual dialogue platform of West African Ministries of Foreign Affairs to enhance partnerships to respond to cross-border security challenges.

29. Progress towards the objective and the target for 2027 are presented in the performance measure below (see table 5).

Table 5

2023 (actual)	2024 (actual)	2025 (actual)	2026 (planned)	2027 (planned)
–	–	Continued dialogue between stakeholders through regional and subregional mechanisms; for example, the Lomé Peace and Security Forum contributed to engagement on shared threats as well as crisis management measures	Strengthened regional security and governance mechanisms and arrangements	Strengthened trust and coordination, leading to more timely and coherent regional responses to cross-border and cross-cutting threats

Result 2: conducive environment for peaceful and inclusive electoral processes in West Africa and the Sahel

Programme performance in 2025 and target for 2027

30. In 2025, the Special Representative of the Secretary-General for West Africa and the Sahel and Head of UNOWAS sustained engagement with all key political stakeholders to advocate for peaceful and inclusive elections in Côte d'Ivoire. He undertook two missions, during which he encouraged dialogue and confidence-building among political actors to strengthen trust in the electoral process and mitigate the risk of violence, which contributed to reinforcing collaboration channels between stakeholders.

31. In 2027, UNOWAS will conduct technical and high-level missions in countries where elections will take place, including Nigeria and the Gambia, as well as in countries where key elections are scheduled to take place in 2028, including Ghana and Sierra Leone.

Lessons learned and planned change

32. The lesson for the mission was that rebuilding trust among regional stakeholders requires sustained and multilayered engagement. In applying this lesson, the mission will continue to adopt a multilayered approach and work closely with ECOWAS, the Confederation of Sahel States and their member States to encourage continuous dialogue and broadening of communication channels.

33. Expected progress towards the objective is presented in the performance measure below (see table 6).

2023 (actual)	2024 (actual)	2025 (actual)	2026 (planned)	2027 (planned)
–	–	Harmonization of political messages and readiness for dialogue by all stakeholders in Côte d'Ivoire lead to peaceful elections, the outcome of which was accepted by all	Early dialogue among political actors and institutions in priority contexts reduces polarization and strengthens consensus on electoral road maps	Electoral stakeholders demonstrate increased readiness to manage disputes peacefully and uphold credible processes, reflected in sustained dialogue and reduced escalation of election-related tensions

C. Substantive deliverables

Good offices: provision of good offices, including jointly with ECOWAS and the African Union, on conflict prevention across countries of West Africa and the Sahel, taking into account human rights and gender aspects.

Consultation, advice and advocacy: monitoring missions to West Africa and the Sahelian countries to analyse developments and emerging threats and identify entry points for early warning and conflict prevention activities; monitoring missions to the countries of the region to support United Nations initiatives to sustain peace; and pre- and post-electoral missions to countries conducting elections in West Africa and the Sahel to monitor tensions related to the electoral process.

D. Communication deliverables

Outreach programmes, special events and information materials: digital and print, information campaigns, brochures, flyers, and information notes to promote the good offices and the mission's activities while enhancing visibility of the mission.

External and media relations: media encounters, briefings, press conferences, press releases, statements and op-eds.

Digital platforms and multimedia content: dissemination of information and promotion of the good offices and the activities of the mission through its website and social media.

[a] Reflects updated planned deliverables for 2026. Values in square brackets represent the number of planned deliverables reflected in A/80/6 (Sect. 3)/Add.4.

35. The proposed resource requirements for 2027 for UNOWAS amount to $14,108,500 (net of staff assessment) and would provide for the deployment of one military adviser and one police adviser ($113,200), salaries and common staff costs ($9,527,600) for 38 international posts (1 Under-Secretary-General, 1 Assistant Secretary-General, 1 D-1, 6 P-5, 13 P-4, 10 P-3, 1 P-2 and 5 Field Service) and 28 national posts (9 National Professional Officer and 19 Local level, the latter of which includes one general temporary assistance position), and operational costs ($4,467,700), comprising costs for official travel ($734,200), facilities and infrastructure ($137,900), ground transportation ($78,300), air operations ($1,920,500), communications and information technology ($627,100) and other supplies, services and equipment ($969,700).

2. Staffing requirements

36. In 2027, no change is proposed to the number and levels of the posts.

37. The mission’s approved 2026 staffing table includes one general temporary assistance position. It is proposed that this position, Finance and Budget Assistant (Local level), be continued in 2027 to support and maintain internal control over the financial transactions of the mission.

3. Analysis of resource requirements

38. Details of the financial resources by category of expenditure are provided in table 11.

39. The increase in requirements for 2027 compared with the appropriation for 2026 is attributable primarily to increased requirements for civilian personnel costs, due to: (a) the application of the most recent salary rates; and (b) the application of a lower vacancy rate of 10.5 per cent compared with the rate of 15.6 per cent applied in 2026 for international staff. The increase is offset in part by the application of higher vacancy rates of 7.4 per cent, compared with zero per cent applied in 2026, for National Professional Officers; and of 9.5 per cent, compared with 0.8 per cent applied in 2026, for Local level staff.

40. A net increase of $2,200 under operational costs is attributable primarily to the following changes:

(a) Facilities and infrastructure: the decrease in requirements of $71,400 is attributable primarily to the closure of the UNOWAS presence in Mauritania and lower estimated costs for maintenance services in anticipation of the transfer of the Office to the United Nations House;

(b) Official travel: the decrease in requirements of $53,800 is attributable primarily to efficiency gains resulting from a review of the travel plans to achieve the efficient use of resources;

(c) Ground transportation: the decrease in requirements of $19,100 is attributable primarily to lower estimated fuel consumption following the reduction in the number of civilian personnel staff in 2026 and the implementation of a more rigorous fuel consumption control system. This resulted in a reduction in estimated fuel consumption from 41,600 to 25,000 litres. The decrease is offset in part by costs associated with a new contractual arrangement for the ground fleet in Dakar and Abuja;

(d) Other supplies, services and equipment: the increase in requirements of $138,300 is attributable primarily to higher fees for individual contractors and increased costs associated with the organization of events related to the implementation of the UNOWAS mandate.

41. A net increase in requirements of $6,200 under military observers is attributable primarily to the application of the latest mission subsistence rates (higher actual daily rate of the "after 30 days" mission subsistence allowance of $133 effective 1 January 2026 compared with the rate of $126 applied in the approved budget for 2026).

4. Extrabudgetary resources

(a) Voluntary contributions

42. In 2026, extrabudgetary resources in the amount of $376,600 are projected to enhance the field capacity of the Department of Political and Peacebuilding Affairs to address climate change-related security risks. The activity will boost field offices' abilities to build synergies around climate security and foster opportunities for dialogue.

43. In 2027, extrabudgetary resources amounting to $311,600 are projected to boost field offices' abilities to address climate security and foster opportunities for dialogue based on shared governance of natural resources.

(b) Cost recovery

44. In 2026 and in 2027, resources in the amount of $53,700 and $40,700, respectively, are estimated to be received from other United Nations agencies, funds and programmes and other entities through the cost-recovery mechanism for services provided by the mission for utilities and maintenance services and aviation special flight services upon request.

2. United Nations Regional Centre for Preventive Diplomacy for Central Asia

($2,979,900)

A. Proposed programme plan for 2027 and programme performance in 2025

Overall orientation

Mandates and background

45. The United Nations Regional Centre for Preventive Diplomacy for Central Asia is responsible for supporting national authorities in identifying and addressing threats to regional peace and security. The open-ended mandate was defined through an exchange of letters between the Secretary-General and the President of the Security Council (S/2007/279 and S/2007/280). The mission plays a central role in preventive diplomacy in Central Asia and provides a platform for regional dialogue on the pressing challenges to security and stability.

46. The main function of the Regional Centre is to strengthen conflict prevention in Central Asia through liaison with the Governments and, with their concurrence, engaging with the parties concerned on promoting preventive diplomacy; providing capacity-building in preventive diplomacy through various activities; monitoring and analysing the situation on the ground, providing the Secretary-General with updates relating to conflict prevention; maintaining contact with regional organizations, encouraging their peacemaking efforts and facilitating coordination and information exchange, with due regard to their specific mandates; providing a political framework and leadership for preventive activities of the United Nations country teams and supporting efforts of the resident coordinators and representatives of the United Nations system in promoting an integrated approach to preventive diplomacy and humanitarian assistance; and maintaining close contact with UNAMA to ensure a comprehensive analysis of the situation in the wider region.

47. The Regional Centre's current work is guided by a five-year programme of action for the period 2026–2030, which was developed in consultation with the Central Asian States.

Programme of work

Objective

48. The objective, to which this mission contributes, is to enhance regional security and stability in Central Asia.

Strategy and external factors for 2027

49. To contribute to the objective, the mission will:

(a) Carry out good offices functions for preventive diplomacy in Kazakhstan, Kyrgyzstan, Tajikistan, Turkmenistan and Uzbekistan, as well as monitor and analyse regional developments in Central Asia and the wider geographical context, while maintaining contact with regional organizations and other entities of the United Nations system;

(b) Organize an annual meeting of deputy ministers of foreign affairs of Central Asia and convene expert forums to advise the annual consultative meetings of the Central Asian Heads of State;

(c) Advance the political participation of women through the engagement of senior women political leaders in the Central Asia Women Leaders' Caucus regional platform;

(d) Promote arrangements on transboundary water management in the region, support initiatives and dialogue on water, energy and environmental and climate cooperation, and help to address challenges relating to transboundary water and climate change, in line with the new strategy to support regional cooperation on water, energy, environment and climate for 2026–2030;

(e) Implement the joint project with the Office of Counter-Terrorism (UNOCT) based on the updated Joint Plan of Action for the Implementation of the United Nations Global Counter-Terrorism Strategy in Central Asia;

(f) Continue the efforts of the Regional Centre to engage young people through the Preventive Diplomacy Academy;

(g) Support the Central Asian States in addressing emerging threats to security and stability and the other external risk factors, including by maintaining close contact with UNAMA to ensure comprehensive analysis of the situation in the region.

50. The above-mentioned work is expected to result in:

(a) Improved regional cooperation and capacity in addressing transnational threats of terrorism, violent extremism conducive to terrorism, drug trafficking and organized crime, as well as coping with regional challenges concerning the management of water resources and climate change;

(b) Political will to sustain the progress of the Governments of the Central Asian States regarding deeper engagements in promoting peace and stability through enhanced cooperation and trust-building in the region, including on high-level platforms such as the consultative meeting of Heads of State.

51. With regard to cooperation with other entities, the mission maintains cooperation with the Commonwealth of Independent States, the European Union, the Organization for Security and Co-operation in Europe, the Shanghai Cooperation Organization and the International Fund for Saving the Aral Sea, among others. The Regional Centre continues exchanges with the Conference on Interaction and Confidence-building Measures in Asia and the Collective Security Treaty Organization on topics of common interest. It cooperates with relevant actors, including international financial institutions such as the World Bank. Such cooperation is highly conducive to meaningful exchanges and coordination to avoid duplication and to look for synergy and complementarity.

52. With regard to inter-agency coordination and liaison, and to streamline the prevention efforts in the region, the Regional Centre cooperates closely with the resident coordinators in the five countries, the Development Coordination Office and other United Nations entities represented in the region, including UNOCT, the United Nations Development Programme (UNDP), the United Nations Entity for Gender Equality and the Empowerment of Women (UN-Women), the United Nations Office on Drugs and Crime (UNODC), the Counter-Terrorism Committee Executive Directorate, the United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization, the Economic Commission for Europe and the Economic and Social Commission for Asia and the Pacific. The mission regularly shares information and coordinates activities with UNAMA.

53. With regard to the external factors, the overall plan for 2027 is based on the following planning assumptions:

(a) The continued commitment of the five Governments of the region to preventive diplomacy and strengthening regional dialogue and cooperation on issues of common concern;

(b) The five countries of the region continue to monitor developments in Afghanistan and enhance preparedness to potential threats and risks of violent extremism and terrorism, drug trafficking and a potential humanitarian crisis. They continue to provide and advocate for humanitarian assistance to Afghanistan.

54. The Regional Centre integrates a gender perspective into operational and programmatic activities, deliverables and results, as appropriate. It encourages the countries to ensure gender balance in their national delegations and include gender-related issues in the agendas of regional expert-level workshops on preventive diplomacy and confidence-building for the States' officials.

55. In line with the United Nations Disability Inclusion Strategy and its action plan, the mission will work to ensure that the concerns and experiences of persons with disabilities are an integral part of the design, implementation, monitoring and evaluation of all policies and programmes, so that persons with disabilities benefit equally. The Strategy will be implemented internally through greater workforce diversity and a more inclusive physical environment, and externally through programming and stakeholder engagement.

Adjustments arising from the UN80 Initiative

56. The proposed programme plan for 2027 reflects efforts of the mission to implement all mandates in a more efficient and effective manner and contains no substantive adjustments arising from the UN80 Initiative.

Evaluation activities

57. In 2027, the mission is planning a self-evaluation of activities related to transboundary water management and climate in the region.

Programme performance in 2025

Constructive and strengthened relations among the Central Asian States

58. In 2025, the Treaty on the State Border between the Kyrgyz Republic and Tajikistan and agreements between Kyrgyzstan, Uzbekistan and Tajikistan on "eternal friendship" and the joint border junction marked major milestones in strengthening regional peace and cooperation. The mission continued its political engagement to support efforts aimed at ensuring the long-term sustainability of the border agreements, should the concerned countries request further assistance. The mission also contributed to strengthened relations between the five countries of the region through the convening of annual meetings of the deputy foreign ministers of the Central Asian States, where information exchange and discussions on regional challenges took place. The mission also provided a platform on issues of shared concern, including on the impact of the situation in Afghanistan on the region as well as transboundary water, the impact of climate and women's and youth engagement.

59. Progress towards the objective is presented in the performance measure below (see table 12).

Table 12
Performance measure

2023 (actual)	2024 (actual)	2025 (actual)
Strengthened regional cooperation in Central Asia, initiatives promoting peace and trust in the region and more inclusive regional platforms to discuss issues of shared concern	Strengthened regional cooperation in Central Asia, with initiatives that promote peace and trust in the region and more inclusive regional platforms to exchange information and best practices, and the development of recommendations on issues of mutual concern	Strengthened relations between countries of the region and stakeholders through initiatives that promote peace and trust in the region and more inclusive regional platforms, including support to efforts aimed at ensuring the long-term sustainability of the border agreements

Planned result for 2027

Enhanced regional interaction in Central Asia to address current and emerging risks and threats to peace and security

Programme performance in 2025 and target for 2027

60. In 2025, the mission's efforts facilitated information exchange between State institutions, civil society, United Nations entities and regional organizations and supported dialogue among Central Asian Governments on emerging threats through the Counter-Terrorism Early Warning Network for Central Asia. In 2025, the Network placed significant emphasis on smart online search, online monitoring, data management, information technology security for early warning systems, and other related areas, all of which contributed to stakeholders' capacities to address current and emerging risks and threats.

61. In 2027, the mission will build on existing cooperation frameworks in preventing violent extremism, counter-terrorism and supporting the growing momentum towards closer cooperation and trust-building in the region, particularly concerning regional water and climate issues.

Lessons learned and planned change

62. The lesson for the mission was that the in-person exchanges among counterparts facilitated meaningful outcomes and were welcomed by the States of the region. Given the budgetary limitations, the mission will strive to mobilize voluntary contributions with a view to conducting regular in-person meetings, as well as supporting high-level forums and regional platforms such as the International Fund for Saving the Aral Sea.

63. Progress towards the objective and the target for 2027 are presented in the performance measure below (see table 13).

Table 13

65. The proposed resource requirements for 2027 for the Regional Centre amount to $2,979,900 (net of staff assessment) and would provide for salaries and common staff costs ($2,276,500) for the continuation of 24 posts (1 Assistant Secretary-General, 1 P-5, 2 P-4, 1 P-3, 1 Field Service, 4 National Professional Officer and 14 Local level), as well as operational costs of $703,400, comprising the costs for consultants and consulting services ($16,800), official travel ($207,100), facilities and infrastructure ($69,800), ground transportation ($72,400), communications and information technology ($166,600), and other supplies, services and equipment ($170,700).

2. Staffing requirements

66. For 2027, no change is proposed to the number and levels of the posts.

3. Analysis of resource requirements

67. Details of the financial resources by category of expenditure are provided in table 18.

Total	3 555.7	3 204.7	2 890.0	2 979.9	89.9

68. The increase in requirements for 2027 compared with the appropriation for 2026 is attributable primarily to the higher requirements for civilian personnel costs, owing to the application of updated salary rates and higher estimates for common staff costs based on actual past expenditures.

69. The resource requirements under operational costs reflect the following changes:

(a) Ground transportation: the increase in requirements of $43,300 is attributable primarily to the planned acquisition of one replacement vehicle following the write-off of three vehicles by 31 December 2025. The additional capacity is required to maintain operational continuity, in particular for security contingency planning and crisis-response readiness, and to ensure the availability of a reliable vehicle for inland movements and overland travel to neighbouring countries in support of high-level delegations and diplomatic engagements. The increase is offset in part by reduced requirements for repairs and maintenance, liability insurance and petrol due to a smaller fleet size following the vehicle write-offs;

(b) Facilities and infrastructure: the decrease in requirements of $21,000 is attributable primarily to: (i) lower needs for equipment, spare parts, supplies and sanitation materials, owing to the planned utilization of existing stock; (ii) reduced requirements for security services, in line with recent utilization patterns; (iii) lower requirements for construction, alteration and renovation, reflecting the absence of major renovation projects in 2027, as these are planned for 2026; and (iv) lower projected fuel consumption for generators compared with 2026;

(c) Communications and information technology: the decrease in requirements of $24,000 is attributable primarily to: (i) fewer acquisitions of communications, network and information technology equipment; (ii) lower telecommunications and network service costs, reflecting reduced centralized transponder rates and decreased mobile voice and data requirements; and (iii) lower maintenance and support service requirements due to the absence of a provision for a videoconference technician approved in 2026. The decrease is offset in part by higher requirements for public information and publication services related to printing and reproduction aimed at enhancing outreach and the visibility of good offices functions, as well as higher requirements for software licences, reflecting increased costs for renewal.

4. Extrabudgetary resources

70. In 2026, extrabudgetary resources in the amount of $40,000 were projected for a project supporting the Central Asia Women Leaders' Caucus to promote influential leadership on women's engagement in the region, as well as for activities under the Preventive Diplomacy Academy project to empower the next generation of leaders in Central Asia by giving them the tools to prevent conflict and build regional stability.

71. In 2027, extrabudgetary resources totalling $40,000 are projected to continue supporting key programmatic activities of the Regional Centre, including capacity-building workshops, regional dialogues, and initiatives aimed at strengthening the role of women and youth in peacebuilding processes.

3. United Nations support for the Cameroon-Nigeria Mixed Commission

($3,253,100)

A. Proposed programme plan for 2027 and programme performance in 2025

Overall orientation

Mandates and background

72. The Cameroon-Nigeria Mixed Commission is responsible for facilitating the implementation of the judgment of the International Court of Justice of 10 October 2002 on the Cameroon-Nigeria boundary and territorial dispute. Its mandate includes supporting the demarcation of the land boundary and the delineation of the maritime boundary; facilitating the withdrawal of troops and transfer of authority in identified areas along the boundary; addressing the situation of the border populations affected by the demarcation process; and making recommendations on confidence-building measures to support them.

73. The current mandate of the United Nations support team to the Cameroon-Nigeria Mixed Commission derives from the exchange of letters between the Secretary-General and the President of the Security Council (S/2017/78 and S/2017/79) and subsequent exchanges of letters, including, most recently, S/2025/864 and S/2025/865. The current mandate calls for the preparation of a transition plan for the progressive handover of the activities of the Mixed Commission to the Joint Bilateral Commission and other subregional structures.

Programme of work

Objective

74. The objective, to which this mission contributes, is to achieve an orderly and peaceful implementation of the judgment of 10 October 2002 of the International Court of Justice delineating the course of the land and maritime boundary between Cameroon and Nigeria.

Strategy and external factors for 2027

75. To contribute to the objective, the mission will:

(a) Support the parties in constructing the remaining boundary pillars along the land boundary;

(b) Produce the final maps of the land boundary;

(c) Finalize a boundary statement at the conclusion of the final mapping;

(d) Jointly operationalize recommendations from the assessments on confidence-building initiatives for local communities affected by the demarcation process, and hand over responsibility to the United Nations country teams in Cameroon and Nigeria as well as to national authorities;

(e) Enhance cross-border cooperation and good practices in international boundaries management by sharing lessons learned from the Mixed Commission;

(f) Strengthen bilateral cross-border cooperation through institutional agreements and joint engagement with Nigerian and Cameroonian authorities, supported by the African Union Border Programme;

(g) Develop and transfer operational guidelines, technical specifications, field assessment methodologies, pillar documentation, databases and maps to national counterparts;

(h) Promote the establishment of a joint Cameroon-Nigeria border management committee to ensure continued cooperation.

76. The above-mentioned work is expected to result in:

(a) Physical demarcation of the Cameroon-Nigeria land boundary through the construction of boundary pillars;

(b) Delivery of finalized maps covering the entire land boundary;

(c) Production of a boundary statement recording the field coordinates of the emplaced pillars;

(d) Cross-border stability, enhanced socioeconomic resilience, improved living conditions for affected communities, and an ensured smooth transition of confidence-building initiatives to national partners and the United Nations country teams in Cameroon and Nigeria;

(e) Consensus between Cameroon, Nigeria and key stakeholders on best practices with respect to border management.

77. With regard to cooperation with other entities, the mission will work with the national authorities of Cameroon and Nigeria to finalize the demarcation process between the two countries. This includes holding meetings, producing final maps, constructing remaining boundary pillars and preparing a boundary statement.

78. With regard to inter-agency coordination and liaison, the mission will continue to collaborate with the United Nations country teams in Cameroon and Nigeria to jointly operationalize the consolidated joint needs assessment, resulting in tangible projects to strengthen local trust among communities affected by the border demarcation, promote peace and support sustainable cross-border development. Such coordination will result in a streamlined and coherent framework that improves resource mobilization and donor confidence, supporting a more effective, comprehensive approach to peacebuilding, development and cooperation in the border areas. The Mixed Commission secretariat is hosted within UNOWAS premises in Dakar, which provides administrative and logistical support. The Head of UNOWAS serves as the Chair of the Mixed Commission.

79. With regard to the external factors, the overall plan for 2027 is based on the following planning assumptions:

(a) The two parties, Cameroon and Nigeria, will continue to adhere to the judgment of the International Court of Justice and the workplan adopted by the Mixed Commission, as well as establishing a bilateral mechanism to sustain the gains;

(b) Safety, security and climate conditions will permit field operations to continue unimpeded;

(c) Extrabudgetary resources, including additional voluntary contributions, will continue to be made available for border demarcation, pillar construction and confidence-building initiatives.

80. The Mixed Commission integrates a gender perspective into its operations, deliverables and results, as appropriate. Examples include targeting women's and youth groups in community development projects related to potable water, employment capacity-building and access to the electricity network.

Adjustments arising from the UN80 Initiative

81. The proposed programme plan for 2027 reflects efforts of the mission to implement all mandates in a more efficient and effective manner and contains no substantive adjustments arising from the UN80 Initiative.

Programme performance in 2025

Political commitment to continued dialogue to resolve remaining disagreement areas

82. In 2025, the mission continued its collaboration with the parties to resolve the three long-standing areas of disagreement. As a result, various meetings were held, including the Subcommission on Demarcation meetings in Dakar and Geneva, as well as the project steering committee meeting in Geneva. These sessions resolved the three remaining areas of disagreement, resulting in an agreement on the full land boundary and laying the groundwork for completing the demarcation process. Key outcomes also included the adoption of the provisional boundary line and coordinates, and the terms of reference for a field assessment mission, collectively known as the "Geneva Agreement, 2025". The field assessment mission was conducted at the end of the reporting period, with its report scheduled for adoption by the Subcommission in January 2026.

83. Progress towards the objective is presented in the performance measure below (see table 19).

Performance measure

2023 (actual)	2024 (actual)	2025 (actual)
Chair of the Cameroon-Nigeria Mixed Commission led consultations to resolve the three remaining boundary disagreements through dialogue, avoiding referral to the International Court of Justice for an interpretation of the text	Bilateral meetings and an extraordinary Mixed Commission session facilitated focused dialogue, leading to the adoption of a road map for completing the demarcation process	The Subcommission on Demarcation meetings facilitated the resolution of the three remaining areas of disagreement, leading to the adoption of the provisional boundary line and coordinates, as well as the terms of reference for a field assessment mission, collectively known as the "Geneva Agreement, 2025"

Planned result for 2027

Land and boundaries demarcated and accepted by both States in a peaceful and orderly fashion

Programme performance in 2025 and target for 2027

84. In 2025, preparations for the final phase of the boundary pillar construction were completed, with the revised plan increasing the total number of pillars from 230 to 410 to reflect higher population density along the boundary. As a result, overall project completion is now estimated at 86 per cent, compared with 91 per cent in 2024. Construction activities planned for 2025 were deferred due to delays in resolving outstanding disagreements and have been rescheduled for 2026 in accordance with the "Geneva Agreement, 2025".

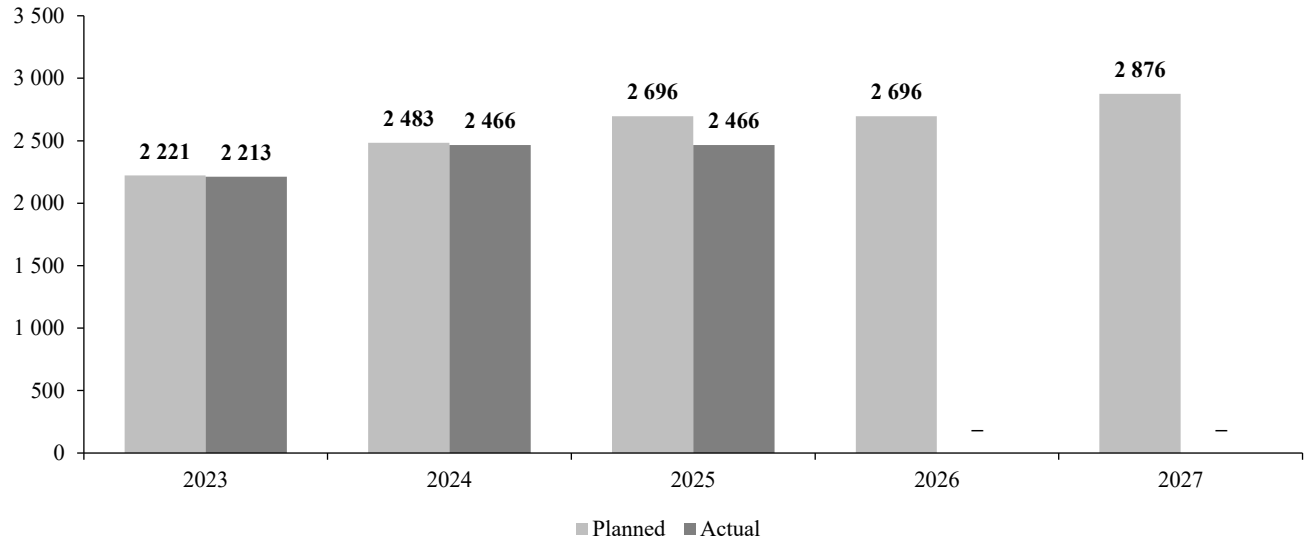

85. Further efforts were carried out in partnership with the United Nations country teams in Cameroon and Nigeria to jointly develop and consolidate needs assessment reports to support confidence-building initiatives for communities affected by the demarcation process.

Lessons learned and planned change

86. The mission learned that the Chair's bilateral engagement with delegation leaders accelerated consensus and fostered cooperation. Building on this, the mission will increase high-level meetings with State leaders and technical experts, supported by community sensitization, coordinated political, technical and security efforts and strong United Nations country team partnerships to finalize the Cameroon–Nigeria demarcation. The Mixed Commission will continue implementing security measures and raising awareness among local authorities and communities to ensure safe access and reduce risks at pillar sites.

87. Progress towards the objective and the target for 2027 are presented in the figure below (see figure II).

92. The increase in requirements for 2027 compared with the appropriation for 2026 is attributable primarily to increased requirements for civilian personnel costs due to the application of the latest salary rates. The increase is offset in part by: (a) the application of a higher vacancy rate of 14.3 per cent, compared with 11.1 per cent applied in 2026, for international staff; and (b) reduced requirements under operational costs.

93. A net decrease of $10,900 under operational costs is attributable primarily to the following changes:

(a) Other supplies, services and equipment: the decrease in requirements of $31,200 is attributable primarily to the lower estimated contribution towards the United Nations House in 2027 and reduced requirements for individual contractual services. The decrease is offset in part by additional requirements related to the organization of events to facilitate the implementation of the Commission's mandate in preparation for the completion of the mandate and transition;

(b) Facilities and infrastructure: the increase in requirements of $21,500 is attributable mainly to: (i) higher maintenance costs resulting from increased contractual prices for cleaning and gardening services following the review of the minimum wages in the mission area and the appreciation of the local currency in Nigeria against the United States dollar; (ii) one-time maintenance costs for the offices in Yaoundé and Abuja to address unforeseen maintenance following the possible move to a new premises in Abuja and the relocation of the Yaoundé office to the new United Nations House and for the inspection of the premises; and (iii) increased requirements for security services following a review of the mission's utilization patterns and the inclusion of the entity's share of costs for the security services provided by the Department of Safety and Security. The increase is offset in part by lower estimated consumption of petrol, oil and lubricants, based on utilization patterns in previous years.

94. The increase in requirements of $3,100 for the military observer is attributable to an increase in the mission subsistence allowance rate (higher actual daily rate of the "after 30 days" mission subsistence allowance of $133 effective 1 January 2026 compared with the rate of $126 applied in the approved budget for 2026).

4. Extrabudgetary resources

Voluntary contributions

95. For 2026, extrabudgetary resources in the amount of $587,000 are projected to be utilized for the completion of the construction of 464 boundary pillars.

96. No extrabudgetary resources are projected for 2027 as the Mixed Commission will initiate the transfer of the monitoring and implementation of activities to the United Nations country teams and the national authorities, to ensure the sustained delivery of projects for the benefit of the affected populations.

4. Office of the United Nations Special Coordinator for Lebanon

($10,386,800)

A. Proposed programme plan for 2027 and programme performance in 2025

Overall orientation

Mandates and background

97. The mandate of the Office of the United Nations Special Coordinator for Lebanon stems from Security Council resolution 1701 (2006), as well as subsequent decisions of the Council, including those contained in S/2007/85 and S/2007/86, S/PRST/2015/7, S/PRST/2016/10 and S/PRST/2025/1. The Special Coordinator is the representative of the Secretary-General vis-à-vis all government and national counterparts, as well as regional, multilateral and diplomatic entities based in Lebanon, and provides political guidance and promotes coherence across the Organization's activities. The Deputy Special Coordinator leads the United Nations country team and humanitarian country team in his capacity as Resident Coordinator/Humanitarian Coordinator and oversees United Nations humanitarian and development activities in Lebanon.

98. The Security Council, in its resolution 2790 (2025), decided to extend for a final time the mandate of UNIFIL until 31 December 2026 and requested the Secretary-General to explore, by 1 June 2026, options for the future of the implementation of resolution 1701 (2006) after the withdrawal of UNIFIL. The Council welcomed the Cessation of Hostilities arrangement of 26 November 2024 (see S/2024/870) and requested the parties to faithfully implement its provisions, with the support of the United Nations Special Coordinator for Lebanon and UNIFIL, in line with their mandates.

99. In the context of the Office's mandate and pending further clarification on the options for the future of the implementation of resolution 1701 (2006), the core objectives of resolution 1701 (2006) to be advanced by the Office will include restoration and consolidation of the cessation of hostilities, including through confidence-building measures and dialogue to reach negotiated solutions, assertion of a State monopoly on arms, elaboration of a national security strategy and architecture, implementation of the arms embargo and delineation of Lebanon's international borders, both with Israel and the Syrian Arab Republic, as well as support for Lebanese State institutions, including to respond to the socioeconomic and humanitarian impacts of the conflict.

Programme of work

Objective

100. The objective, to which this mission contributes, is to prevent and mitigate conflict between Israel and Lebanon and work towards an eventual permanent ceasefire and to extend and consolidate State authority in support of the territorial integrity, sovereignty and political independence of Lebanon.

Strategy and external factors for 2027

101. To contribute to the objective, the mission will:

(a) Exercise its good offices between the parties to preserve and consolidate the restoration of a cessation of hostilities, prevent a relapse into conflict and advance the full implementation of resolution 1701 (2006);

(b) Intensify efforts to resolve outstanding obligations of all parties under resolution 1701 (2006) to secure a permanent ceasefire and long-term solution to the conflict, including through the restoration of Lebanon's territorial integrity and delineation of Lebanon's international borders;

(c) Advocate for Lebanon's political leadership to ensure the effective functioning of State institutions to provide essential services for its citizens, preparations towards the conduct of transparent, inclusive and credible parliamentary elections, the adoption of a macroeconomic stabilization programme and implementation of a comprehensive reform and recovery programme;

(d) Facilitate urgently required humanitarian, recovery and reconstruction imperatives necessitated by hostilities and mitigate the impact of continued volatility in the Syrian Arab Republic on the security, stability and refugee situation in Lebanon, including through, inter alia, support for bilateral cooperation initiatives;

(e) Support the accelerated extension of State authority and assertion of a State monopoly on arms across Lebanese territory, and intensify engagement with national political stakeholders and with international partners to facilitate the disarmament of non-State armed groups through a whole-of-government approach, and engagement with Syrian authorities on unresolved border, security and judicial issues, in order to strengthen the State security presence along border points and ensure the effective enforcement of the arms embargo.

102. The above-mentioned work is expected to result in:

(a) An enduring cessation of hostilities with the requisite political support in Lebanon and Israel;

(b) Direct or indirect negotiations between Lebanon and Israel to address outstanding obligations under resolution 1701 (2006) towards an eventual permanent ceasefire;

(c) Effective Lebanese State institutions in place and comprehensive structural reforms initiated to put the country on the path to recovery, uphold its democratic principles and strengthen good governance;

(d) The State's effective exercise of authority over all Lebanese territory, including through the strengthened deployment of the Lebanese Armed Forces, and steps taken to secure its borders and other entry points;

(e) Lebanon's implementation of a political framework that establishes a State monopoly over the possession, transfer and production of arms;

(f) Engagement on the Lebanon-Israel and Lebanon-Syrian Arab Republic tracks to delineate the international borders of Lebanon in its entirety, including by addressing the issue of the Shab'a Farms.

103. With regard to cooperation with other entities, the mission coordinates with the League of Arab States, the European Union and international financial institutions such as the World Bank and the International Monetary Fund to ensure coherence and alignment in political advocacy. The Special Coordinator engages international and regional stakeholders as part of her good offices mandate, to help to build trust and defuse tensions, mobilize broad support for Lebanon's stability and promote political and diplomatic processes towards the full implementation of resolution 1701 (2006).

104. With regard to inter-agency coordination and liaison, pending a decision by the Security Council on the options for the future of the implementation of resolution 1701 (2006) after UNIFIL withdraws, the mission will lead efforts in support of the implementation of resolution 1701 (2006) to maintain the cessation of hostilities and to strengthen the extension of State authority across all of Lebanon's territory. Leveraging the presence of all United Nations entities, the mission brings all available political, security and development tools to bear in a coordinated and harmonized manner in support of Lebanon's recovery and stability and the extension of its State authority. The mission also contributes to the United Nations Sustainable Development Cooperation Framework and leads its peace and governance results group, including through work on areas related to good governance, support to law enforcement and security entities, peacebuilding, and joint initiatives to enhance trust-building and youth empowerment.

105. With regard to the external factors, the overall plan for 2027 is based on the following planning assumptions:

(a) International consensus on Lebanon will continue to be challenged;

(b) Political divisions and deepened sectarian tensions may hinder effective government decision-making and undermine internal dialogue and economic and governance reforms;

(c) The prolonged socioeconomic crisis, compounded by the impact of the conflict, and its humanitarian repercussions will remain a source of instability and social unrest;

(d) Lebanon's internal stability and security will remain vulnerable to the volatile regional situation, highlighting the need for bilateral engagement to address potential security concerns and shield the country from spillover;

(e) Internal dynamics in the Syrian Arab Republic, as well as Lebanese-Syrian relations, are likely to dictate cross-border movements;

(f) Relations between Lebanon and Israel will remain fraught, underlining the imperative for engagement of the parties in a political process to consolidate an enduring cessation of hostilities and address the underlying causes of the conflict within the framework of resolution 1701 (2006) towards pursuit of a permanent ceasefire;

(g) Extension of State authority in Lebanon and along its borders will continue to be affected by political will, other law-and-order requirements and financial, political and logistical challenges faced by the State security institutions in asserting the State's monopoly on arms.

106. In coordination with national stakeholders and United Nations entities, the mission integrates a gender perspective, as appropriate, and is working to promote the adoption of measures to protect and prevent violence against women and enhance women's political leadership and representation through a range of initiatives, including legislative reforms (e.g. special temporary measures for elections) to promote women's political participation, as well as women's engagement in inclusive peace dialogue networks at the local and national levels. Together with relevant partners in the United Nations country team, the mission supports networks engaged in reconciliation, conflict prevention, inclusive community dialogue and mediation.

107. In line with the United Nations Disability Inclusion Strategy, the mission will promote and mainstream disability inclusion in the implementation of its mandate within its internal work practices and operations and in broader joint United Nations system engagements. The mission also implements a specific action plan for disability inclusion and is actively involved in the broader United Nations system working group for disability inclusion at both the local and global levels.

Adjustments arising from the UN80 Initiative

108. The proposed programme plan for 2027 reflects efforts to implement all mandates in a more efficient and effective manner and contains no substantive adjustments arising from the UN80 Initiative.

Evaluation activities

109. In 2025, the Office, together with UN-Women, conducted a joint assessment study of women's leadership and representation within Lebanese political parties. The results of the study served as a joint impact-driven evaluation of the advocacy efforts of the United Nations in support of women's political participation. In addition, the Office conducted an assessment of the overall United Nations support to Lebanese law enforcement and security institutions. This exercise was jointly conducted with UNIFIL, UNDP, the United Nations Office for Project Services (UNOPS), the International Organization for Migration, the Office of the United Nations High Commissioner for Refugees, UN-Women, UNODC and the Resident Coordinator Office. In response to the evaluation of women's representation, the Office is strengthening its engagement with political parties and emerging pro-change political groups to advocate for enhanced women's representation. In response to the evaluation of support to law enforcement institutions, the mission is widening its outreach to all national security agencies and potential partners to better coordinate the United Nations support and avoid duplication.

Programme performance in 2025

Consolidation of the cessation of hostilities

110. In 2025, the Special Coordinator exercised her good offices with relevant stakeholders in Lebanon, Israel, the region and beyond to promote confidence-building measures to consolidate the cessation of hostilities arrangement of November 2024 to promote enduring security and stability for communities on both sides of the Blue Line. Through public and closed-door channels, the Special Coordinator urged all parties to leverage the momentum provided by the cessation of hostilities arrangement to take concrete steps towards negotiated solutions to advance long-stalled provisions of resolution 1701 (2006), including through promoting and supporting the commencement of a civilian dialogue track.

111. The Special Coordinator also offered her good offices to support the Government of Lebanon in its effort to establish exclusive State control over weapons, including through mobilization of international support for the Lebanese Armed Forces to ensure a strengthened presence and effective deployment south of the Litani River as a critical first step, while continuing work towards the full extension of State authority across all of Lebanon's territory.

112. Progress towards the objective is presented in the performance measure below (see table 25).

Planned results for 2027

Result 1: political and diplomatic efforts to delineate Lebanon's international borders

Programme performance in 2025 and target for 2027

113. In 2025, the mission supported political and diplomatic efforts and regularly engaged with the parties to address outstanding provisions of resolution 1701 (2006) and consolidate the 2024 cessation of hostilities arrangement towards creating the space for progress on longer-term objectives, such as the restoration of Lebanon's territorial integrity, including through the withdrawal of the Israel Defense Forces from north of the Blue Line, and the resolution of disputed border areas. The resolution of disputed border areas witnessed some renewed interest without meeting the planned target for 2025. Meanwhile, building on conducive openings with the Syrian Arab Republic, the mission supported the nascent exploration of border delineation initiatives between the two countries.

114. For 2027, the mission will employ its good offices to support the restoration and consolidation of a cessation of hostilities, including through leveraging the momentum for dialogue between the parties to reach negotiated solutions on outstanding provisions of resolution 1701 (2006), including the disarmament of non-State armed groups, the withdrawal of Israeli forces from north of the Blue Line and a border dispute resolution as potentially significant aspects of a long-term solution. In parallel, the mission will leverage windows of opportunity, in cooperation with relevant stakeholders, to facilitate progress towards a border delineation track between Lebanon and the Syrian Arab Republic.

115. Expected progress towards the objective is presented in the performance measure below (see table 26).

Result 2: extension and consolidation of State authority and strengthened governance to advance Lebanon's stability and recovery

Proposed programme plan for 2027

116. For 2027, the mission will build on decisions of the Government of Lebanon to achieve the nationwide State monopoly on arms. Noting potential gaps following the end of UNIFIL operations on 31 December 2026, the Office will continue to lead United Nations efforts to mobilize international assistance to empower Lebanon's security institutions and to advance progress towards a national security strategy and related architecture. In support of Lebanon's overall stability and recovery, the mission will advocate for the effective and uninterrupted functioning of governance institutions and for tangible progress in the reform and macroeconomic stabilization track.

Lessons learned and planned change

117. The lesson for the mission was that consolidating the cessation of hostilities was not insulated from the volatile international and regional context, which impacted the calculations of all parties and ultimately led to the collapse of the cessation of hostilities arrangement. The mission will, therefore, continue to exercise its good offices with stakeholders in the region and beyond to shield progress from externalities. The growth of cross-cutting and interconnected challenges facing Lebanon, which span the humanitarian, development, political and security fields, has reinforced the need for deeper integration between related pillars of the work of the United Nations, which the Office will be prioritizing in its working methods, communication products, planning and assessments, among other streams of work.

118. Expected progress towards the objective is presented in the performance measure below (see table 27).

C. Substantive deliverables

Good offices: provision of good offices in support of de-escalation, the consolidation of the cessation of hostilities and the extension and consolidation of State authority; good offices on elections, peace and stability, including with respect to economic issues; intensive engagement with the Lebanese Armed Forces and the Internal Security Forces, as well as the donor community, to facilitate continued assistance to the security forces; and confidence-building measures between Israel and Lebanon and between the Syrian Arab Republic and Lebanon, including with respect to the border delineation and the status of the Shab'a Farms.

Consultation, advice and advocacy: consultations with Lebanese and Israeli interlocutors on the implementation of resolution 1701 (2006); consultations with international and regional stakeholders on ensuring Lebanon's stability; consultations on the economic and governance reform agenda and development priorities; advice on government accountability, governance policy formulation and public administration reforms; advocacy with international partners in support of Lebanon's efforts for extension of State authority, including strengthened State security agencies; consultations on border delineation and integrated border management on the Lebanon-Syrian Arab Republic border; advocacy on key human rights standards and protections that could have an impact on long-term security and stability and the strengthening of human rights institutions in Lebanon; advocacy on the political participation and representation of women and young people; and advocacy with international partners in support of Lebanon for continued donor involvement and resources as Lebanon responds to the presence of Palestine and Syrian refugees, taking into account the needs of refugees and host communities.

D. Communication deliverables

Outreach programmes, special events and information materials: outreach activities to support the implementation of resolution 1701 (2006) and other key priorities relating to Lebanon's sustainable peace, development and human rights agenda; activities to strengthen the relationship with key Lebanese partners and stakeholders; engaging with young people, including university students, and supporting women's empowerment and representation, in particular in the parliamentary elections; and outreach activities through special events to communicate more effectively with local stakeholders and to spread broader knowledge of the work being undertaken by the mission, through information materials and joint outreach activities with other United Nations entities for the promotion of United Nations system-wide priorities such as the Sustainable Development Goals.

External and media relations: press conferences, press statements, background briefings, interviews, op-eds and other media engagements to communicate strategically on the implementation of resolution 1701 (2006).

Digital platforms and multimedia content: materials to deepen local and national understandings of and support for the mission and its support for the implementation of resolution 1701 (2006) on websites or social media.

120. The proposed resource requirements for 2027 for the mission amount to $10,386,800 (net of staff assessment) and would provide for salaries and common staff costs ($8,865,500) for 14 international posts (1 Under-Secretary-General, 1 Assistant Secretary-General, 1 D-1, 2 P-5, 5 P-4, 1 P-3 and 3 Field Service) and 57 national posts (5 National Professional Officer and 52 Local level), as well as operational costs ($1,521,300), comprising the costs for official travel ($171,600), facilities and infrastructure ($705,900), ground transportation ($90,000), communications and information technology ($419,600), medical ($9,400) and other supplies, services and equipment ($124,800).

2. Staffing requirements

121. For 2027, no change is proposed to the number and levels of the posts.

3. Analysis of resource requirements

123. The increase in requirements for 2027 compared with the appropriation for 2026 is attributable primarily to higher requirements for civilian personnel costs, owing to the application of lower vacancy rates of 7.1 per cent for international staff and 1.9 per cent for national General Service staff, compared with 11.1 per cent and 5.0 per cent applied in the 2026 budget, respectively, as well as to higher estimated salary costs for national General Service staff. The increase is further attributable to increased requirements under operational costs.

124. The increase in requirements of $2,800 under operational costs is attributable primarily to the following changes:

(a) Communications and information technology: the increase in requirements of $34,200 is attributable primarily to higher requirements for public information and publication services in support of sustained advocacy efforts and expanded communications and outreach activities, as well as higher requirements for telecommunications and network services related to leased line, videoconferencing and satellite services. The increase is offset in part by reduced requirements for maintenance of communications and information technology equipment and support services, attributable mainly to lower rates for centralized information and communications technology (ICT) support services in line with ICT budget guidelines, as well as a decrease in the number of supported users;

(b) Other supplies, services and equipment: the increase in requirements of $21,400 is attributable primarily to higher requirements for individual contractual services, including photography and other services supporting joint activities related to the United Nations Communications Group, aimed at enhancing awareness of the mission's importance and the implementation of its mandate, as well as to expanded communications and outreach efforts following the planned closure of UNIFIL;

(c) Ground transportation: the increase in requirements of $12,100 is attributable primarily to the higher costs of repairs and maintenance and spare parts, owing to an ageing vehicle fleet;

(d) Medical: the increase in requirements of $3,400 is attributable primarily to the acquisition of medical equipment and emergency field medical supplies;

(e) Facilities and infrastructure: the decrease in requirements of $72,300 is attributable primarily to reduced furniture acquisitions, for which provisions were made in 2026, lower requirements for alterations and renovations as they were already planned for 2026, and lower estimated fuel consumption. The decrease is offset in part by higher requirements for safety and security equipment necessary to ensure the safety of staff and office assets and to ensure compliance with standard security protocols and procedures.

5. United Nations Regional Office for Central Africa

($6,878,600)

A. Proposed programme plan for 2027 and programme performance in 2025

Overall orientation

Mandates and background

125. UNOCA is responsible for the prevention of conflicts and the consolidation of peace and security in Central Africa. The mandate derives from an exchange of letters between the Secretary-General and the President of the Security Council (S/2009/697 and S/2010/457). In another exchange of letters (S/2024/648 and S/2024/649), the mandate was extended until 31 August 2027.

126. The mandate for the period 2024–2027 encompasses four objectives, namely: (a) monitor political and security developments in Central Africa and carry out good offices on behalf of the Secretary-General in order to prevent and resolve conflicts, to help to sustain peace and to advise the Secretary-General and United Nations entities in the region on sustaining peace issues in Central Africa; (b) enhance subregional capacities for conflict prevention and mediation in countries of the subregion, with due attention given to the principles of the Charter of the United Nations, including human rights and gender dimensions; (c) support and enhance United Nations efforts in the subregion, as well as regional and subregional initiatives on peace and security, including from human rights and gender perspectives; and (d) enhance coherence and coordination in the work of the United Nations in the subregion on peace and security.

127. The mission serves as the secretariat of the United Nations Standing Advisory Committee on Security Questions in Central Africa.

Programme of work

Objective

128. The objective, to which this mission contributes, is to prevent conflict and consolidate peace and security in the Central Africa subregion.

Strategy and external factors for 2027

129. To contribute to the objective, the mission will:

(a) Engage in good offices activities to help countries to prevent political crises and election-related violence and peacefully resolve conflicts and crises stemming from political processes, including political transitions, and promote inclusive, peaceful and credible elections;

(b) Leverage its partnership with subregional organizations, especially the Economic Community of Central African States (ECCAS) in conflict prevention, mediation and early warning, ensuring the participation of women, young people and other actors in inclusive peacebuilding and sustaining peace efforts, including the implementation of the regional strategy on hate speech, and addressing the adverse effects of climate change on peace and security;

(c) Cooperate with the Lake Chad Basin Commission on the revision of the territorial action plans that will guide the implementation of the revised Regional Stabilization, Recovery and Resilience Strategy for Areas Affected by Boko Haram in the Lake Chad Basin Region;

(d) Address cross-regional peace and security challenges, including farmer-herder dynamics, the crisis in the Lake Chad Basin and maritime piracy in the Gulf of Guinea, in close coordination with United Nations entities in Central and West Africa;

(e) Carry out regular early warning analysis to inform preventive diplomacy and good offices efforts for peace and security in Central Africa, and mobilize support for preventive diplomacy, in collaboration with ECCAS and United Nations entities;

(f) Enhance the coherence of the work of the United Nations on peace and security issues in Central Africa through regular consultations with relevant United Nations entities in the subregion, coordinate the efforts of United Nations entities geared towards the implementation of the regional conflict prevention framework and in line with commitments of the Pact for the Future, and support the country teams in adopting and/or rolling out national sustaining peace strategies aligned with the framework;

(g) Support the regular ministerial meetings of the United Nations Standing Advisory Committee on Security Questions in Central Africa as a platform for confidence-building between Member States to discuss threats and challenges to regional peace and security, with a view to preventing or addressing conflicts, crises or inter-State tensions.

130. The above-mentioned work is expected to result in:

(a) Peaceful and credible electoral processes in the subregion, with relevant prevention mechanisms in place for potential election-related violence, and the initiation or continuation of inclusive political dialogue processes, assisted by joint early-warning and good offices by the mission and ECCAS in countries holding elections or facing a political crisis;

(b) The United Nations Standing Advisory Committee on Security Questions in Central Africa contributing to reinforced cooperation and coordination among ECCAS member States, regional organizations and other key stakeholders of the subregion;

(c) A shared understanding of key peace and security challenges and priorities among United Nations entities in Central Africa, integrating emerging drivers of conflicts, including the impact of climate change and environmental degradation;

(d) Enhanced coordination of United Nations efforts in support of regional and subregional initiatives on peace and security and governance;

(e) Improved interregional coordination of efforts between Central and West Africa on maritime security in the Gulf of Guinea, the impact of climate change on peace and security, farmer-herder dynamics and the crisis in the Lake Chad Basin region.

131. With regard to cooperation with other entities, the mission carries out joint analyses and activities on cross-regional peace and security challenges with other regional and subregional organizations. Early warning analysis and good offices are carried out, to the extent possible, jointly or in consultation with ECCAS.

132. With regard to inter-agency coordination and liaison, the mission works closely with the Office of the Special Envoy of the Secretary-General for the Great Lakes Region, UNOWAS, the United Nations Multidimensional Integrated Stabilization Mission in the Central African Republic, the United Nations Organization Stabilization Mission in the Democratic Republic of the Congo and other relevant United Nations entities with respect to cross-border and transregional challenges to peace and security, in order to avoid duplication and ensure coherence and enhance synergies. Country-specific early warning and good offices activities are carried out in close coordination with the resident coordinators concerned.

133. With regard to the external factors, the overall plan for 2027 is based on the following planning assumptions:

(a) ECCAS institutional reform becomes increasingly more operational, with all peace and security institutions and mechanisms established and provided with adequate resources for their functioning in the context of new leadership of the subregional organization;

(b) UNOCA and ECCAS maintain or strengthen their cooperation and regular consultations and adopt and roll out a joint plan of action, within the framework of a new memorandum of understanding between ECCAS and the United Nations on peace and security issues;

(c) ECCAS member States remain committed to establishing a regional governance framework, work towards the adoption and implementation of regional governance standards and mechanisms and solicit or accept the support of UNOCA and regional and international partners;

(d) The elections scheduled in the countries of the region are held according to the constitutional and legal time frames and the countries concerned accept the political engagement of UNOCA and ECCAS to defuse tensions, prevent election-related violence and resolve election-related crises;

(e) ECCAS and its member States show a commitment to the involvement of civil society actors, including the regional Coalition of Civil Society Organizations for Peace and Conflict Prevention in Central Africa, the Coalition of Youth, Peace and Security in Central Africa and women's organizations, in the activities of ECCAS in the realm of peace and security, including early warning, conflict prevention and peacebuilding. The Coalition of Civil Society Organizations becomes fully operational, with adequate human resources, and is supported by ECCAS member States and partners;

(f) ECCAS member States develop, adopt and begin the implementation of a conflict-sensitive regional strategy on climate change and resilient development and regional regulation on pastoralism and transhumance in Central Africa to address the impacts of climate change on peace and security, while strengthening national and local mechanisms to prevent and peacefully resolve farmer-herder conflicts and promote peaceful cross-border transhumance;

(g) The international community increases support to Chad in light of the continued influx of Sudanese refugees and its impact on social cohesion and resources with a view to helping Chad to respond to those challenges.

134. The mission works with other relevant United Nations entities and external partners to reinforce the capacities of women in decision-making and in mediation. It will continue to support the operationalization and build the capacity of the ECCAS network of women mediators established in December 2021 and endorsed by the Heads of State in January 2022. UNOCA will also support ECCAS in the finalization and dissemination of the updated regional action plan on women and peace and security.

135. In line with the United Nations Disability Inclusion Strategy, the mission advocates for political and electoral processes in the region to be disability-sensitive, by encouraging Member States to take appropriate measures to facilitate the participation of persons with disabilities. The mission also encourages and supports experience-sharing between the States of the region on disability inclusion, thus facilitating the adoption of measures that take into consideration the specificities of the regional and national contexts. The mission will also target partners such as organizations or associations of persons with disabilities as part of its capacity-building activities.

Adjustments arising from the UN80 Initiative

136. The proposed programme plan for 2027 reflects changes arising from the UN80 Initiative. In particular, the table of deliverables reflects updated planned deliverables for 2026, in line with the approved programme budget for 2026.

Programme performance in 2025

Strengthened national capacities in reducing electoral and institutional tensions in Chad and Gabon

137. In 2025, through the good offices of the Special Representative of the Secretary-General for Central Africa and Head of UNOCA, the Office intensified diplomatic engagement across Central Africa to accompany political transitions and support electoral processes. In Chad, the Office engaged national authorities on post-transition priorities, including decentralization, disarmament, demobilization and reintegration, stabilization and inclusive development, following the country's completion of its political transition and the holding of legislative, provincial, municipal and senatorial elections between December 2024 and March 2025, which marked the full restoration of constitutional order.

138. In Gabon, UNOCA maintained regular dialogue with transitional authorities and political actors, underscoring the importance of institutional reforms and supporting preparations for legislative, senatorial and local elections, which represented key steps in consolidating progress made after the presidential election of April 2025 towards restoring constitutional governance. Across the subregion, UNOCA also advanced initiatives aimed at expanding the participation of women and young people, including technical support to a mentoring programme for women's political leadership in Gabon and regional youth engagement on peace and security priorities.

139. Progress towards the objective is presented in the performance measure below (see table 33).

Table 33
Performance measure

2023 (actual)	2024 (actual)	2025 (actual)
Political transition in Chad advanced in an environment of relative calm, including through the implementation of the Doha Peace Agreement	Chad peacefully concluded its political transition, with the organizations of legislative, provincial and local elections	Strengthened capacities of key stakeholders, civil society organizations and journalists contributed to enhancing participants' engagement with concepts and approaches conducive to a democratic and peaceful election environment in Gabon and Chad
Gabon peacefully began its political transition with the establishment of the committee for transition and institutional restoration	Gabon's transition advanced in a peaceful and inclusive manner, in line with the defined timeline	Gabon held peaceful presidential, legislative and local elections, which marked a key milestone towards the restoration of constitutional order in the country. Chad concluded its political transition through the holding of senatorial, provincial and municipal elections, completing the restoration of constitutional order

Strengthened regional capacities for conflict prevention and mediation in Central Africa

Programme performance in 2025 and target for 2027

140. In 2025, UNOCA strengthened regional capacities for conflict prevention and mediation by supporting ECCAS-led early warning and preventive diplomacy mechanisms and convening regional stakeholders through the United Nations Standing Advisory Committee on Security

Questions in Central Africa. Targeted capacity-building for civil society organizations, women and youth actors and journalists enhanced coordination, inclusive engagement and collective responses to emerging political and security risks across the subregion.

141. In 2027, building on close cooperation with ECCAS, UNOCA will continue supporting subregional mechanisms that reinforce early warning, dialogue and coordinated responses to political and security challenges. Additionally, UNOCA will deepen cooperation with regional and international stakeholders on thematic priorities, such as climate-related security risks, transhumance-related conflicts and cross-border stabilization, informed by field assessments, engagement, local action and joint workshops conducted in the subregion.

Lessons learned and planned change

142. A lesson for the mission was the importance of structured and sustained engagement with regional and subregional organizations, particularly during periods of institutional transition on the side of ECCAS, to preserve continuity and enhance the effectiveness of preventive diplomacy. The change in ECCAS leadership in 2025 underscored the need for proactive engagement to align priorities, leverage complementarities and strengthen joint ownership of peace and security initiatives. In applying this lesson, UNOCA will deepen its strategic partnership with the renewed ECCAS leadership and its member States, while reinforcing coordination with United Nations presences, country teams and relevant international, national and civil society stakeholders.

143. Progress towards the objective and the target for 2027 are presented in the performance measure below (see table 34).

C. Substantive deliverables

Good offices: preventive diplomacy and mediation, high-level diplomatic missions and meetings, including jointly with regional organizations (ECCAS and the African Union), regional and subregional summits, forums and high-level meetings to promote peace and stability, maritime safety and human rights, climate, peace and security and transhumance; support for the endorsement/final adoption and implementation, by Heads of State of ECCAS member States, of the regional strategy to prevent and address hate speech, as well as facilitation of at least one session on disinformation.

Consultation, advice and advocacy: strategic coordination meetings and round tables with regional and subregional organizations on regional integration, peace and security, human rights and counter-terrorism (including security threats in the Lake Chad Basin).

D. Communication deliverables

Outreach: collaboration with civil society (e.g. media associations and women's and youth groups), regulatory bodies, ECCAS and other key stakeholders for events to raise awareness on the UNOCA mandate and activities; collaboration with the media for the public's better understanding of UNOCA good offices and mediation work; joint activities with the United Nations Communications Groups.

External and media relations: capacity-building programmes for the media and communications stakeholders in the subregion, in the context of national elections and other key political processes, in coordination with other United Nations entities; build, maintain and reinforce working relationships with the media at the national, subregional and international levels on the work of UNOCA; organization of at least two press conferences for UNOCA leadership.

Digital platforms and multimedia content: three online platforms (social and digital media) to disseminate multilingual content promoting the mandate and strengthening the visibility of UNOCA activities; production and dissemination of various materials to reflect UNOCA activities for peace and stability in the subregion; production and dissemination of various digital materials (cards, infographics, videos and digital newsletters) and multimedia content to reflect UNOCA activities for peace and stability in the subregion.

145. The proposed resource requirements for 2027 for the mission amount to $6,878,600 (net of staff assessment) and would provide for salaries and common staff costs ($5,452,600) for the continuation of 26 international posts (1 Under-Secretary-General, 2 D-1, 2 P-5, 10 P-4, 4 P-3 and 7 Field Service) and 13 national posts (3 National Professional Officer and 10 Local level), as well as operational costs in the amount of $1,426,000.

148. The increase in requirements for 2027 compared with the appropriation for 2026 is attributable primarily to increased requirements for civilian personnel costs, resulting from the application of the latest salary scales for international and national staff. The increase was offset in part by the application of higher vacancy rates of 15.4 per cent for international staff and 18.1 per cent for Local level staff compared with the approved rates of 12.1 per cent and 16.7 per cent, respectively, applied in 2026. The vacancy rate for National Professional Officers remains unchanged compared with the approved vacancy rate of 25.0 per cent. The increase was further offset by reduced requirements under operational costs.

149. A net decrease in requirements of $12,500 under operational costs is attributable to the following changes:

(a) Air operations: the decrease in requirements of $132,200 reflects the removal of all provisions under air operations, in light of the non-utilization of the co-shared fixed-wing aircraft during 2024 and 2025 owing to liquidity constraints and the high cost of special flights. In response, the Office will rely on commercial airlines for official missions, a model that has proven to be cost-effective during the preceding two financial periods;

(b) Official travel: the increase in requirements of $70,100 is attributable primarily to the continued use of commercial airlines for official missions as a more cost-effective logistics solution, in lieu of the use of special flights associated with the co-shared fixed-wing aircraft. The proposed increase in requirements for official travel remains $62,100 lower than the level of resources previously budgeted under air operations, which represents a net saving;

(c) Facilities and infrastructure: the increase in requirements of $39,600 is attributable primarily to costs associated with the transfer of UNOCA to the United Nations House, including maintenance and security services managed by UNDP.

4. Extrabudgetary resources

Voluntary contributions

150. In 2026, extrabudgetary resources in the amount of $373,000 are projected to strengthen regional capacities to prevent, mitigate and address election-related crises and violence across the Central Africa subregion, including through efforts to enhance electoral governance and support the adoption of a regional protocol on good governance. These resources will also support the continued integration of climate-related security risks into the mission's policy analysis and early warning systems, as well as the maintenance of specialized expertise through the Climate Security Adviser (P-4) and a consultant.

151. In 2027, extrabudgetary resources in the amount of $400,000 are projected to sustain efforts to strengthen regional capacities for the prevention and mitigation of election-related risks and violence, including support for the operationalization of the regional protocol on good governance. These resources would also support the integration of climate-related security risks into policy analysis and early warning systems, while retaining critical technical expertise through the Climate Security Adviser (P-4) and a consultant, subject to funding availability.

6. United Nations Support Mission in Libya

($83,067,400)

A. Proposed programme plan for 2027 and programme performance in 2025

Overall orientation

Mandates and background

152. UNSMIL is an integrated special political mission established by the Security Council in resolution 2009 (2011). The Mission is mandated to support Libya's transition and post-conflict efforts, including through the facilitation of an inclusive political process. The mandate of the Mission was defined in Security Council resolution 2542 (2020) and was renewed by the Council in subsequent resolutions, including, most recently, resolution 2796 (2025), by which the Council extended the mandate of the Mission until 31 October 2026.

153. In its resolution 2796 (2025), the Security Council encouraged UNSMIL to implement the recommendations of the 2025 strategic review (S/2025/611), including to: (a) place the support of a political solution to the Libyan conflict at the core of the Mission's mandate and streamline its workstreams to that end; (b) establish a more consistent presence across Libya, including targeted expansions in Benghazi and Sabha, while maintaining a cost-neutral realignment and within existing resources; (c) increase engagement in eastern and southern Libya with key stakeholders to support reunification efforts; (d) establish a dedicated economic unit within UNSMIL; (e) assume a leading role in international engagement on Libya, particularly in relation to the Berlin process, encouraging its full participation and continued evolution and inclusivity to further advance the process; and (f) recognize that UNSMIL engagement on human rights and the rule of law remains integral to the country's political process.

Programme of work

Objective

154. The objective, to which this Mission contributes, is to support an inclusive Libyan-led political process and rights-based national reconciliation, conflict prevention and peacebuilding efforts; strengthen rule of law institutions, transitional justice processes and State-building efforts to optimize readiness for planning and implementing credible, transparent and inclusive elections; advance human rights, gender equality and women's and youth political participation; and support the reform of the security sector, disarmament, demobilization and reintegration efforts and the further implementation of the October 2020 ceasefire agreement.

Strategy and external factors for 2027

155. To contribute to the objective, the Mission will:

(a) Provide mediation and good offices in support of a Libyan-led and Libyan-owned political process facilitated by the United Nations, in line with the political road map and its three core pillars announced by the Special Representative of the Secretary-General for Libya and Head of UNSMIL in August 2025;

(b) Address long-term drivers of conflict, work towards government unification and strengthen inclusive political engagement with diverse stakeholders in Libya, including women, youth and persons with disabilities, taking into consideration the recommendations of the structured dialogue of 2025–2026;

(c) Provide technical assistance to the High National Elections Commission in conducting transparent and inclusive national and municipal elections;

(d) Support inclusive, victim-centred and rights-based national reconciliation processes based on transitional justice principles, capacity-building for reconciliation bodies and the facilitation of dialogue among diverse Libyan actors, including civil society, women, persons with disabilities and youth;

(e) Establish a more consistent presence across Libya, including targeted expansions in Benghazi and Sabha, within a cost-neutral realignment and existing resources, while increasing engagement with key stakeholders in eastern and southern Libya;

(f) Strengthen the rule of law and accountability by supporting Libya's judiciary and prosecutorial systems, including their critical role in ensuring justice for all Libyans;

(g) Promote and protect human rights by monitoring, reporting and addressing violations, with a focus on sexual violence in conflict and violations against vulnerable groups, and by ensuring civic space for political participation;

(h) Advance security sector reform by supporting Libyan-led and Libyan-owned initiatives that reduce the risk of a return to widespread conflict, including through confidence-building measures, dialogue among security and military actors, and engagement with legislative bodies on national security legislation, with a view to the reunification of security and military institutions under civilian oversight;

(i) Facilitate disarmament, demobilization and reintegration through support to national coordination mechanisms and civil society engagement, including technical assistance for planning and capacity development in mine action coordination and weapons and ammunition management;

(j) Support the 5+5 Joint Military Commission and its subcommittees, by facilitating confidence-building measures, dialogue and reconciliation among armed actors to prevent violence and conflict escalation and support the implementation of the ceasefire agreement, including progress on the withdrawal of foreign forces, foreign fighters and mercenaries, through engagement at the national and local levels;

(k) Support progress towards a unified national budget and unified institutions which promote independent and transparent economic and oversight institutions, in close cooperation with the international community, the United Nations country team and international financial institutions;

(l) Facilitate inclusive dialogue on economic governance and political economy dynamics to support a shared national economic vision and advance reforms that address conflict drivers and deliver tangible benefits for all Libyans, including women, youth and persons with disabilities;

(m) Engage with neighbouring countries, including Sahel countries, in support of regional cooperation and stabilization efforts, and ensure that their perspectives and security concerns are reflected in efforts to advance the Libyan-led and Libyan-owned political process.

156. The above-mentioned work is expected to result in:

(a) An inclusive Libyan-led and Libyan-owned political process leading to elected, unified, functional and representative State institutions, including economic institutions, contributing to political stability, sound economic governance and the protection of civic space as an enabler of credible elections and legitimate institutions;

(b) Enhanced accountability of institutions, promotion of the rule of law throughout the country, and reconciliation and transitional justice processes promoting and protecting human rights;

(c) Progress towards unified security and military institutions operating under civilian oversight, including improved coordination and accountability among security actors and professional defence and security forces, through support to the implementation of the ceasefire agreement and initiatives that reduce the risk of a return to widespread conflict, in support of the political process and electoral stability.

157. With regard to cooperation with other entities, the Mission cooperates with relevant local, national, regional and international partners and regional organizations, including the African Union, the League of Arab States and the European Union, in support of the Libyan-led and Libyan-owned political process.

158. With regard to inter-agency coordination and liaison, the Mission and the United Nations country team will continue to implement the United Nations Sustainable Development Cooperation Framework, extended by one additional year. Coordination modalities will be adjusted as necessary to ensure coherence between political engagement and development priorities, taking into account the evolving context and system-wide guidance.

159. With regard to the external factors, the overall plan for 2027 is based on the following planning assumptions:

(a) The Libyan Political Agreement of December 2015, Security Council resolutions 2510 (2020) and 2796 (2025), the conclusions of the Berlin Conference on Libya, the October 2020 ceasefire agreement, the Libyan Political Dialogue Forum Tunis road map and accompanying outputs and the UNSMIL political road map announced in 2025 will remain the guiding framework for United Nations support in Libya, including efforts to enable an inclusive political process and the conditions for elections;

(b) Economic governance challenges, including limited oversight, weak transparency and accountability, and constrained institutional capacity, are expected to persist. External factors include oil price fluctuations affecting revenues and regional dynamics;

(c) Progress in implementing the October 2020 ceasefire agreement, including the withdrawal of foreign forces, foreign fighters and mercenaries, is expected to remain uneven and dependent on sustained commitment by Libyan and external actors. The truce agreed between armed groups in western Libya following the May 2025 clashes in Tripoli will continue to hold;

(d) The Mission's efforts will be shaped by the willingness of Libyan actors to engage in confidence-building measures, dialogue and steps towards unification and reform of security institutions under civilian oversight, as well as broader regional dynamics;

(e) The human rights situation in Libya will remain challenging, particularly in strengthening the rule of law, ensuring accountability for violations and protecting civic space. The marginalization of women in political and reconciliation processes will continue to constrain peacebuilding;

(f) Institutional weaknesses and divisions among the country's security actors are expected to persist, continuing to create security vacuums and ungoverned spaces that may be exploited by violent extremist organizations, thereby increasing the risk of terrorist activity;

(g) The security situation is expected to remain fragile due to the proliferation of weapons and armed actors, the absence of unified security/military institutions, and competition among armed groups, compounded by smuggling and trafficking networks;

(h) The humanitarian situation is expected to evolve unevenly, shaped by security and political developments. While internal displacement may remain limited, vulnerabilities among internally displaced persons and returnees will persist in areas with weak services and insecurity. Continued conflict in the Sudan is likely to sustain or increase protection pressures related to the influx of Sudanese refugees, alongside ongoing risks to migrants, refugees and asylum-seekers, including abuse, exploitation and limited access to protection and services;

(i) Strategic partnerships will continue among the international community, including regional organizations and the United Nations, and are expected to continue in support of an inclusive Libyan-led and Libyan-owned political process, while the United Nations sanctions regime continues to be applied.

160. The Mission integrates a gender perspective across operations. The revised 2026 action plan on women and peace and security will guide efforts to strengthen gender integration and promote the full, equal and meaningful participation of women in political, electoral, governance and security processes. The Mission, together with the United Nations country team, will support women's rights through advocacy, technical assistance and the promotion of gender-responsive legislation and policies, including measures addressing violence against women and service gaps affecting displaced, migrant and refugee women and girls.

161. The Mission will mainstream disability inclusion, promoting the full and meaningful participation of persons with disabilities in political dialogue, elections and public decision-making, including through targeted advocacy to address barriers to accessibility and participation.

Adjustments arising from the UN80 Initiative

162. The proposed programme plan for 2027 reflects changes arising from the UN80 Initiative. In particular, the table of deliverables reflects updated planned deliverables for 2026, in line with the approved programme budget for 2026.

Evaluation activities

163. The proposed programme plan is informed by the recommendations of the OIOS evaluation of UNSMIL conducted in 2025. The proposed adjustments to objectives, strategies and deliverables reflect the recommendations of the review, with a focus on prioritization, alignment of mandate and resources, and more targeted political engagement.

164. In 2027, subject to available resources and capacities, UNSMIL will conduct an internal evaluation of the integration of the women and peace and security and the youth and peace and security agendas and the United Nations Disability Inclusion Strategy within the political process, in line with relevant OIOS recommendations.

Programme performance in 2025

Strengthened rule of law institutions and transitional justice process protecting the rights of all people in Libya

165. In 2025, UNSMIL supported concrete steps to strengthen rule of law institutions and advance transitional justice through national-level accountability engagement, reviews of the legal framework and capacity-building for justice and security actors. As a result, national and local authorities, judicial institutions and representatives of victims convened to accelerate the execution of national and international arrest warrants linked to the Tarhuna mass graves, enhance cooperation on extradition requests and support the resumption of excavations to identify missing persons. Stakeholders from Murzuq also convened in 2025 to address enforced disappearances and gross violations committed between 2019 and 2023. In addition, a joint committee, consisting of Libyan authorities, UNSMIL, United Nations agencies and other local technical parties, reviewed a preliminary draft law on missing persons to strengthen the legal basis for investigations, documentation and redress.

166. The Mission also organized specialized sessions for judges, prosecutors, investigators, prison staff and security actors covering international human rights and humanitarian law, international detention standards and related international processes. In addition, civil society reporting capacity was strengthened through structured engagement with international human rights mechanisms. This included the facilitation of civil society engagement with the universal periodic review mechanism of the Human Rights Council, including through thematic civil society submissions. These actions improved the evidence base, legal readiness and institutional coordination needed for future accountability and victim-centred transitional justice pathways.

167. Progress towards the objective is presented in the performance measure below (see table 40).

The signing of a statement in favour of the adoption of the draft law by members of the legislative committee and women's block of the House of Representatives highlighted UNSMIL mobilization of further support; however, the House did not discuss the proposed draft law on the protection of women against violence, nor did it adopt a comprehensive law on transitional justice	A draft of the associations law was agreed by civil society organizations in 2024 and was reviewed by the Office of the United Nations High Commissioner for Human Rights and a gender consultant to ensure a comprehensive gender perspective A joint consultation forum was established as part of the monitoring, analysis and reporting	The draft civil society law was further developed through consultations with national stakeholders, international civil society and the Special Rapporteur on the rights to freedom of peaceful assembly and of association and subsequently published A national advocacy workshop on the draft law on protecting women from violence was convened in

Planned results for 2027

Result 1: unified security institutions promoting progress on security sector reform and the implementation of the ceasefire agreement, contributing to reduced risks of renewed conflict through confidence-building and dialogue among security and military actors

Programme performance in 2025 and target for 2027

168. The Mission's work contributed to sustaining the ceasefire and promoting confidence among security actors but did not meet the planned 2025 target due to persistent political fragmentation, the absence of a unified executive authority, and renewed security tensions following the May 2025 clashes, which constrained progress on security sector reform and the reunification of security institutions. While security institutions remained divided following the escalation of violence in May 2025, the Mission's efforts in de-escalating tensions helped to contain the clashes and prevent a wider relapse into conflict.

169. In 2027, UNSMIL will continue to support the 5+5 Joint Military Commission to sustain the ceasefire agreement, including efforts related to the withdrawal of foreign forces, foreign fighters and mercenaries, while advancing conflict prevention and confidence-building measures that support security sector reform and create conditions conducive to the political process and the reunification of security institutions.

170. Progress towards the objective and the target for 2027 are presented in the performance measure below (see table 41).

				Cases related to serious violations by security actors are increasingly documented, investigated and referred, contributing to accountability and public trust

Result 2: a comprehensive road map for holding national elections, towards the establishment of unified, elected, legitimate, inclusive and functional government institutions contributing to political stability and reconciliation

Programme performance in 2025 and target for 2027

171. In 2025, UNSMIL delivered facilitation and good offices with key Libyan stakeholders to advance consensus on pathways towards elections and institutional unity. It established an advisory committee of Libyan experts to provide options to overcome electoral obstacles which later informed the launch of the structured dialogue in December 2025, aimed at addressing impediments to elections and underlying conflict drivers. In parallel, UNSMIL engaged political actors, including the House of Representatives and the High Council of State, on reconstituting the High National Elections Commission and finalizing the electoral legal framework.

172. In 2027, UNSMIL will pursue an integrated political approach to advance a viable electoral road map and institutional unity. It will consolidate outcomes of the structured dialogue to support consensus on the electoral political framework and continue good offices to bridge divisions and enable a unified government through elections. UNSMIL will continue to engage all parties on human rights and rule of law issues as an integral part of the Libyan-led and Libyan-owned political process. It will prioritize addressing arbitrary arrest and detention, the protection of civic space and civil society engagement as key enablers of the political and electoral processes.

173. Progress towards the objective and the target for 2027 are presented in the performance measure below (see table 42).

Constitutional and legal framework for elections is in place, with United Nations technical support, and assessed technically implementable by the High National Elections Commission. Politically contested issues remain outstanding Libyan institutional stakeholders moved closer to resolving politically contested issues through the Mission's elections-enabling initiative to advance consensus	leadership and advocacy "You Engage" strategy strengthened youth participation in governance Preparatory consultations were undertaken throughout the year and a stakeholder-driven political process was launched in December 2024, including a structured dialogue to consolidate consensus around a unified national vision for the future of the country	leadership initiatives and inclusive political dialogue mechanisms The UNSMIL strategic plan for Libyan women's participation in the structured dialogue led to the establishment of the Libyan Women's Caucus and the application of a minimum 35 per cent quota for women's participation Consultations with nearly 100 Libyan women informed a Libyan Women's Charter shaping the agenda and outcomes of the structured dialogue	Political road map and legal framework for the holding of national elections adopted	Women's safe participation in political and public life is strengthened through inclusive legal frameworks, representative institutions and sustained implementation of the women and peace and security agenda A transitional justice framework is adopted and initial implementation begins, contributing to reconciliation and the legitimacy of unified State institutions

Result 3: economic governance and political economy drivers of conflict are addressed in support of the political process

Proposed programme plan for 2027

174. In 2027, UNSMIL will advance the economic track as a core pillar of the political process, integrating political economy analysis into mediation, negotiations and good offices to ensure that economic considerations directly inform engagement with political and security actors. It aims to realign incentives in support of institutional unity, reduce obstruction to reforms and create conditions conducive to credible national elections.

Lessons learned and planned change

175. A key lesson is that impact depends on tighter integration of economic incentive analysis across political, security and economic tracks. Stand-alone or purely economic initiatives had a limited effect when not linked to political incentives, security arrangements or coordinated international engagement. In applying the lesson, UNSMIL will adopt a more integrated and targeted approach that prioritizes reducing economic drivers of conflict by working with sovereign State institutions to curb rent-seeking incentives, addressing sources of patronage and promoting transparent and accountable and rules-based economic decision-making consistent with human rights principles.

176. Progress towards the objective and the target for 2027 are presented in the performance measure below (see table 43).

Support continued for unification of the Central Bank of Libya, management of national deficits and access to foreign exchange in a manner that maintains currency value and steadies the price of vital commodities Economic reform efforts continued to make the Libyan economy more productive, efficient and transparent	Preparatory consultations conducted throughout the year and the resolution of the Central Bank of Libya leadership crisis in October 2024 created a conducive environment for this initiative United Nations-facilitated negotiations led to the resolution of the leadership crisis at the Central Bank of Libya in September 2024 and, after more than a decade, the Central Bank's Board of Directors was reinstated on 21 October	Structured economic dialogue was launched and brought together institutional stakeholders, academics and experts to advance recommendations on financial stabilization and medium- to long-term economic reform and build a shared national economic vision, marking progress towards predictable governance, stronger institutional integrity and improved conditions for broader reforms Technical facilitation contributed to an agreement on a framework to oversee 2026 development spending, culminating in the signing of the unified development programme by the House of Representatives and the High Council of State representatives	Economic and financial institutions have increased capacity to provide macroeconomic stability and enact economic reforms Agenda and plan for comprehensive economic reforms are developed to achieve good governance and sustainable economy development	Economic and financial institutions consolidate reforms that strengthen macroeconomic stability, fiscal oversight and institutional coordination, mitigating economic drivers of conflict and supporting the political process Consensus around a comprehensive economic reform agenda is advanced through technical engagement and political facilitation, supporting implementation of agreed governance and sustainability measures

178. The proposed resource requirements for 2027 for UNSMIL amount to $83,067,400 (net of staff assessment) and would provide for the deployment of 167 out of the 234 authorized United Nations Guard Unit personnel ($5,109,000), salaries and related costs ($48,557,700) for the deployment of 220 international posts and positions (1 Under-Secretary-General, 2 Assistant Secretary-General, 7 D-1, 12 P-5, 42 P-4, 29 P-3, 2 P-2 and 125 Field Service) and 121 national posts and positions (27 National Professional Officer, 1 General Service (Other level) and 93 Local level), 5 international United Nations Volunteers and 7 government-provided personnel, inclusive of the establishment of 10 new posts and the proposed conversion of 1 post; and operational costs ($29,400,700).

2. Staffing requirements

179. For 2027, the proposed staffing complement reflects a net increase of 10 posts and positions.

180. In its resolution 2796 (2025), the Security Council encouraged the Mission to implement the recommendations of the strategic review (S/2025/611), including the establishment of a more consistent presence across Libya through targeted expansions in Benghazi and Sabha while maintaining a cost-neutral realignment and within existing resources, as well as the establishment of a dedicated economic section within UNSMIL. The Council further requested UNSMIL, in implementing the recommendations of the strategic review, to explore all avenues to enhance efficiency and redeploy existing resources, including, as appropriate, through the prioritization and reconfiguration of tasks and resources.

181. In this context, the UNSMIL operational posture has been reassessed to ensure that leadership presence and staffing arrangements remain aligned with mandate delivery, prevailing security conditions and the evolving political context. The Libyan political process, reinvigorated through the political road map, requires a sustained presence across all regions of Libya. UNSMIL will operationalize this requirement through three mutually reinforcing directions:

(a) Refocusing workstreams around the political process, with emphasis on security arrangements, economic governance, human rights and reconciliation, including the establishment of a dedicated economic unit within UNSMIL to work closely with the United Nations country team, including through the Results Group on Sustainable Economic Development;

(b) Expanding field presence in eastern and southern Libya, specifically in Benghazi and Sabha, to ensure consistent engagement with national and local counterparts;

(c) Strengthening the convening role of UNSMIL to coordinate international support for the Libyan peace process. Cost-efficiency measures have been pursued through adjustments to the Mission's security posture while continuing to ensure the safety and security of personnel. These measures included a review of the footprint of the United Nations Guard Unit and close protection requirements in light of the current operational and security context. Savings generated through reductions in troop levels were redeployed to support the Mission's expanded presence in Benghazi and Sabha. In addition, efficiencies generated through the optimization of shared premises in Tunis and across Libya, including office and accommodation space, have contributed to funding the expanded footprint in eastern and southern Libya, in line with the recommendations of the strategic review. UNSMIL has recalibrated its resource posture to preserve essential capacities and ensure the continuity of critical political, human rights and ceasefire-related functions.

Expansion to Benghazi

182. The expansion to Benghazi will be accommodated through the establishment of one post (National Professional Officer), the conversion of one P-3 post to a National Professional Officer, the redeployment of eight posts (2 P-4, 1 P-3, 2 Field Service and 3 Local level) and the reassignment of one post (P-5), as follows:

(a) Establishment: it is proposed to establish one post of Assistant Public Information Officer (National Professional Officer) in the Public Information and Communication Section;

(b) Conversion: it is proposed to convert one post of Security Sector Reform Officer (P-3) to an Associate Security Sector Reform Officer (National Professional Officer);

(c) Redeployment: it is proposed to redeploy the following posts from Tripoli to Benghazi:

(i) One post of Political Affairs Officer (P-4) from the Political Affairs Service;

(ii) One post of Corrections Officer (P-4) and one post of Human Rights Officer (P-3) from the Human Rights, Rule of Law and Transitional Justice Service;

(iii) One post of Field Language Assistant (Local level) from the former Ceasefire Monitoring Component;

(iv) Two posts of Close Protection Officer (Field Service);

(v) Two posts of Field Security Assistant (Local level);

(d) Reassignment: it is proposed to reassign one post of Senior Security Sector Reform Officer (P-5) from the former Ceasefire Monitoring Component to serve as Head of Office, Political Affairs (P-5), Benghazi field office, under the Office of the Deputy Special Representative of the Secretary-General (Political).

Expansion to Sabha

183. The expansion of the Sabha field office will be accommodated through the establishment of 7 posts (1 Field Service, 4 National Professional Officer and 2 Local level) and the redeployment of 12 posts (1 P-4, 1 P-3, 5 Field Service and 5 Local level), as follows:

(a) Establishment: it is proposed to establish the following posts:

(i) One Assistant Public Information Officer (National Professional Officer);

(ii) One Associate Human Rights Officer (National Professional Officer);

(iii) One Associate Security Sector Reform Officer (National Professional Officer);

(iv) One Facilities Management Assistant (Field Service);

(v) One Medical Officer (National Professional Officer);

(vi) One Supply Assistant (Local level);

(vii) One Information Technology Assistant (Local level);

(b) Redeployment: it is proposed to redeploy the following posts to Sabha:

(i) One Electoral Officer (P-3);

(ii) One Military Liaison Officer (P-4);

(iii) One Close Protection Coordination Officer (Field Service);

(iv) Four Close Protection Officers (Field Service);

(v) Two Field Security Assistants (Local level);

(vi) Three Field Security Radio Operators (Local level).

Establishment of Ceasefire and Security Institutions Service

184. It is also proposed to establish a Ceasefire and Security Institutions Service as part of implementation of the strategic review recommendations. The revised structure reflects the merger of the former Ceasefire Monitoring Component and the Security Institutions Service, resulting in the consolidation of ceasefire-related functions alongside existing mandates on security sector reform and disarmament, demobilization and reintegration. The proposal entails the redeployment of staff from the former Security Institutions Service (1 D-1, 1 P-5, 3 P-4, 2 P-3, 1 Field Service and 1 National Professional Officer) and the Ceasefire Monitoring Component (2 P-4 and 2 P-3, inclusive of the 1 Military Liaison Officer (P-4) as mentioned in para. 183 (b) above), and the conversion of one Security Sector Reform Officer (P-3) to an Associate Security Sector Reform Officer (National Professional Officer), as mentioned in paragraph 182 (b) above. This consolidation is intended to enhance regional outreach, strengthen engagement with military and security actors and improve the integration of policy development with field-level implementation, while ensuring organizational efficiency and avoiding duplication.

Establishment of an Economic Unit

185. In response to the recommendation of the strategic review to enhance United Nations engagement on economic governance, institutional integrity and oversight by establishing and operationalizing an economic section, the Mission proposes to establish an Economic Unit, reporting to the Deputy Special Representative of the Secretary-General/Resident Coordinator. The Unit would be staffed through the establishment of: (a) one post of Senior Economic Affairs Officer (P-5), providing senior-level policy engagement and strategic direction; and (b) one post of Economic Affairs Officer (National Professional Officer), responsible for sustained liaison with Libyan institutions, contextual analysis and operational continuity.

Other proposed actions to improve coordination

Reassignment

Office of the Special Representative of the Secretary-General

186. It is proposed to reassign the Chief of Service, Ceasefire Monitoring Component (D-1) as the Principal Coordination Officer (D-1) in the Office of the Special Representative of the Secretary-General to provide senior-level coordination support to the Special Representative, with a particular focus on integration of political and security-related files and internal coherence across Mission components, and to serve as the technical lead of the Special Representative for political/security engagement with senior national and international leadership. The incumbent would therefore act as a strategic bridge between the Special Representative's political good offices and the Mission's security-related workstreams, helping to ensure that the Mission's efforts are sequenced, mutually reinforcing and responsive to emerging risks.

Mission Support Service

Reassignment of the Associate Aviation Safety Officer (National Professional Officer) as Associate Data Specialist (National Professional Officer) in Tripoli

187. It is proposed to reassign the Associate Aviation Safety Officer (National Professional Officer) as an Associate Data Specialist (National Professional Officer) in Tripoli to support the Mission's operational activities through the management and analysis of data to inform evidence-based planning and decision-making processes. The tasks of the Associate Data Specialist (National Professional Officer) will include the verification and management of operational data within the Mission's operational activities, the development of analytical products such as dashboards and mapping, the provision of statistical trend analysis in support of mandate implementation and data-driven decision-making processes, and operational coordination.

Redeployment

Office of the Special Representative of the Secretary-General

188. It is proposed to redeploy one Legal Officer (P-4) from the Office of the Chief of Staff to perform a critical role advising the Head of Mission on all legal aspects of the Mission's operations and its mandate. The Legal Officer would provide authoritative legal and policy advice on a diverse range of highly complex and novel substantive and procedural questions of law, which specifically include those related to administration and management, political and legal risks concerning the Mission's mandated activities and other operational matters, and on legal-related policy matters in the context of the role of the Special Representative of the Secretary-General as head of mission and designated official for Libya.

189. It is proposed to redeploy one Field Language Assistant (Local level) from the Ceasefire Monitoring Component and from Sirte to Tripoli to provide invaluable support for reviewing and assessing communication that is received in Arabic, undertaking administrative duties with Libyan and international stakeholders that engage with the Office in Arabic, and provide administrative and other support to senior staff, who will be engaging with Libyan interlocutors on a daily basis.

Office of the Deputy Special Representative of the Secretary-General (Political)

190. It is proposed to redeploy one Administrative Assistant (Field Service) from the Ceasefire Monitoring Component in Tunis to provide administrative, logistical and coordination support to the Office of the Deputy Special Representative of the Secretary-General (Political), including support to meetings, reporting processes and inter-component coordination. This adjustment enhances operational efficiency, strengthens support to senior leadership functions and improves coordination across political processes while maintaining essential administrative capacity in support of the Mission's mandate.

Office of the Chief of Staff

191. It is proposed to redeploy one Field Language Assistant (Local level) from the Ceasefire Monitoring Component and from Sirte to Tripoli to support the administrative and coordination work of the Office of the Chief of Staff with regard to Arabic language tasks, interpretation and translation needs and administrative arrangements for the provision of language assistance. The incumbent will also provide direct interpretation support to the Chief of Staff in the engagements with national, local and de facto authorities with regard to the expansion of the Mission's presence in the east and south of Libya that was recommended by the strategic review and mandated by the Security Council.

Continuation of general temporary assistance positions

Office of the Deputy Special Representative of the Secretary-General (Political)

192. The UNSMIL Mine Action Unit supports the delivery of the Mission's mine action mandate in line with Security Council resolution 2755 (2024) by providing technical expertise and support to the Libyan security institutions and the ceasefire mechanisms on mine action and weapons and ammunition management, and representing the Mission in relationship with relevant national mine action stakeholders and the United Nations country team. The temporary assistance position of Chief of Section, Programme Management (P-5) was established on 1 January 2022 in response to a recommendation from the Board of Auditors to improve Secretariat leadership of the UNSMIL mine action programme. Seven other temporary assistance positions were established under the UNSMIL mine action programme as from 1 January 2025 as part of the transition of mine action delivery, from implementation undertaken in partnership with UNOPS to direct Secretariat delivery. These positions include two Programme Management Officers (P-4), one Programme Management Officer (P-3), one Associate Programme Management Officer (National Professional Officer), one Associate Administrative Officer (National Professional Officer) and one Data Analysis Officer (National Professional Officer). Given the continuity of the UNSMIL mine action programme in 2027, it is proposed that the seven temporary positions be continued to advance the UNSMIL mine action objectives, as highlighted in the results of the strategic review, in the most effective, cost-efficient and transparent manner.

194. The increase in requirements for 2027 compared with the appropriation for 2026 is attributable primarily to increased requirements for civilian personnel costs, resulting from : (a) the application of the latest salary rates for international staff, National Professional Officers and Local level staff; (b) the application of lower vacancy rates of 9.1 cent for international staff and 7.6 per cent for national General Service staff, compared with the vacancy rates of 22.9 per cent and 26.1 per cent, respectively, applied in 2026; and (c) the proposed establishment of 10 posts (1 P-5, 1 Field Service, 6 National Professional Officer and 2 Local level). The increase is offset in part by: (a) the application of a higher vacancy rate of 17.1 per cent for National Professional Officers, compared with 15.0 per cent budgeted in 2026; and (b) reduced requirements under operational costs and military contingents.

195. Under operational costs, a net decrease in requirements of $4,014,900 is attributable primarily to the following changes:

(a) Facilities and infrastructure: the decrease in requirements of $3,943,600 is attributable primarily to reduced rental and maintenance costs for the Mission's premises in Tripoli following a renegotiation of terms in the renewal of the contract in 2025, as well as the cancellation of the construction of overhead protection after an additional assessment of the security environment by the Department of Safety and Security. The decrease is offset in part by the requirements for the acquisition of critical engineering and electrical equipment, as well as related spare parts and field defence supplies;

(b) Air operations: the decrease in requirements of $285,900 is attributable primarily to the reduction in flight hours, from 500 approved for 2026 to 411 proposed for 2027, based on an analysis of the utilization of the fixed-wing aircraft over the preceding three financial periods. The decrease is offset in part by increased guaranteed costs of the rental of the fixed-wing aircraft;

(c) Medical: the decrease in requirements of $96,800 is attributable primarily to the estimated lower number of medical evacuations, reflecting improved security conditions in the Mission area;

(d) Other supplies, services and equipment: the increase in requirements of $388,200 is attributable primarily to additional individual contractor capacity required for the establishment and sustainment of field offices in Sabha and Benghazi, as well as the expansion of the UNSMIL activities related to the organization of an additional mine action conference, in line with the recommendations of the strategic review.

196. The overall decrease of $1,500,000 under military and police personnel is attributable primarily to the adjusted reduced level of deployment of the United Nations Guard Unit from 234 to 167 personnel, as well as the utilization of commercial airlines for rotations. The decrease was offset in part by increased requirements for freight for the repatriation of explosive materials to troop-contributing countries.

4. Extrabudgetary resources

(a) Voluntary contributions

197. In 2026 and 2027, extrabudgetary resources in the amount of $469,700 each year are projected to be used to assist in the implementation of an inclusive multi-track intra-Libyan political dialogue process facilitated by UNSMIL, to unify institutions and take the country to elections, to support the UNSMIL structured dialogue, to operationalize a dedicated economic organizational unit in UNSMIL and to promote public engagement in the political process in Libya.

(b) Cost recovery

198. In 2026 and 2027, resources in the amount of $535,500 each year are estimated to be received from United Nations agencies, funds and programmes, as well as other entities, in exchange for services provided, including shared premises and the provision of security services across Libya. The estimate covers a wide range of services provided by the Mission, comprising air transportation, ground transportation, freight services, medical services, security and security-related training services, communications and information technology services, administrative support, accommodation and office space, personal protective equipment and the maintenance of vehicles and facilities.

7. United Nations Verification Mission in Colombia

($75,896,900)

A. Proposed programme plan for 2027 and programme performance in 2025

Overall orientation

Mandates and background

199. The United Nations Verification Mission in Colombia is mandated to verify three key aspects of the Final Agreement for Ending the Conflict and Building a Stable and Lasting Peace, adopted in 2016 by the Government of Colombia and the former Revolutionary Armed Forces of Colombia – People's Army (FARC-EP), comprising: (a) the reintegration of FARC-EP members into political, economic and social life (sect. 3.2 of the Agreement); (b) the implementation of personal and collective security and protection measures for ex-combatants, and comprehensive security and protection programmes for the communities and organizations in the territories (sect. 3.4 of the Agreement); and (c) the verification of the comprehensive rural reform (sect. 1 of the Agreement).

200. The Mission's mandate is defined in Security Council resolutions 2366 (2017) and 2673 (2023). By its resolution 2798 (2025), the Security Council decided to extend the mandate until 31 October 2026. The Council further decided to discontinue the expansion of the mandate of the Verification Mission in Colombia to monitor ceasefires as set out in resolution 2694 (2023) and its associated resources. The Council requested the Secretary-General to ensure coordination and efficiencies, including by ensuring that other activities in country are carried out by the most appropriate United Nations system entity.

201. Pursuant to resolution 2798 (2025), the Secretary-General, in his report dated 26 December 2025 (S/2025/849), stated that, as at 31 October 2025, the Mission had discontinued its verification activities pertaining to the ethnic chapter and the restorative sentences issued by the Special Jurisdiction for Peace, as well as the expired ceasefire between the Government of Colombia and the Ejército de Liberación Nacional (ELN).

Programme of work

Objective

202. The objective, to which the Mission contributes, is to advance the effective implementation of the provisions of the Final Agreement concerning reintegration, security guarantees and comprehensive rural reform.

Strategy and external factors for 2027

203. To contribute to the objective, the Mission will:

(a) Apply a proactive and inclusive approach to verification, which includes advocacy, good offices and close engagement with the parties to the Final Agreement and relevant institutions and authorities at the international, national, regional and local levels, as well as vulnerable communities, with special attention to women and children;

(b) Conduct independent verification of the implementation of the Final Agreement and participate, jointly with the parties, in key forums and institutions created for the implementation of the Final Agreement;

(c) Promote constructive dialogue and trust-building between the Government and the representatives of the former FARC-EP as the other signatory party of the Agreement to address pending issues relating to peace implementation, and foster collaborative communication with key interlocutors, including actors across the political spectrum, civil society and communities at risk (such as women, Indigenous and Afro-Colombian Peoples, and victims' organizations), the private sector and the international community, to support the implementation of the Final Agreement;

(d) Support the effective implementation of the women and peace and security agenda at the national and territorial levels to advance sustainable peace;

(e) Provide good offices to support the implementation of the Final Agreement, monitor evolving conflict dynamics at the local level between armed groups, and help to build and sustain peace in Colombia.

204. The above-mentioned work is expected to result in:

(a) Increased trust between the parties to the Final Agreement; sustainability of the reintegration process; opportunities for political participation; strengthened accountability and national efforts to foster security guarantees for former combatants, social leaders and communities; and enhanced safe and productive land access and progress in the implementation of development plans with a territorial focus, with the active participation of local communities, for advances in the implementation of the comprehensive rural reform;

(b) Enhanced State capacity, presence and responsiveness to promote collective and territorial protection approaches and better prevent and investigate attacks against former combatants, social leaders and communities; and increased trust between the parties through tripartite coordination mechanisms at the national and local levels, while accounting for specific needs of communities at risk;

(c) Enhanced coordination between government institutions, communities in situations of vulnerability and women-led organizations; and increased engagement of the international community, including the United Nations system;

(d) Increased trust in the peace consolidation efforts, and progress in the comprehensive implementation of the Final Agreement to advance reconciliation, non-repetition and sustainable peace, contributing to a reduction in violence and improvements in the humanitarian situation in conflict-affected regions.

205. With regard to cooperation with other entities at the global, regional, national and local levels, the Mission engages extensively, building on synergies with other entities to support mandate implementation and peace consolidation in Colombia. Extensive engagement with the diplomatic community and regional organizations help to identify areas of mutual interest. At the national and local levels, the Mission strengthens ties with political, civil society and private sector actors, including community, religious, youth, women, peasant leaders, victims and persons with disabilities' organizations. The Mission continues to bolster its relationships with Colombian departmental and local authorities as they gain more responsibilities regarding the reintegration process, ensuring security guarantees for communities and supporting society's participation in peacebuilding.

206. With regard to inter-agency coordination and liaison, the Mission strengthened its coordination with the United Nations country team and the Resident Coordinator. The Mission also remains a member of the strategic committee of the United Nations multi-partner trust fund for sustaining peace in Colombia, thereby contributing to coherence across the peace and security and development pillars.

207. With regard to the external factors, the overall plan for 2027 is based on the following planning assumptions:

(a) Continued international support for the close engagement of the Mission and the United Nations system in the peace process, and continued commitment by national and local authorities and relevant parties to collaborating with the Mission;

(b) The new governmental and legislative configuration emerging from the 2026 general elections will significantly influence the Mission's work and the implementation of the Final Agreement;

(c) National and local authorities remain engaged in increasing effective State presence; and authorities, State entities and coordination mechanisms tasked with preventing and investigating security incidents remain committed to the prioritized populations in the Final Agreement;

(d) Continued trust in the peace process and the comprehensive implementation of the Final Agreement, enabling advancements towards reconciliation and non-repetition, including for vulnerable communities, women and children;

(e) Continued efforts to advance the comprehensive rural reform with appropriate resource allocation and increased inter-institutional coordination.

208. The Mission integrates a gender perspective into its operational activities, deliverables and results, as appropriate, and ensures effective implementation of its gender parity directives and strategy. It also applies gender and intersectional analysis in verifying its core mandate, supporting effective referral pathways to responsible institutions for cases of gender-based and conflict-related sexual violence and – for the latter – contributing to improved reporting. The Mission provides support to the national action plan on Security Council resolution 1325 (2000) adopted in 2024, which is expected to strengthen the implementation of the gender provisions of the Final Agreement and reinforce the full, equal and meaningful participation of women in peacebuilding.

Adjustments arising from the UN80 Initiative

209. The proposed programme plan for 2027 reflects changes arising from the UN80 Initiative. In particular, the table of deliverables reflects updated planned deliverables for 2026, in line with the approved programme budget for 2026.

Programme performance in 2025

Sustained national and community commitment to the implementation of the Final Agreement as the path to lasting peace

210. In 2025, Colombian institutions, former combatants and communities, as well as international partners, reaffirmed their commitment to the Final Agreement as the country's road map to lasting peace. The Mission operated under tight financial constraints, closing nine local offices amid renewed violent clashes, politically motivated violence and uneven progress in peace dialogues, all of which significantly impacted the environment conducive to the implementation of the Final Agreement. In this context, the Mission's monitoring and verification of the Final Agreement remained instrumental in sustaining peace dividends and confidence in the process. Through technical advice, advocacy, engagement and good offices efforts, the Mission supported key peacebuilding achievements in advancing processes for economic reintegration and land acquisition, contributing to preventing former combatants' return to violence.

211. Prior to the mandate renewal in October 2025, the Mission continued its engagement with relevant entities, including through its participation in the Monitoring and Verification Mechanism and by enhancing information-sharing mechanisms across the transitional justice system. These efforts contributed to the operationalization of the Mechanism and helped to reinforce coordination among institutions responsible for implementing transitional justice measures.

212. The mandate pertaining to the monitoring of restorative sentences has been discontinued, after which all related verification activities have ceased.

213. Progress towards the objective is presented in the performance measure below (see table 50).

Table 50
Performance measure

Land ownership formalized for 14 of the 24 territorial areas for training and reintegration A cumulative total of 20 peasant reserve zones approved under the rural reform commitments of the Final Agreement	Land delivered to rural reform beneficiaries, including ethnic peoples, reached over half of the Final Agreement's goal A cumulative total of 28 peasant reserve zones approved under the rural reform commitments of the Final Agreement 85 per cent of accredited former combatants remained committed to the reintegration process Government support for productive projects reached nearly all active participants in the reintegration process Land secured for 19 of the 24 territorial areas for training and reintegration for former combatants Progress made on the State capacity to ensure the conditions necessary for the effective implementation of restorative sentences issued by the Special Jurisdiction for Peace The Monitoring and Verification Mechanism, with the Special Jurisdiction for Peace, became operational and provided relevant information for verification purposes

Planned results for 2027

Result 1: strengthened security conditions for communities in conflict-affected areas through advances in the implementation of the Final Agreement

Programme performance in 2025 and target for 2027

214. In 2025, the Mission contributed to the adoption of key public policies and helped to strengthen coordination mechanisms in view of consolidating institutional frameworks for prevention and protection measures benefiting former combatants, social leaders and communities. Given the evolving security situation in Colombia, the Mission continued its analysis of conflict dynamics across the country.

215. In 2027, the Mission will continue to advocate for advances in the institutional architecture and government responses to strengthen effective security guarantees. The Mission will encourage coherent approaches between prevention, protection and actions to dismantle illegal organizations, aimed at improving security conditions in conflict-affected areas.

216. Progress towards the objective and the target for 2027 are presented in the performance measure below (see table 51).

Table 51
Performance measure

Result 2: consolidated, comprehensive and sustainable reintegration process for former combatants' transition to civilian life

Programme performance in 2025 and target for 2027

217. In 2025, the Mission contributed to strengthening public policies on reintegration, supported and accompanied efforts on land delivery for groups of former combatants and promoted their economic sustainability. The Mission also engaged with relevant stakeholders to ensure judicial guarantees for former combatants.

218. In 2027, the Mission will continue to engage with relevant counterparts to advance the institutional framework and public policies for reintegration, ensuring the meaningful participation of former combatants. It will further encourage actions towards the sustainability of livelihood projects, access to employment and social services and access to land and housing for the consolidation of the reintegration process of former combatants.

219. Progress towards the objective and the target for 2027 are presented in the performance measure below (see table 52).

Result 3: strengthened foundations for the implementation of the comprehensive rural reform to rural communities

Proposed programme plan for 2027

220. In 2027, the Mission will support the advancement of a comprehensive rural reform, including land access and formalization by the Government, as well as the delivery of peace dividends to rural communities through territorial development projects. These efforts are key to bridging the gaps between rural and urban communities and lay the foundations for sustainable peace.

Lessons learned and planned change

221. The lesson for the Mission was that consistent and reliable land-related data would significantly enhance its ability to verify implementation of the comprehensive rural reform. Therefore, the Mission partially automated its data collection tool for precision and consistency of its verification inputs, enabling improved analytical quality to its work. In applying this new tool, the Mission will enhance its verification capacities for the effective verification and monitoring of the implementation of comprehensive rural reform.

222. Progress towards the objective and the target for 2027 are presented in the performance measure below (see table 53).

Table 53

2023 (actual)	2024 (actual)	2025 (actual)	2026 (planned)	2027 (planned)
Verified land delivery to peasants, as well as formalization of the acquisition and transfer of tenure Progress made in the planning of the development programme with a territorial focus for a comprehensive and high-impact approach, with civil society participation	Significant progress on land tenure formalization, reaching 5.7 per cent, and land adjudication, at 43.8 per cent Consultation and prioritization phase of the 16 development programmes with a territorial focus finalized, along with progress in designing a funding plan for strategic projects and territorial pacts	Implementation of development programmes with a territorial focus Increased delivery of land to rural reform beneficiaries, including ensuring means to land productivity	Progress in the implementation of development programmes with a territorial focus Increased delivery of land to rural reform beneficiaries	Strengthened legal and institutional framework for the implementation of rural reform. Increased delivery of land to rural reform beneficiaries, including women and ethnic peoples Increased land productivity through access to goods and services Progress in the implementation of development programme with a territorial focus

C. Substantive deliverables

Good offices: engagement with the parties to advance implementation of the Final Agreement, including gender provisions; advocacy for increased dialogue among relevant stakeholders, including national authorities and key candidates to 2027 regional and local elections; visits from international partners to reintegration areas where former combatants are developing productive projects and community-based initiatives; advancement of the comprehensive rural reform and strengthened security guarantees in conflict-affected territories to support victims' rights for reparations; implementation of the women and peace and security agenda as part of the implementation of the Final Agreement, including advancing the meaningful and inclusive participation of women, youth and society as a whole; and bolstered dialogue between armed groups to advance broader peace efforts and enable humanitarian action.

Consultation, advice and advocacy: mitigated challenges for the increased political participation of former combatants, the comprehensive and sustainable reintegration of former combatants, and the improvement of security and protection measures and conditions for former combatant communities; advice and support to advance implementation of the comprehensive rural reform; advanced implementation of the gender provisions of the Final Agreement, including support for government counterparts and regular consultation with women's organizations and organizations of former combatants; and implementation of the national action plan regarding Security Council resolution 1325 (2000) on women and peace and security. These efforts take into account institutional, normative and budgetary challenges, and the disproportionate impact of the conflict on all vulnerable communities, women, children and marginalized communities.

Databases and substantive digital materials: aligned with implementation of United Nations 2.0, development of innovative solutions leveraging artificial intelligence; consolidated regional reporting system; platform and methodology for verification of the comprehensive rural reform; tools for verification of socioeconomic reintegration and establishment in the local community; data quality improvements in the Event Capture App (ECAP) platform; gender mainstreaming in databases and digital material ensured; and tripartite database of transit to legality of former FARC-EP combatants.

D. Communication deliverables
Outreach programmes, special events and information materials: strengthening of the Mission's public image and public support to the Final Agreement and peacebuilding processes through information materials and activities, awareness campaigns and participation in public events, among other things, to highlight progress in the Mission's mandate and its role in sustaining peace.
External and media relations: partnerships with radio and television networks, in local and national media; production of at least 35 multimedia pieces (written articles and multimedia material) about the implementation of the Final Agreement; hosting of regular media briefings with key media partners; at least nine media field visits; monitoring of media coverage; and preparation of media briefing products to boost the knowledge about the Mission's work in support of the Colombian peace process.
Digital platforms and multimedia content: social media channels and United Nations information platforms to create and disseminate information on the Mission's mandate; and implementation of strategies to address misinformation, disinformation and hate speech for early warning and response, including through workshops on the United Nations Strategy and Plan of Action on Hate Speech.

[a] Excludes 1 P-5 post to be abolished as from 1 July 2026 as part of the implementation of the UN80 Initiative.

224. The proposed resource requirements for 2027 for the United Nations Verification Mission in Colombia amount to $75,896,900 (net of staff assessment) and would provide for civilian personnel costs ($45,506,900), consisting of salaries and common staff costs for the deployment of 459 posts and positions (1 Under-Secretary-General, 1 Assistant Secretary-General, 4 D-1, 23 P-5, 36 P-4, 52 P-3, 45 Field Service, 95 National Professional Officer, 1 national General Service staff, 81 Local level and 120 United Nations Volunteers); the cost of 120 military observers ($4,228,600); and operational costs in the amount of $26,161,400.

2. Staffing requirements

225. For 2027, the proposed staffing complement reflects the following changes, as detailed in table 57 above and table 58 below.

Realignment of the proposed Verification Division

226. Following a comprehensive assessment conducted under the UN80 Initiative and in line with Security Council resolution 2798 (2025), the Mission proposes a streamlined organizational structure aimed at enhancing efficiency, coherence and the effective delivery of its mandate. The proposed structure is organized around the Mission's three core mandated areas: reintegration, rural reform and security guarantees.

227. To strengthen strategic oversight, coordination and consistency across these areas, it is proposed that a Verification Division be established, reporting to the Office of the Special Representative of the Secretary-General, to provide integrated direction and guidance through three functionally distinct sections: (a) the Verification of Reintegration Section; (b) the Verification of Rural Reform Section; and (c) the Verification of Security Guarantees Section. The Verification Division will also oversee the regional offices, sub-offices and local sites.

228. This realignment clarifies functional accountability, strengthens coordination across mandate pillars and supports a more streamlined and efficient management framework through the rationalization of senior-level functions.

229. Within this framework, the existing Verification of Reintegration and Rural Reform Office will be realigned to establish two distinct sections: (a) the Verification of Reintegration Section, staffed through six existing posts (1 P-5, 1 P-4, 1 P-3 and 3 National Professional Officer); and (b) the Verification of Rural Reform Section, staffed through five existing posts (1 P-5, 1 P-4, 1 P-3 and 2 National Professional Officer). This realignment, through the redeployment of existing posts, responds to the increased scope, technical complexity and differentiated operational demands of the rural reform mandate and enables enhanced thematic focus, specialization and accountability.

230. The Verification of Security Guarantees Office will be redesignated as the Verification of Security Guarantees Section to ensure consistency of organizational structure and nomenclature across the Mission. The Section will continue to be staffed through five existing posts (1 P-5, 1 P-4, 1 P-3 and 2 National Professional Officer), thereby maintaining operational continuity while supporting coherence within the Verification Division.

231. The proposed Verification Division will be staffed entirely through internal realignment and the redeployment of existing posts, based on the efficient use of resources and the preservation of institutional expertise. This approach ensures continuity of operations while improving functional alignment and effectiveness. Accordingly, the following post actions are proposed:

(a) Abolishment: it is proposed to abolish one post of Chief, Verification of Security Guarantees Office (D-1) as part of the streamlining of senior leadership positions;

(b) Redeployment: it is proposed to redeploy: (i) six posts (1 P-5, 1 P-4, 1 P-3 and 3 National Professional Officer) from the former Verification of Reintegration and Rural Reform Office to the Verification of Reintegration Section; (ii) five posts (1 P-5, 1 P-4, 1 P-3 and 2 National Professional Officer) from the former Verification of Reintegration and Rural Reform Office to the Verification of Rural Reform Section; and (iii) five posts, comprising two posts (1 D-1 and 1 Local level) from the former Verification of Reintegration and Rural Reform Office, two posts (1 P-3 and 1 Local level) from the former Verification of Security Guarantees Office, and one post (1 National Professional Officer) from the Office of Chief of Staff, to the Front Office of the Verification Division;

(c) Reassignment: it is proposed to reassign one post of Special Assistant, Political Affairs (P-4) from the Office of the Deputy Special Representative of the Secretary-General as Liaison Officer (P-4) in the Front Office of the Verification Division;

(d) Realignment: it is proposed to realign the regional offices, sub-offices and local sites from the Office of the Deputy Special Representative of the Secretary-General to the Verification Division to reinforce organizational coherence.

Other proposed actions to improve coordination

232. Other proposed actions to further enhance efficiency, coordination and alignment of support functions with operational requirements are outlined below.

Realignment

Office of the Chief of Staff

233. For 2027, the Mission proposes the realignment of the Information Management Unit from the Office of the Deputy Special Representative of the Secretary-General to the Office of the Chief of Staff. This realignment is intended to streamline business processes, strengthen Mission-wide coordination of information management functions and advance the implementation of a coherent data and knowledge-management strategy across the Mission, consistent with the objectives of the Pact for the Future.

Establishment

Supply Chain Management Section

234. The Mission proposes the establishment of one post of Administrative Assistant (Local level) to support the Supply Chain Management Section. The proposed post would strengthen administrative and coordination capacity in support of critical operational and governance functions, including procurement, logistics coordination, property management, movement control, performance monitoring and integrated supply chain planning, thereby improving the resilience of supply chain operations.

Conversion

Office of the Chief of Mission Support

235. The Mission proposes the conversion of one post of Administrative Officer (P-3) to Administrative Officer (National Professional Officer). The proposed conversion is intended to promote national capacity-building and enhance operational efficiency and strengthen the effectiveness of engagement at the national level.

Operations and Resources Management Section

236. The Mission proposes the conversion of one post of Associate Training Officer (P-2) to Training Officer (National Professional Officer). The proposed conversion is aimed at promoting national capacity-building and strengthening operational effectiveness.

Redeployment

Operations and Resources Management Section

237. The Mission proposes the redeployment of two posts of Travel Assistant (Field Service and Local level) from the Human Resources Unit to the Office of the Chief of the Operations and Resources Management Section to streamline the operational functioning of the Travel Team and improve coordination and responsiveness.

239. The increase in requirements for 2027 compared with the appropriation for 2026 is attributable primarily to higher requirements under civilian personnel costs owing to the application of lower vacancy rates of 17.5 per cent for international staff, 18.3 per cent for National Professional Officers and 14.8 per cent for national General Service staff, compared with 18.8 per cent, 30.1 per cent and 28.1 per cent, respectively, applied in 2026, together with updated salary scales and higher estimates for common staff costs for national staff based on actual past expenditures. The increase is further attributable to higher requirements under military observers resulting from increases in mission subsistence allowance rates (higher daily rates of $141 for the “first 30 days” and $96 for “after 30 days”, effective 1 January 2026, compared with the rate of $121 and $94, respectively, applied in the 2026 budget). These increases are offset in part by a decrease in operational costs, as detailed below.

240. A net decrease in requirements of $1,000,400 under operational costs is attributable primarily to the following changes:

(a) Air operations: the decrease in requirements of $3,883,800 is attributable primarily to the discontinuation of rental and operations of the fixed-wing aircraft and the reduction of one rotary-wing aircraft, reflecting conscious efforts to seek efficiency by consolidating aviation requirements, resulting in a reduction in the size of the fleet from four aircraft to two;

(b) Communications and information technology: the decrease in requirements of $660,000 is attributable primarily to reduced requirements for the maintenance of communications and information technology equipment and support services, owing to lower communication carrier and connectivity costs, as well as reduced centralized services costs, resulting from efficiency measures taken since 2025 that included the lower staffing levels and the closure of 10 subregional offices. The decrease is offset in part by increased requirements for software licences and fees, owing to higher contractual costs;

(c) Marine operations: the decrease in requirements of $121,700 is attributable primarily to a reduction in riverine activities following the closure of three subregional offices that relied on riverine vessels for transportation to locations not accessible by land;

(d) Consultants: the decrease in requirements of $26,000 is attributable primarily to efforts to reduce the use of external expertise through greater reliance on in-house capacity;

(e) Facilities and infrastructure: The increase in requirements of $2,213,300 is attributable primarily to: (i) increased requirements for maintenance services owing to higher labour and service contract rates, reflecting latest local wage levels and currency appreciation; (ii) higher utilities and waste disposal costs, reflecting increases in local prices for electricity, water and other municipal services; (iii) the application of updated contractual prices for the rental of premises and related services; and (iv) additional requirements for facility improvements and modifications to ensure compliance with minimum security standards, as recommended by the Department of Safety and Security;

(f) Ground transportation: the increase in requirements of $702,700 is attributable primarily to: (i) a non-recurrent provision for the acquisition of three armoured vehicles, not available through the United Nations fleet, as a more cost-effective option than rental when evaluated across a multi-year period; (ii) increased requirements for repairs and maintenance services owing to higher labour and service contract rates following local wage adjustments; and (iii) the application of updated contractual prices for the rental of vehicles;

(g) Other supplies, services and equipment: the increase in requirements of $788,100 is attributable mainly to: (i) higher estimates for individual contractors to perform support and administrative functions, including drivers, transport and warehouse assistants and personnel engaged in data collection and analysis, owing to higher labour and service contract rates; (ii) increased requirements for other services, resulting from a higher number of essential meetings to maintain engagement with stakeholders and beneficiaries following the reduced mission footprint in certain locations; and (iii) the freight costs associated with the planned acquisition of three vehicles.

8. United Nations Integrated Office in Haiti

($31,614,900)

A. Proposed programme plan for 2027 and programme performance in 2025

Overall orientation

Mandates and background

241. The United Nations Integrated Office in Haiti (BINUH) performs a good offices and coordinating role, including in support of the constitutional and political process in Haiti, the promotion of accountability and respect for human rights as well as the rule of law. The mandate derives from Security Council resolution 2814 (2026), by which the Council revised and extended the mandate of the mission until 31 January 2027.

242. In its resolution 2814 (2026), the Security Council revised the mandate of BINUH to focus on: (a) supporting the Haitian authorities on their efforts to organize and hold municipal, parliamentary and presidential elections and achieve a peaceful transfer of power to elected Haitian officials; (b) coordinating international electoral assistance to Haiti in cooperation with other regional and international stakeholders; (c) supporting Haitian authorities in efforts to reduce community violence and assisting in the design of a Haitian-led disarmament, dismantlement and reintegration programme; (d) supporting Haitian authorities in addressing prolonged pretrial detention and providing support to the Haitian judiciary in the monitoring of the functioning of the courts and for its handling of high-risk individuals; and (e) monitoring and reporting on cases of gang violence, criminal activities and human rights abuses and violations, including sexual violence, as well as assisting national authorities in strengthening respect for human rights.

Programme of work

Objective

243. The objective, to which the mission contributes, is to strengthen political stability and good governance, including accountability and the rule of law; restore a peaceful and stable environment; protect and promote human rights; and strengthen gender equality in Haiti.

Strategy and external factors for 2027

244. To contribute to the objective, BINUH will:

(a) Support the national authorities to advance and facilitate a Haitian-led, Haitian-owned political process aimed at reaching an urgent agreement on a road map for a peaceful handover of power following elections;

(b) Support the Haitian authorities in efforts to reduce community violence and assist in the design of a Haitian-led disarmament, dismantlement and reintegration programme, including support for safe exit, voluntary disengagement, rehabilitation and reintegration pathways for individuals, particularly children, associated with gangs, and the implementation of a handover protocol to ensure clear referral pathways to safely transfer children to child protection services;

(c) Assist Haitian authorities in addressing prolonged pretrial detention through support to relevant Haitian institutions, and support the Haitian judiciary in its regular monitoring of the functioning of the courts, providing support for its handling of high-risk individuals;

(d) Monitor and report on cases of gang violence, criminal activities and human rights abuses and violations, including sexual violence against all women, girls, men and boys, address sexual violence and assist national authorities in strengthening respect for human rights;

(e) Cooperate with the Security Council Committee established pursuant to resolution 2653 (2022) concerning Haiti and its Panel of Experts in order to facilitate the Panel's work, and collaborate to assist the Haitian authorities, including the Anti-Corruption Unit, in raising awareness of the reporting mechanism for the potential violations of sanctions, and urging implementation of the territorial arms embargo.

245. The above-mentioned work is expected to result in:

(a) Peaceful transfer of power, with the installation of all elected officials and appointment of the Cabinet of Ministers expected in 2027 following general elections currently scheduled for 2026;

(b) The operationalization of a Haitian-led disarmament, dismantlement and reintegration programme in line with international standards;

(c) The establishment of safe exit, voluntary disengagement, rehabilitation and reintegration pathways for individuals, particularly children, associated with gangs, in line with the handover protocol ensuring clear referral pathways to safely transfer children to child protection services;

(d) A reduction in pretrial detention and effective handling of high-risk individuals by the Government;

(e) Improved protection responses, strengthened advocacy and increased national capacities to uphold and promote human rights, especially for women, girls, men and boys who are victims of sexual violence.

246. With regard to cooperation with other entities, BINUH collaborates with the Organization of American States, the Caribbean Community, the European Union, the Gang Suppression Force and international and national non-governmental organizations in Haiti. The mission also engages closely with the diplomatic community, as appropriate.

247. With regard to inter-agency coordination and liaison, BINUH works in an integrated manner with the United Nations country team under the umbrella of the United Nations Sustainable Development Cooperation Framework for the period 2023–2027 and is supported by and coordinates with the United Nations Support Office in Haiti (UNSOH). BINUH also supports the in-country requirements of the Panel of Experts on Haiti.

248. With regard to the external factors, the overall plan for 2027 is based on the following planning assumptions:

(a) Political polarization is reduced as progress is made in the implementation of the political transition and towards the holding of elections, thereby strengthening the ability of national authorities to build the political consensus required to advance political, legal and judicial reforms;

(b) The establishment and manning of the Gang Suppression Force, supported by UNSOH, significantly improves the security situation, positively affecting both the pace and sustainability of the political process.

249. The mission integrates a gender perspective into its planning, operations, deliverables and results, as appropriate, and encourages the meaningful participation of women in political processes, dialogues and negotiations, as well as their representation in decision-making positions. In addition, the mission continues to work with civil society actors focusing on gender and human rights in the context of the implementation of recommendations issued by the Committee on the Elimination of Discrimination against Women in 2016 and the second universal periodic review cycle for Haiti on the human rights situation.

Adjustments arising from the UN80 Initiative

250. The proposed programme plan for 2027 reflects changes arising from the UN80 Initiative. In particular, the table of deliverables reflects updated planned deliverables for 2026, in line with the approved programme budget for 2026.

Programme performance in 2025

National police authorities improved police performance and enhanced security in Haiti

251. In 2025, BINUH provided daily strategic and operational advice to the Haitian National Police and the Directorate of Prison Administration on critical policing matters, including anti-gang and anti-kidnapping operations, intelligence, election security, judicial police, criminal investigations, weapons and ammunition management, gender equality, the legal framework, and police integrity and oversight. Additional support was provided to the Command, Control, Communication and Intelligence Centre in the Directorate of Strategic Planning and Development for the preparation of the next Haitian National Police strategic development plan, a fundamental planning and operational guide which directs the development targets for the Haitian National Police on a five-year horizon, accompanied by diagnostic forums and meetings with the participation of the Haitian National Police and international partners, as the first step towards formulating the new strategic plan.

252. Progress towards the objective is presented in the performance measure below (see table 60).

Performance measure

2023 (actual)	2024 (actual)	2025 (actual)
Disruptions in governance due to a political crisis and a lack of responsive, inclusive, participatory and representative decision-making	Basket fund received $25.5 million from donors, and adjustments were devised and implemented to optimally align with Haitian National Police priorities	10 per cent increase in the number and frequency of mobile police patrols in the West and South Departments compared to baseline levels; 180 senior police officers were trained in specialized competencies and over 600 front-line police officers in the West and South Departments were fully equipped with protective equipment and duty materials

Planned results for 2027

Result 1: general elections held and elected officials installed following a transparent adjudication of electoral contentions

Programme performance in 2025 and target for 2027

253. In 2025, the mission supported and undertook advocacy, outreach, dialogue facilitation, technical advice and good offices actions to advance the political and electoral processes, sustaining and supporting the complex political process in Haiti. The fragmentation of the political and social landscape, with more than 300 political parties officially registered, required BINUH to facilitate consultations in Port-au-Prince and Cap-Haïtien, which brought together civil society organizations, political parties and private sector representatives, including the participation of women and youth.

254. BINUH provided advice and guidance to the Haitian Provisional Electoral Council, specifically on the electoral legal framework and inclusion of women in the electoral process. BINUH coordinated the efforts of the United Nations and international partners to ensure a coherent and well-coordinated approach recommended by the 2024 needs assessment mission.

255. Expected progress towards the objective is presented in the performance measure below (see table 61).

Table 61

2023 (actual)	2024 (actual)	2025 (actual)	2026 (planned)	2027 (planned)
–	Establishment of a new Provisional Electoral Council	Reactivation of the Provisional Electoral Council across 10 departments and 145 municipalities	Holding of general elections under the existing 1987 Constitution with constitutional reform referendum questions in the first round	Peaceful handover of power to a newly elected President and installation of elected officials

Result 2: adoption by the Government of a Haitian-led disarmament, demobilization and reintegration programme, including disengagement, rehabilitation and reintegration pathways for individuals, particularly children, formerly associated with gangs; reduction in prolonged pretrial detention rates; and adequate handling of high-risk individuals associated with gangs falling outside of disarmament, demobilization and reintegration pathways

Proposed programme plan for 2027

256. In 2027, the mission will support Haitian authorities in the design of a Haitian-led disarmament, dismantlement and reintegration programme, including support for safe exit, voluntary disengagement, rehabilitation and reintegration pathways for individuals, particularly children, associated with gangs, in line with the handover protocol signed between the Government of Haiti and the United Nations to ensure clear referral pathways to safely transfer children to child protection services.

257. In parallel, BINUH will also assist Haitian authorities in addressing prolonged pretrial detention through support to relevant Haitian institutions, monitoring the courts, and supporting their handling of high-risk individuals.

Lessons learned and planned change

258. A key lesson learned from the severe security conditions in 2025, which required the evacuation of most international staff and significantly constrained operational capacity, is the need for greater operational flexibility. In applying this lesson, BINUH has designed operations to be more flexible, with strengthened business continuity arrangements, clear prioritization of core activities, realistic delivery modalities and enhanced coordination with the United Nations country team and partners to sustain engagement where possible.

259. Expected progress towards the objective is presented in the performance measure below (see table 62).

C. Substantive deliverables

Good offices: good offices to: (a) coordinate international electoral assistance to Haiti in cooperation with other regional and international stakeholders; (b) foster cooperation and dialogue among the main political and social actors, build consensus and strengthen political stability and good governance; (c) support the efforts of national authorities and international partners to facilitate local peace initiatives, reduce gang and community violence and advance a peaceful and stable environment; and (d) raise awareness of human rights abuses and violations, sexual and gender-based violence and gender discrimination, and strengthen institutional accountability to address these problems and end impunity for perpetrators.

Category and subcategory	2025 planned	2025 actual	2026 planned[a]	2027 planned

Consultation, advice and advocacy: development of initiatives that promote dialogue and consensus-building; advice on the development of effective, accountable and transparent institutions and support for political, legal and economic reforms; development of the institutional framework and the electoral calendar; provision to the Directorate of Prison Administration of expert advice to strengthen the capacity and oversight of the corrections service; advice to State institutions and agencies on the implementation of action plans to promote and protect human rights and gender equality; and advice on the development of a regulatory arms control framework, including the effective implementation of a holistic weapons and ammunition inter-institutional mechanism.

D. Communication deliverables

Outreach programmes, special events and information materials: field outreach and advocacy materials (brochures, flyers, flipcharts, infographics and banners) explaining thematic objectives in the mission's mandate; outreach events on key priorities of the mission; and traditional and digital media campaigns, inclusive of print, radio and social platforms, to support United Nations electoral, disarmament, demobilization and reintegration/community violence reduction, justice and human rights initiatives and joint programmes.

External and media relations: strategic plan to ensure coverage of key activities of the mission, inclusive of press conferences, editorials on key issues, press briefings, press releases, targeted interviews and publications with target audiences and networks; and daily media and social platform monitoring providing strategic analysis of media and social platform trends, risks and opportunities to provide guidance for crisis communication management.

Digital platforms and multimedia content: creation and management of website and social media; production and dissemination of content for multimedia products and campaigns (with a focus on digital radio) to engage key actors on mission priorities and promote transparency and accountability; and campaigns and products for social media platforms showing the impact of the mission's work.

[a] Excludes two Local level posts deployed to the Kuwait Joint Support Office to be abolished effective 1 July 2026.

261. The proposed resource requirements for 2027 for BINUH amount to $31,614,900 (net of staff assessment) and would provide for the deployment of five United Nations police officers ($307,200), salaries and related costs ($20,611,500) for the deployment of 69 international posts and positions (1 Under-Secretary-General, 1 D-2, 4 D-1, 9 P-5, 16 P-4, 4 P-3 and 34 Field Service), 32 national posts and positions (19 National Professional Officer, 1 General Service (Other level) and 12 Local level) and 10 government-provided personnel, inclusive of the establishment of 11 new civilian positions, comprising 4 general temporary assistance and 7 government-provided personnel positions; and operational costs ($10,696,200).

2. Staffing requirements

262. For 2027, the proposed staffing changes for BINUH were developed following the adoption of Security Council resolutions 2793 (2025) and 2814 (2026), in which the Council reviewed the mandate of the Office and the operational framework, as further detailed in table 66 above and table 67 below.

Mission support services provided by UNSOH

263. In line with the provisions of paragraph 10 (e) of resolution 2793 (2025), the Office proposed the abolishment of the Mission Support Service and related posts, with the exception of seven posts identified for reassignment, following the assumption by UNSOH of responsibility for the delivery of the standard range of mission support services to BINUH, effective 1 February 2026, on a cost-recovery basis in support of mandate implementation. As a result, it is proposed that 38 support posts and positions (1 D-1, 4 P-3, 2 P-2, 8 Field Service, 1 National Professional Officer, 21 Local level and 1 United Nations Volunteer) be abolished and that 7 posts (1 P-5, 1 P-4, 1 P-3 and 4 Field Service) be reassigned, including one support post to the Office of the Chief of Staff as Programme Management Officer to act as the operational interface between the substantive components of BINUH and the mission support services of UNSOH.

Dedicated Electoral Affairs Section

264. Pursuant to paragraph 2 (ii) and (iii) of resolution 2814 (2026), the Office proposes the establishment of a dedicated Electoral Affairs Section to ensure the effective implementation of the mission's expanded electoral mandate. The Section would be constituted through the redeployment of existing elections-related staff (1 P-5, 1 P-4 and 1 National Professional Officer) from the Political Affairs and Good Governance Service, supplemented by the establishment of four general temporary assistance positions (2 P-3, 1 National Professional Officer and 1 Local level). Resolution 2814 (2026) tasks BINUH with supporting Haitian authorities in the organization and conduct of municipal, parliamentary and presidential elections, initially scheduled for 2026 and expected to extend in part into 2027, through a credible and inclusive process, contributing to a peaceful transfer of power to democratically elected officials. In this context, and in view of the critical nature of the forthcoming electoral process, additional capacity is required to coordinate international electoral assistance in close cooperation with regional and international partners, including the Caribbean Community and the Organization of American States.

Disarmament, Dismantlement and Reintegration and Community Violence Reduction, Corrections and Rehabilitation Service

265. In accordance with paragraph 2 (iv) and (v) of resolution 2814 (2026), BINUH proposes the establishment of a Disarmament, Dismantlement and Reintegration and Community Violence Reduction, Corrections and Rehabilitation Service, comprising the Disarmament, Dismantlement and Reintegration/Community Violence Reduction Section and a Corrections and Rehabilitation Section. The proposed Service would support Haitian authorities in reducing community violence and advancing a Haitian-led disarmament, dismantlement and reintegration programme consistent with Haiti's national strategy. The Service would provide assistance in the design and implementation of safe exit, voluntary disengagement, rehabilitation and reintegration pathways for individuals formerly associated with gangs, with particular attention to children and in line with the handover protocol ensuring clear referral mechanisms for the safe transfer of children to child protection services, while also providing support to national authorities on the handling of high-risk individuals falling outside disarmament, dismantlement and reintegration pathways, and assistance to efforts aimed at reducing pretrial detention.

266. Following the abolishment of the police-related mandate for BINUH, the Office proposed to abolish five posts (1 P-5, 1 P-4, 2 P-3 and 1 Local level) previously dedicated to the implementation of that element of the mandate and to abolish the Police and Corrections Service and to enforce the Office's disarmament, dismantlement and reintegration/community violence reduction and corrections mandate. In this regard, it is further proposed that the post of United Nations Police Commissioner (D-1) be reassigned as the Chief of the Disarmament, Dismantlement and Reintegration and Community Violence Reduction, Corrections and Rehabilitation Service (D-1), and that the remaining five posts (1 P-5, 3 National Professional Officer and 1 Local level) be redeployed to the Corrections and Rehabilitation Section. In parallel, the number of United Nations police officers deployed in BINUH would be reduced from 48 to 5, limited to liaison and advisory functions with the local authorities. The Office also proposes an increase of seven government-provided personnel to perform functions of corrections officers to help: (a) in the supervision and monitoring of individuals detained by the Gang Suppression Force and handed over to national authorities; and (b) with weapons and ammunition management.

267. To reinforce support to the Directorate of Prison Administration, the Office also proposes an increase of seven government-provided personnel as corrections personnel. Their expertise will ensure that the Directorate is equipped with the necessary tools and guidance to improve prison administration and operational effectiveness. The seconded Corrections Officers will bring specialized expertise in juvenile corrections management, thereby enhancing the capacity of BINUH to support the Haitian juvenile justice system in line with paragraph 4 of resolution 2814 (2026).

268. Based on the above, the Disarmament, Dismantlement and Reintegration/Community Violence Reduction Section will be staffed through the redeployment of six posts (1 P-5, 1 P-4, 3 National Professional Officer and 1 Local level) from the Political Affairs and Good Governance Service. The Corrections and Rehabilitation Section will be staffed through: (a) the redeployment of five posts (1 P-5, 3 National Professional Officer and 1 Local level) from the Police and Corrections Service, to be abolished; (b) the redeployment of one post (P-3) from the Office the Chief of Staff; and (c) the reassignment of the post of Special Assistant, Political Affairs from the Office of the Special Representative of the Secretary-General as Corrections Officer (P-4).

Other enhanced substantive capacities

269. As availability of sufficient capacity in 2027 will be critical to meeting the Office's mandated objectives, BINUH further proposes to strengthen senior leadership and substantive capacity through the reassignment of two posts, comprising: (a) Chief of Section, Supply Chain (P-5) as Special Assistant, Political Affairs (P-5) in the Office of the Special Representative of the Secretary-General to provide immediate strategic support to the Special Representative of the Secretary-General for Haiti and Head of BINUH; and (b) Finance and Budget Officer (P-3) as Human Rights Officer (P-3) in the Human Rights Service for collecting, managing, analysing and reporting crime data, including information on gangs and self-defence groups.

Close protection services

270. Following the recent review of the Office's security arrangements conducted by the Department of Safety and Security, it is proposed that four support staff be reassigned as Close Protection Officers (Field Service) to establish an additional four-member close protection team within the Close Protection Unit, in line with the most recent security risk assessment. This adjustment is intended to ensure the continuous safety and security of senior United Nations officials assessed as facing heightened security risks.

Continuation of general temporary assistance positions

271. The approved 2026 staffing table for BINUH includes four general temporary assistance positions. It is proposed that the positions be continued in 2027, comprising the following:

Office of the Deputy Special Representative of the Secretary-General (Political)

(a) One Principal Human Rights Officer (D-1) in the Human Rights Service to respond to and address the human rights requirements set by the Security Council as reflected in the BINUH mandate, adopted in resolution 2814 (2026). Such a dedicated position, with specific human rights expertise, is important to facilitate trusted engagement at a high level with senior Haitian authorities, allowing for the provision of technical assistance and advice to the country's national human rights institutions;

Department of Political and Peacebuilding Affairs (backstopping support)

(b) Two backstopping positions in the Haiti team of the Americas Division of the Department of Political and Peacebuilding Affairs, comprising one Senior Political Affairs Officer (P-5) and one Political Affairs Officer (P-4), who have been providing backstopping support to BINUH since 2019 and will remain critical to ensuring ongoing support and strategic advice and analysis to principals at Headquarters for decision-making with regard to BINUH. The core functions that they undertake are required throughout the lifespan of the mission, including its start-up, the duration of the implementation of its mandate and its closing;

Department of Management Strategy, Policy and Compliance

(c) One Finance and Budget Assistant (General Service) backstopping position in the Field Operations Finance Division, where the need remains high for the continued delivery of high-intensity and high-quality support to legislative bodies in their review of the budgets of special political missions. The continuation of this position will also ensure sufficient capacities for budget preparation, budget administration and performance monitoring of all continuing special political missions.

273. The decrease in requirements for 2027 compared with the appropriation for 2026 is attributable primarily to reduced requirements for civilian personnel costs, resulting from: (a) the proposed abolishment of 45 posts and positions, comprising the abolishment of mission support staff as UNSOH started providing, on a cost-recovery basis, the standard range of mission support services to BINUH from 1 February 2026 in support of the delivery of its mandate; (b) the abolishment of posts dedicated to the implementation of the BINUH police-related mandate, which has been discontinued pursuant to Security Council resolution 2814 (2026); and (c) the application of a higher vacancy rate of 12.6 per cent for Local level staff compared with 12.2 per cent applied in 2026. The decrease is further attributable to reduced requirements under military and police personnel. The decrease in requirements is offset in part by: (a) the proposed establishment of four general temporary assistance positions (2 P-3, 1 National Professional Officer and 1 Local level) to enhance the capacity of the Electoral Affairs Section; (b) the application of lower vacancy rates of 3.0 per cent for international staff and 22.2 per cent for National Professional Officers, compared with 17.8 per cent and 33.3 per cent, respectively, applied for 2026; and (c) additional requirements under operational costs.

274. A net increase of $898,700 under operational costs is attributable primarily to the following changes:

(a) Official travel: the decrease in requirements of $47,000 is attributable primarily to the review of the Office's travel plan following the reduction of the mission's footprint, the handover of the support functions to UNSOH and the downsizing of the BINUH mandate under the provisions of resolutions 2793 (2025) and 2814 (2026);

(b) Facilities and infrastructure: the decrease in requirements of $563,600 is attributable primarily to the reduction of the mission's footprint, the handover of the support functions to UNSOH and the revision of the BINUH mandate under the provisions of resolutions 2793 (2025) and 2814 (2026). The lower deployment of civilian and uniformed personnel resulted in reduced requirements for residential security, maintenance services and stationery and sanitation supplies;

(c) Ground transportation: the decrease in requirements of $71,800 is attributable primarily to the reduction of the mission's footprint, the handover of the support functions to UNSOH and the downsizing of the BINUH mandate under the provisions of resolutions 2793 (2025) and 2814 (2026). This resulted in a reduction in the number of vehicles, leading to lower requirements for repairs and maintenance and liability insurance;

(d) Air operations: the decrease in requirements of $1,400,000 is attributable to the review of the Office's air operations arrangements following the deployment of UNSOH and the arrangements with UNSOH to utilize its air capabilities on a cost-recovery basis;

(e) Communications and information technology: the decrease of $664,700 is attributable primarily to the reduction of the mission's footprint, the handover of the support functions to UNSOH and the downsizing of the BINUH mandate under the provisions of resolutions 2793 (2025) and 2814 (2026), which resulted in a corresponding reduction in communications and information technology infrastructure;

(f) Medical: the decrease of $150,600 is attributable primarily to the reduction of the mission's footprint and transfer of the support functions to UNSOH, resulting in lower medical support requirements;

(g) Other supplies, services and equipment: the increase in requirements of $3,796,400 is attributable primarily to the provision of $4.0 million to cover the cost reimbursement to UNSOH or the delivery of the standard range of mission support services to BINUH on a cost-recovery basis. The increase in requirements is offset in part by the reduced freight volumes following the downsizing of the Office's acquisition plan, the reduced provision of drinking water to BINUH personnel and lower demand for individual contractual services reflecting the Office's smaller footprint.

275. The overall decrease of $831,900 under military and police personnel is attributable primarily to the reduction in the deployment of United Nations police officers from 48 to 5 personnel. This reduction resulted in lower requirements for mission subsistence allowance, travel on rotation and repatriation, and clothing allowance.

4. Extrabudgetary resources

Voluntary contributions

276. In 2026, extrabudgetary resources in the amount of $60,100 are projected to be used to provide resources for two main initiatives: (a) supporting prevention through national cohesion and institutional continuity; and (b) school support for children born as a result of sexual exploitation and abuse by United Nations personnel in Haiti.

277. In 2027, extrabudgetary resources in the amount of $60,100 are projected to be used to support the continuation of the above-mentioned projects.

9. United Nations Assistance Mission in Afghanistan

($97,167,800)

A. Proposed programme plan for 2027 and programme performance in 2025

Overall orientation

Mandates and background

278. The mandate of the United Nations Assistance Mission in Afghanistan (UNAMA) is defined in Security Council resolutions 1401 (2002), 1662 (2006) and 2626 (2022), and renewed by its subsequent resolutions, including, most recently, resolution 2818 (2026), by which the Council extended the mandate of the Mission until 17 June 2026.

279. As currently mandated by the Security Council, UNAMA will continue to promote peace and stability in Afghanistan, including by coordinating and facilitating enhanced cooperation and coherence in the financial resourcing and delivery of humanitarian and basic human needs assistance that support strengthened resilience; coordinating efforts with donors and other stakeholders to reduce risk and increase accountability, transparency and effectiveness in the use of aid; supporting efforts, including the provision of essential services and economic recovery, to create the conditions for self-reliance and stability for the Afghan population; assessing the explosive ordnance threat and coordinating mitigation measures to enable humanitarian and development initiatives; providing outreach and good offices to promote dialogue between Afghan stakeholders, the region and the international community to promote inclusive and responsive governance, and providing advice on inclusive national and local consultative mechanisms, and confidence-building measures; engaging with all stakeholders on the promotion and protection of human rights, including the rights of women and girls; supporting regional cooperation; and supporting existing mechanisms to improve the overall security situation in Afghanistan, including regional and international efforts to prevent and address the illicit trade in and destabilizing accumulation of small arms and light weapons and their diversion in Afghanistan and the region.

Programme of work

Objective

280. The objective, to which the Mission contributes, is to create the conditions for peace and stability, with foundations established for the promotion of inclusive and responsive governance and functioning and accountable institutions, as well as a coherent and sustainable path towards the economic and social conditions for self-reliance.

Strategy and external factors for 2027

281. To contribute to the objective, the Mission will:

(a) Coordinate with international donors, organizations and partners in addressing the humanitarian and basic human needs of vulnerable Afghans. The Mission will partner with the United Nations country team to support economic development and increase donor confidence for greater basic human needs support, as emphasized in the independent assessment on Afghanistan requested by the Security Council in its resolution 2679 (2023), and to implement the 2030 Agenda for Sustainable Development, with a focus on the objectives of the Pact for the Future, particularly with regard to climate financing, poverty alleviation and upholding the principles and values of the Charter of the United Nations. To that end, it will support resource mobilization to enable humanitarian efforts, essential services, the restoration of livelihoods, support to the private sector, economic development and mitigation of the dangers of explosive remnants of war. The Mission will engage with the de facto authorities and other stakeholders to facilitate the support of the United Nations, international financial institutions and other international and national partners to the socioeconomic recovery of Afghanistan;

(b) Provide outreach and good offices, including by facilitating dialogue between Afghan political actors and stakeholders, regional stakeholders and the wider international community. The Mission will use its convening platforms at the national and subnational levels to facilitate engagement and cooperation between the de facto authorities, civil society, young people, communities, women-led organizations and other stakeholders on governance and policy issues, such as inclusion, participation and responsiveness to constituency concerns. It will maintain support for promoting the participation of women and minorities in all spheres. It will also continue to identify further entry points for engagement with the de facto authorities for the benefit of all Afghans, including through the United Nations-facilitated comprehensive approach under the Doha process, comprising the contours of a political road map (“mosaic approach”) and thematic working groups. In addition, the United Nations and international partners will monitor and report on and conduct analysis relating to the political economy. The Mission will provide technical and analytical support to United Nations agencies and humanitarian partners and will continue to engage with civil society, the media, communities and counterpart institutions of the de facto authorities, in compliance with the sanctions set out in relevant Security Council resolutions related to anti-money-laundering and counter-terrorism financing;

(c) Advise stakeholders on and promote respect for the human rights of all in Afghanistan and accountability for human rights violations, including with regard to women and girls, children, detainees, including the prevention of their torture and ill-treatment, human rights defenders and civic space, and other vulnerable groups. In addition, UNAMA will continue to integrate human rights and gender mainstreaming as cross-cutting issues in mandate implementation. The Mission will promote and support gender equality, the empowerment of women and girls, and the participation and leadership of women in public life and at all levels and stages of decision-making. It will also partner with the United Nations country team to promote the protection and fulfilment of the rights of women and girls and the implementation of Security Council resolution 1325 (2000) on women and peace and security, and successive resolutions on the matter;

(d) Support peace and stability in Afghanistan through consultations and by utilizing its convening power for dialogues with political stakeholders. The Mission will use existing mechanisms to advance regional cooperation on economic development and security to help to foster a regional environment conducive to sustainable peace and stability. In addition, it will propose and support regional approaches to issues, such as the return and reintegration of refugees and internally displaced persons, combating illicit drugs and trafficking, addressing the illicit accumulation and trafficking of small arms and light weapons in Afghanistan and the region, and reducing the illegal economy and its impact. It will also coordinate explosive ordnance threat mitigation measures to enable the safe delivery of humanitarian and basic human needs initiatives;

(e) Intensify its work to implement the United Nations Strategic Framework for Afghanistan, 2023–2025, which has been extended to 2027, by engaging with the de facto authorities, civil society and the media to facilitate the transition of society from conflict to peace and the removal of explosive remnants of war. The Mission will contribute to the goal of reduced dependency on aid, increasing United Nations assistance in critical sectors, such as banking, trade and economic reform. The Deputy Special Representative of the Secretary-General (Resident Coordinator/Humanitarian Coordinator) will ensure a coherent approach to United Nations humanitarian and basic needs programming for the benefit of the Afghan people. The Mission will streamline the delivery, oversight and reporting of aid provided in Afghanistan, in alignment with the Strategic Framework and in coordination with the de facto authorities, civil society and international partners. It will also enhance collaboration on aid architecture and risk management practices.

282. The above-mentioned work is expected to result in:

(a) The advancement of dialogue involving the de facto authorities and other national stakeholders within and outside Afghanistan, as well as the international community, to improve the situation of Afghans, including through efforts aimed at improving the inclusiveness and responsiveness of governing entities, and to support the creation of conditions that could eventually lead to the reintegration of Afghanistan into the international community, in accordance with relevant Security Council resolutions;

(b) Increased compliance by all parties with international humanitarian law and human rights obligations, with improved accountability for human rights violations and abuses, contributing to building confidence in such mechanisms and between the population and the de facto authorities;

(c) Ongoing accurate reporting to the international community on the evolving situation in Afghanistan and its implications for international peace and security;

(d) Sustained local, regional and international support to meet humanitarian and basic human needs and promote economic development, and to create an environment conducive to socioeconomic recovery in Afghanistan.

283. With regard to cooperation with other entities, the Mission supports constructive dialogue between the relevant Afghan stakeholders, regional actors and the international community that is focused on the rights and socioeconomic progress of the Afghan people.

284. With regard to inter-agency coordination and liaison, UNAMA engages with the United Nations country team to strengthen the repositioning of the United Nations development system and to deliver more effectively and efficiently in line with the 2030 Agenda, the Pact for the Future, the Sustainable Development Goals and the humanitarian-development-peace nexus. The Mission and the United Nations country team collaborate closely on issues related to governance, the rule of law, human rights and gender, focusing on policy issues and good offices. Given the context in Afghanistan, the Mission's work also supports the delivery of humanitarian response and meeting basic human needs through the delivery of essential services, livelihoods and community systems, in line with Inter-Agency Standing Committee recommendations. The Mission supports the removal of explosive ordnance, the delivery of risk education and the provision of victim assistance to enable humanitarian and basic human needs activities. It collaborates with various stakeholders to explore new aid approaches targeting economic promotion and recovery. It also leads the coordination of an overall risk management approach of the United Nations in Afghanistan, including mitigating the risk of aid diversion. It engages with the United Nations country team to enhance operational effectiveness through shared services and premises, generating $3.5 million in efficiency gains for the Mission under the United Nations business operations strategy, reducing operational footprints and redirecting resources to programme delivery. In addition, the Mission coordinates on specific issues with the United Nations Regional Centre for Preventive Diplomacy for Central Asia to provide good offices and expert advice on confidence-building measures in the region that contribute to stability in Afghanistan.

285. With regard to the external factors, the overall plan for 2027 is based on the following planning assumptions:

(a) The de facto authorities will remain in control of the territory of Afghanistan. However, political, security, human rights, legal, socioeconomic and humanitarian uncertainties will continue. The likely continuation and furthering of restrictive policies will present challenges for the full reintegration of Afghanistan into the international community;

(b) The lack of international recognition, and, to an extent, domestic legitimacy of the de facto authorities due to questions about lack of representation and inclusion, the dissonance between their ideology and international norms and standards, the continued absence of a constitution, the promulgation of repressive decrees, especially those aimed at women and minority groups, and the continued restriction preventing United Nations national female personnel from accessing United Nations compounds will pose significant challenges in engaging with domestic, regional and international stakeholders on the future of Afghanistan;

(c) The security situation will remain uncertain, with the likelihood of continued attacks by Islamic State in Iraq and the Levant-Khorasan against the de facto authorities and the international presence, activities of anti-Taliban armed opposition groups and dynamics related to the presence of regional and international foreign terrorist fighters and their access to illicitly accumulated small arms and light weapons, with an impact on the Mission, as well as on development and humanitarian actors, in terms of access and physical security. The de facto authorities' security emergency response and information-sharing remain inconsistent and security support systems facilitating UNAMA operations remain significantly dependent on United Nations assistance;

(d) Relations between Afghanistan and some of its neighbours will remain tense due to unresolved security issues, threats of terrorism, and migration and water management issues;

(e) Civilians, including those working as humanitarians and supporting basic human needs, will continue to face the threats of explosive ordnance, including those from improvised explosive devices and explosive remnants of war;

(f) Enduring threats, such as terrorism, organized crime and illicit trafficking, including in narcotics, small arms and light weapons, and resource competition, will continue, with threats emerging from issues such as land rights and the disenfranchisement of minorities, population outflow, returnees, unemployment and the impact of evolving regional dynamics, as well as vulnerability to the adverse impact of climate change, ecological changes and natural disasters, which may heighten the risk of local conflicts over land, water and other resources;

(g) The economy and human development will remain adversely affected by the continuing impact of non-recognition and donor sensitivities, the severe restrictions by the de facto authorities on female national staff working for the United Nations and non-governmental organizations, and the limitations of the de facto authorities to reinvigorate the economy and reduce poverty, with the resumption of development funding depending on the de facto authorities meeting international norms, especially in relation to the protection of human rights, including for women and girls;

(h) In a context where funding is diminishing and mobilizing additional resources is increasingly challenging, the United Nations is expected to demonstrate increased complementarities and efficiencies in humanitarian assistance and recovery support. This includes focusing on meeting basic human needs by maintaining essential services and preserving community systems;

(i) As viable alternatives for large-scale legitimate financial transactions remain unavailable, the United Nations will continue to rely on and incur the costs associated with the cash importation facility of the Secretariat, managed at Headquarters.

286. The Mission integrates a gender perspective into its operational activities, deliverables and results. For example, in its engagement with the de facto authorities and political stakeholders, UNAMA continues its advocacy for the full, equal and meaningful participation of women in political processes at all levels. The Mission continues to support the implementation of Security Council resolutions 1325 (2000) and 2493 (2019), particularly on gender equality, the empowerment of women and girls and their human rights.

287. In line with the United Nations Disability Inclusion Strategy, UNAMA will implement its revised strategic plan, with a focus on: (a) increasing engagement with persons with disabilities through outreach projects; (b) advancing disability inclusion in strategic planning and management, and strengthening institutional capacity; (c) further improving physical and digital accessibility to provide an enabling work environment for an inclusive and diverse workforce; and (d) continuous staff capacity-building and learning on disability inclusion.

Adjustments arising from the UN80 Initiative

288. The proposed programme plan for 2027 reflects changes arising from the UN80 Initiative. In particular, the table of deliverables reflects updated planned deliverables for 2026, in line with the approved programme budget for 2026.

Evaluation activities

289. An evaluation of the Mission’s mandate implementation in the period 2021–2024, completed by OIOS in 2025, has informed the proposed budget for 2027.

290. The results of the OIOS evaluation guided the development of the mission concept for the period 2026–2027 and ongoing efforts to strengthen human rights monitoring and reporting, and to empower the integrated office within the Office of the Deputy Special Representative of the Secretary-General (Resident Coordinator/Humanitarian Coordinator) and regional mechanisms to enhance integration, coordination and collaboration in mandate implementation. UNAMA plans to conduct an internal evaluation of its information management in 2027.

Programme performance in 2025

Afghans retain access to dialogue and coordinated assistance

291. In 2025, amid heightened human rights, political, civic and economic constraints, the Mission undertook efforts to maintain a space (even though limited) for dialogue among Afghan stakeholders and between them and UNAMA and the international community. Despite persistent restrictions on media freedoms, civic space and Afghans' enjoyment of their human rights, most acutely affecting women, Afghans retained access to channels to express concerns and communicate priority needs, enabling their voices to inform discussions on the protection of human rights, including the rights of women and girls, and advocacy for a coherent socioeconomic, political and policy agenda.

292. Through various engagement modalities facilitated by UNAMA, Afghan stakeholders conveyed the impacts of these constraints on rights, livelihoods, social cohesion and economic conditions. Their perspectives informed international advocacy and dialogue on the country's political trajectory, including the implications of continued constraints for Afghanistan's reintegration into the international system. In parallel, the High-level Coordination Forum and the Technical-level Coordination Forum with de facto line ministries, facilitated by UNAMA, enabled an assessment of how the United Nations could complement the implementation of the Afghanistan national development strategy for the period 2025–2030 adopted by the de facto authorities.

293. Based on the areas of common interest for targeted action identified by UNAMA, information gathered from Afghan stakeholders supported more coordinated responses to growing economic pressures, climate-related shocks and limitations on private sector activity. The Mission promoted joint engagement and tangible actions to address the challenges faced by the Afghan population through the counter-narcotics and private sector working groups under the Doha process, and improved the coherence and predictability of assistance, contributing to a shift from emergency relief towards basic human needs support.

294. Progress towards the objective is presented in the performance measure below (see table 69).

Planned results for 2027

Result 1: advancement in the efforts by the international community and the de facto authorities towards the full reintegration of the Afghan State into the international community

Programme performance in 2025 and target for 2027

295. The international community, the de facto authorities and relevant stakeholders engaged in more coherent and structured direct dialogue, shaping conditions for Afghanistan to advance its reintegration into the international community and meet its international obligations.

296. Increased direct engagement was undertaken through the United Nations-facilitated efforts of the comprehensive approach. The contours of a political road map ("mosaic approach") consolidated and identified feasible initial steps to address six key issues affecting prospects for reintegration, including inclusive governance and human rights. The counter-narcotics and private sector working groups focused on practical measures to address challenges facing the Afghan people. Technical engagement progressed on access to finance, women's economic empowerment and trade facilitation in support of private sector development. Practical cooperation also expanded on counter-narcotics priorities, including financial and in-kind support for alternative livelihoods, technical dialogue on drug-related health issues and strengthened cross-border and regional engagement. Enhanced coordination and expert exchanges, including Afghan women, contributed to increased information-sharing, more coherent resource mobilization and sustainable support for the Afghan population, while fostering incremental confidence-building to sustain continued engagement.

297. The Mission will continue to facilitate structured engagement among the international community, the de facto authorities and relevant Afghan stakeholders through the comprehensive approach, while promoting dialogue among Afghan stakeholders.

298. Progress towards the objective and the target for 2027 are presented in the performance measure below (see table 70).

–	Facilitation of more coherent, coordinated and structured international engagement, including the convening of two meetings of the special envoys for Afghanistan in Doha in February and June–July and the subsequent launch of the working groups on counter-narcotics efforts and the private sector	Direct engagement between the international community and the de facto authorities increased, including through the United Nations-facilitated working groups, in relation to Afghanistan's reintegration into the international community and meeting its international obligations	Increased coherent, coordinated and structured international engagement, with tangible steps, including through the proposed road map ("mosaic" approach) and the working groups, towards an Afghanistan reintegrated into the international community and meeting international obligations	Further tangible steps towards an Afghanistan reintegrated into the international community and meeting international obligations through sustained coherent, coordinated and structured international engagement, including the proposed road map ("mosaic approach") and the working groups

Result 2: strengthened economic and social resilience in Afghanistan

Programme performance in 2025 and target for 2027

299. In 2025, the United Nations country team mobilized $1.76 billion for basic human needs assistance to the people of Afghanistan. At least 26.2 million Afghans accessed healthcare services; 2.5 million Afghans benefited from short-term employment and improved livelihoods through cash-based interventions; 545,360 Afghans enrolled in and/or accessed informal and non-formal education services and training; 29,256 teachers were trained; 105 business associations and chambers strengthened, including women's business associations; and 3,650 loans were disbursed to the Afghan private sector through financial institutions. These results were possible through the implementation of basic human needs programmatic activities under the United Nations Strategic Framework for Afghanistan, which the Mission supported through the coordination of United Nations agencies and resource mobilization with donors.

300. The Mission will continue to strengthen basic human needs programming in support of Afghan community resilience through coordination and resource mobilization, while maintaining advocacy to continue resourcing critical humanitarian needs with Member States, donors and the de facto authorities as the main duty bearers of the Afghan people. Furthermore, it will continue dialogue with the de facto authorities to promote a more conducive regulatory and operational environment for the private sector and aid organizations.

301. Expected progress towards the objective and the target for 2027 are presented in the performance measure below (see table 71).

2023 (actual)	2024 (actual)	2025 (actual)	2026 (planned)	2027 (planned)
–	–	$1.76 billion mobilized for basic human needs assistance to the people of Afghanistan	Strengthened aid dialogue with the de facto authorities, aimed at enabling a more conducive regulatory and operational environment for the private sector and aid organizations	Strengthened basic human needs programming in support of resilient Afghan communities through the coordination of United Nations agencies, resource mobilization with donors and advocacy

Result 3: strengthened human rights awareness

Proposed programme plan for 2027

302. Strengthening human rights awareness in Afghanistan is essential to protecting civilians, promoting respect for human rights and accountability for violations, and upholding the country's international obligations. UNAMA contributes by gathering credible information, raising awareness of international human rights standards and recommending concrete measures to enhance the protection and fulfilment of the rights of all Afghans, including through thematic public reports and periodic updates on the situation in the country. These efforts help to ensure that human rights concerns remain visible nationally and internationally.

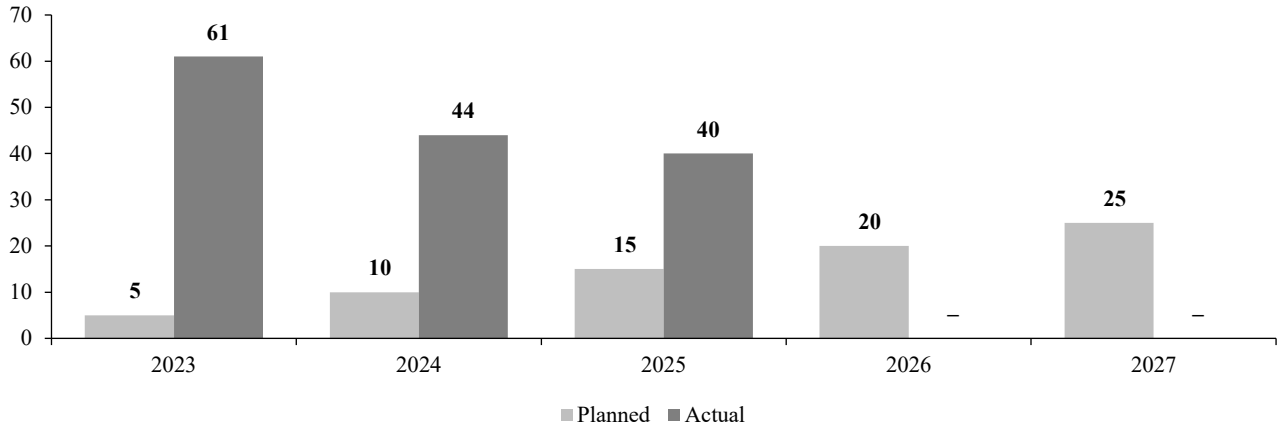

303. The Mission will continue its engagement and advocacy through monitoring, verification and engagement with relevant actors to promote respect for the rights of all Afghans. This will support tangible improvements in specific cases, including harm mitigation, prevention of further violations and facilitation of corrective actions. The Mission will also continue supporting awareness-raising initiatives at the subnational level with the de facto authorities and other individuals.

Lessons learned and planned change

304. A lesson for the Mission was that traditional field-based monitoring, while essential, cannot be the sole method for documenting and verifying violations in Afghanistan's current context. Underreporting, fear of reprisals and shrinking civic space require UNAMA to adapt its methodologies through the safe use of locally available technology to keep its human rights work credible, comprehensive and safe for those engaging with the Mission. In applying the lesson, the Mission will diversify and strengthen its approaches to monitoring and verification where direct access is limited and communities face heightened risks in sharing information.

305. Expected progress towards the objective is presented in the performance measure below (see figure III).

[a] Excludes 39 posts abolished effective 1 July 2026 (2 P-5, 1 P-4, 2 P-3, 1 P-2, 14 FS and 19 LL).

307. The proposed resource requirements for 2027 for UNAMA amount to $97,167,800 (net of staff assessment) and would provide for civilian personnel costs ($69,592,000) consisting of salaries, common staff costs and danger pay for the deployment of 836 posts and positions (1 Under-Secretary-General, 2 Assistant Secretary-General, 1 D-2, 5 D-1, 20 P-5, 44 P-4, 43 P-3, 5 P-2, 80 Field Service, 94 National Professional Officer, 1 national General Service staff, 441 Local level and 99 United Nations Volunteer); the cost of one military observer ($19,600); and operational costs in the amount of $27,556,200.

2. Staffing requirements

308. For 2027, the proposed staffing complement reflects a net decrease of 58 posts and positions, as detailed in table 75 above and table 76 below.

309. Building on the momentum of the Secretary-General's UN80 Initiative, the proposed budget reflects targeted efficiency measures through organizational optimization, functional streamlining and more efficient resource allocation. These measures include the redistribution of responsibilities, the consolidation of functions, adjustments to internal workflows, the leveraging of technologies and the reprofiling of existing positions to address operational gaps. Collectively, these adjustments enable UNAMA to maintain mandate-critical functions while safeguarding the effective and efficient delivery of the Mission's mandate.

Abolishment

310. For 2027, the Mission proposes the abolishment of 61 posts and positions (6 P-4, 2 P-3, 15 Field Service, 10 National Professional Officer and 28 Local level), across the three components, comprising 19 substantive posts, 24 security posts and 18 mission support posts. The proposed abolishments are informed by a review of operational requirements, workload distribution and the optimization of support functions.

311. In the substantive component, the proposed 19 post abolishments reflect the Mission's adaptation to a more restrictive operating environment, evolving mandate priorities and ongoing liquidity constraints. Certain civil affairs, coordination, political outreach and rule of law functions no longer constitute discrete requirements and are absorbed by other existing capacities. In addition, front office functions in the Office of the Special Representative of the Secretary-General for Afghanistan and Head of UNAMA are consolidated, made possible by streamlined processes and enhanced use of digital tools. A similar approach is applied in field offices, reflecting the absorption of functions within existing capacity and ensuring continuity in mandate delivery while aligning staffing levels with current priorities for a more efficient use of limited resources.

312. In the Security Section, the proposed 24 abolishments result primarily from strengthened internal coordination, optimized supervisory arrangements and the redistribution of responsibilities. Further efficiencies are achieved through greater reliance on existing capacity within the United Nations system entities in Afghanistan and the use of external trainers from other duty stations, as required, to meet security training needs. In this context, UNAMA proposes the abolishment of the Security Training Unit, comprising five posts (3 Field Service and 2 Local level).

313. In the Mission Support component, the proposed 18 abolishments reflect the further integration of functions and the outcome of an ongoing review of the support requirements to ensure alignment with operational needs in the context of a reduced client base and footprint, including the closure and nationalization of additional field offices in 2026.

Establishment

314. The Mission proposes the establishment of three international United Nations Volunteer positions, comprising:

(a) One position of Security Officer in the Security Section to monitor and coordinate guard force activities, support access control oversight and undertake routine compliance follow-ups;

(b) Two positions of Medical Officer, one each in the Gardez and Kunduz field offices, costed at 30 per cent of the total cost of the two positions, with the remaining 70 per cent funded by the Joint Medical Services participating entities, based on the cost-sharing arrangement in place under existing memorandums. The positions will provide on-site primary healthcare, respond to and stabilize medical emergencies within the compound and coordinate referrals to the regional hospital as needed.

Reclassification

315. In the Risk Management Coordination Section, the Mission proposes the downward reclassification of two posts: one post of Chief of Risk Management and Compliance (P-5) to Chief of Risk Management and Compliance (P-4); and one post of Risk Management and Compliance Officer (P-4) to Risk Management and Compliance Officer (P-3). The proposed reclassifications reflect the stabilization of the Mission's risk management architecture and the shift of the core functions towards sustained implementation, coordination, monitoring and incremental refinement of established frameworks, policies and tools. The functions of the P-5 post have evolved towards sustained technical coordination and advisory support, which are more appropriately aligned with the P-4 level. Consequent to this adjustment, the existing P-4 post is proposed for downward reclassification to the P-3 level.

Reassignment

Security Section

316. Within the Security Section, the Mission also proposes the reassignment of one post (Field Service) and one position (international United Nations Volunteer) as follows:

(a) The reassignment of one post of Requisition Assistant (Field Service) as Administrative Assistant (Field Service), reflecting the evolution of functional requirements towards administrative coordination, controlled documentation handling and workflow management in an integrated operating environment;

(b) The reassignment of one post of Political Affairs Officer (international United Nations Volunteer) from the Bamyan field office as Security Officer (international United Nations Volunteer), to undertake security risk management governance and oversight, operational security support, compliance monitoring, and security enabling services in support of personnel safety, movement, facilities and programme delivery.

Redeployment

317. Within the Office of the Deputy Special Representative of the Secretary-General (Resident Coordinator/Humanitarian Coordinator), a need has been identified to strengthen the Mission's capacity in the area of climate, peace and security, as well as to address the workload gaps at the national level. Accordingly, it is proposed that one post of Political Affairs Officer (P-3) be redeployed from the Political Affairs Service and one post of Assistant Programme Management Officer (National Professional Officer) be redeployed from the Kandahar field office.

318. In line with operational requirements, it is also proposed that one post of Vehicle Technician (Local level) be redeployed from the Transport Unit to the Kandahar field office.

Continuation of general temporary assistance positions

Office of the Deputy Special Representative of the Secretary-General (Resident Coordinator/Humanitarian Coordinator) (development pillar)

319. Three positions, consisting of one Senior Programme Management Officer (P-4), one Associate Programme Management Officer (National Professional Officer) and one Data Analysis Assistant (Local level), funded under general temporary assistance, were established to support the mine action programme in UNAMA. The UNAMA Mine Action Unit supports the implementation of the Mission's mine action programme in line with paragraph 5 (c) of Security Council resolution 2626 (2022), last renewed in 2026, provides technical expertise and advice to Mission leadership and relevant stakeholders on mine action and engages with national mine action authorities, the United Nations country team and the humanitarian team to advocate for mine action. In this context, it is proposed that the three temporary positions be continued, to advance the Mission's mine action objectives in the most effective, cost-efficient and transparent manner.

321. The decrease in requirements for 2027 compared with the appropriation for 2026 is attributable primarily to reduced requirements for civilian personnel costs, reflecting the proposed abolishment of 61 posts and positions (6 P-4, 2 P-3, 15 Field Service, 10 National Professional Officer and 28 Local level), the absence in 2027 of a one-time provision included in the 2026 appropriation for separation costs related to the abolishment of 38 posts in the Kuwait Joint Support Office, and the application of a higher vacancy rate of 13.4 per cent for international staff, compared with a vacancy rate of 10.4 per cent applied in 2026. The decrease is further attributable to reduced requirements under operational costs, as detailed below.

322. A net decrease of $1,787,500 under operational costs is attributable mainly to the following changes:

(a) Facilities and infrastructure: the decrease in requirements of $1,014,200 reflects mainly lower fuel requirements for generators, estimated at 3.6 million litres at a weighted average price of $0.859, compared with 4.1 million litres at an average price of $0.853 included in the 2026 approved budget. The reduction reflects energy efficiency measures and a reduced mission footprint following the closure and nationalization of field offices approved in 2026, as well as lower acquisition requirements based on projected stock levels at the end of 2026. The decrease is offset in part by additional requirements for the Mission's cost-shared portion of shared security services at the new Gardez and Kunduz field offices and rental costs for the Mazar-e Sharif field office, which had previously been provided free of charge;

(b) Air operations: the decrease in requirements of $395,200 is attributable primarily to a decrease of 279 flight hours for the fixed-wing aircraft, from 686 to 407, based on recent historical utilization patterns;

(c) Communications and information technology: the decrease in requirements of $273,600 reflects primarily the removal of provisions for the Mission's cost-shared portion for the Kuwait Joint Support Office and lower requirements for centralized services, owing to reduced unit costs and a smaller Mission staff footprint. The decrease is offset in part by additional requirements for software licencing to support the Mission's Smart Camp infrastructure, as well as for the acquisitions of equipment for the upgrading of the security surveillance system and video conferencing units that no longer meet modern technical standards;

(d) Ground transportation: the decrease in requirements of $134,700 is attributable primarily to the non-recurrent nature of the provision included in the 2026 approved budget for the acquisition of vehicle workshop equipment;

(e) Medical: the decrease in requirements of $91,700 is attributable primarily to the lower costs for the critical care team services under the new contractual terms and operating modality. Under the former forward surgical team and the aeromedical evacuation team arrangement, there was a standing forward surgical team with embedded surgical capability, post-operative/intensive care unit support and aeromedical evacuation team services. Following a review of the utilization and operational needs, this was scaled down to the current critical care team/aeromedical evacuation team model, with the number of personnel reduced from seven to three and the surgical capability demobilized. Under the new modality, UNAMA retains a

24/7 emergency stabilization, critical care support and casualty/medical evacuation capability, and surgical cases are stabilized by the critical care team or aeromedical evacuation team and referred to suitable local facilities or evacuated out of the country, if clinically required. The reduction reflects a lower number of personnel enabled by the shift from a standing surgical platform to a leaner stabilization-and-referral model;

(f) Other supplies, services and equipment: the increased requirements of $121,900 are attributable primarily to additional requirements for mine detection and mine clearing services to strengthen mine action coordination, including support to the Mine Action Technical Cell in line with paragraph 5 (j) of Security Council resolution 2626 (2022). The proposed requirements would support the engagement of personnel, including high-risk personnel, and operational costs through UNOPS. The increase in requirements is offset in part by reduced cash shipment fees following a downward revision of fee rates, reduced freight costs, and reduced requirements for rations based on revised contractual costs and reduced staffing levels.

4. Extrabudgetary resources

(a) Voluntary contributions

323. In 2026, voluntary contributions in the amount of $2,130,995 are projected to be utilized under the Mission's trust fund to provide for 10 positions (1 P-5, 2 P-4, 6 P-3 and 1 Field Service) and operational costs to support climate change activities in local peace initiatives, political engagement and meetings with regional governments, and the advancement of international engagement on Afghanistan in a more coherent, coordinated and structured manner in line with the recommendations of the independent assessment on Afghanistan (S/2023/856).

324. In 2027, voluntary contributions in the amount of $1,763,673 are projected to be utilized under the Mission's trust funds to continue to provide for one P-4 position, and for four P-3 positions for six months.

325. The decrease in the estimates projected for 2027 compared with the estimates of 2026 reflects the duration of the commitments made by the respective donors under existing agreements.

(b) Cost recovery

326. In 2026, resources in the amount of $18,955,000 are estimated to be received from United Nations agencies, funds and programmes and other entities through the cost-recovery mechanism, for services provided by the Mission, including co-location in Mission compounds and medical services throughout Afghanistan. These cost recovery resources will be utilized to provide for the staff costs of five positions (1 P-3 and 4 Field Service) and for medical-related requirements, including medical personnel and supplies, as well as the costs associated with maintaining United Nations compounds, including security services, rent, utilities and maintenance services. Such resources will complement regular budget resources of the Mission.

327. For 2027, resources in the amount of $18,955,000 are estimated to be received from United Nations agencies, funds and programmes and other entities. These estimates are based on existing clients and cost-shared allocations and do not take into account any possible substantial reductions in the number, size and funding ability of the entities, which could translate to lower collections and a higher cost-shared portion of costs for UNAMA and the other entities that would remain under the existing co-location arrangements.

Annex I

Summary of follow-up action taken to implement decisions and requests made by the General Assembly, including the requests and recommendations of the Advisory Committee on Administrative and Budgetary Questions endorsed by the Assembly

Brief description of the recommendation	Action taken to implement the recommendation
Advisory Committee on Administrative and Budgetary Questions (A/80/7/Add.13)
The Advisory Committee trusts that the Secretary-General will ensure the continued implementation of mandated activities and will address the challenges related to the proposed reduced level of resources. The Committee looks forward to receiving updated information on mandate implementation and comprehensive mitigation plans in the next budget submission (para. 10).	UNOWAS reaffirms its commitment to ensuring the continued implementation of mandated activities despite the proposed reduced level of resources. The mission will work to address related challenges and will provide updated information on mandate implementation, along with comprehensive mitigation measures, in the next budget submission. The United Nations Regional Centre for Preventive Diplomacy for Central Asia takes note of the observations of the Advisory Committee and reiterates its commitment to ensuring the full and effective implementation of its mandated activities. Despite the challenges associated with the proposed reduction in resources, the Regional Centre will make every effort to optimize the use of available capacities, prioritize critical areas of work and maintain the delivery of key programmatic objectives. The Centre will also continue to assess operational risks and develop appropriate mitigation measures to minimize any potential impact on mandate implementation. The Centre stands ready to provide updated information on progress achieved and to present comprehensive mitigation plans in the context of the next budget submission, in line with the Committee’s request. The United Nations support for the Cameroon-Nigeria Mixed Commission reaffirms its commitment to ensuring the continued implementation of mandated activities despite the proposed reduced level of resources. The mission will work to address related challenges and will provide updated information on mandate implementation, along with comprehensive mitigation measures, in the next budget submission. The Office of the United Nations Special Coordinator for Lebanon is committed to ensuring the uninterrupted implementation of its mandated activities. Every effort is being made to prioritize critical deliverables, enhance operational efficiency and optimize the use of available resources, while maintaining the quality and timeliness of outputs. In this regard, measures are being developed and implemented to mitigate potential impacts, including the reallocation of resources where feasible. The responsibilities of abolished posts have been redistributed among existing staff within the relevant units and sections. UNOCA will scale back several of its programmatic activities in 2027 as a result of the reduced workforce following the UN80 Initiative and consequent revised budget. The UNOCA workforce has reduced from 50 to 40 and the majority of personnel cuts were in the substantive sections which had the highest number of personnel as well as vacant positions. This notwithstanding, UNOCA will ensure effective mandate delivery through the use of virtual engagement, reduced travel, effective coordination with partners and the use of in-house resources. UNOCA will adjust its operational model to deliver priority mandate tasks, including through workforce profiling, efficiency measures and greater reliance on partnerships with regional organizations.

The Advisory Committee acknowledges that the proposed posts and positions for the missions under thematic cluster III for 2026 represent a decrease in the proportion of P-5 and above posts and positions in the staffing complement from 7.87 per cent in 2025 to 7.79 per cent in 2026. The Committee also notes that the proportion of national posts compared with international posts would increase, from 46.24 per cent to 46.51 per cent. The Committee trusts that the Secretary-General will continue to holistically assess mission structures as well as the number and levels of posts, to ensure balanced staffing components, including though rejuvenation, by maintaining and recruiting lower-level staff, as well as by promoting the nationalization of posts and positions as appropriate, and that related proposals will be presented in the next budget submission (para. 17).	UNOWAS and the United Nations support for the Cameroon-Nigeria Mixed Commission support continued efforts to ensure balanced staffing structures, including rejuvenation through recruitment at lower levels and increased nationalization of posts where appropriate. UNOWAS will continue to assess its staffing needs holistically and reflect relevant proposals in its next budget submission. The United Nations Regional Centre for Preventive Diplomacy for Central Asia remains committed to maintaining a balanced and effective workforce. The Centre will continue to review its structure holistically, supporting staff development at all levels and promoting the appropriate nationalization of posts. Relevant adjustments and updates will be reflected in future budget submissions. The Office of the United Nations Special Coordinator for Lebanon strives to ensure balanced staffing across its components in terms of staff levels and the composition of international versus national personnel within the organizational structure. The Office continues to ensure that all functions are effectively and appropriately staffed and that operational priorities are met. The national staff complement of the United Nations Verification Mission in Colombia exceeds that of international staff (52 per cent national staff posts versus 48 per cent international posts). Moreover, the Mission is proposing the abolishment of a D-1 post and the conversion of two international staff posts to national staff posts.

The Advisory Committee notes the intention of UNOWAS to thoroughly examine the current structure and trusts that more information in that regard will be provided to the General Assembly at the time of consideration of the present report and in the next budget submission (para. 27).	UNOWAS confirms its intention to thoroughly review its current structure. The mission will provide further information to the General Assembly during its consideration of the present report and will include additional details in the next budget submission.
While acknowledging the operational requirements of the mission, in view of the scenario of constrained resources, the Advisory Committee trusts that UNOWAS, with guidance and support from United Nations Headquarters, will explore further options for a more cost-effective solution for travel, including further inter-mission cooperation or inter-agency cost-sharing arrangements for the aircraft, or standby charter options, for optimal use of resources. The Committee trusts that information in that regard will be provided in the next budget report (para. 33).	UNOWAS takes note of the Advisory Committee's observations in paragraph 33 of its report and will continue to explore more cost-effective travel solutions, in coordination with United Nations Headquarters. The mission will assess options such as enhanced inter-mission cooperation, inter-agency cost-sharing arrangements and standby charter options, to ensure optimal use of resources. Relevant updates will be reflected in the next budget report.
Taking into consideration the reduced footprint of UNOWAS, the Advisory Committee trusts that all efforts will be undertaken by the mission to review its vehicle fleet, and that options to cover surge requirements, including further cooperation with other entities from the United Nations system on the ground, will be further explored. The Committee trusts that information in that regard will be provided in the next budget report (para. 34).	UNOWAS will continue reviewing and rationalizing its vehicle fleet in line with its reduced footprint. The mission will also further explore options to meet surge requirements, including strengthened cooperation with other United Nations entities on the ground. Relevant updates will be reflected in the next budget report.
The Advisory Committee trusts that further information on the strategic review and the staffing review will be provided to the General Assembly at the time of its consideration of the present report and in the next budget submission (para. 81).	Following the mandate renewal through resolution 2796 (2025) and the approval of the recommendations of the strategic review (S/2025/611), the Mission initiated a series of measures to translate these recommendations into operational, substantive and structural adjustments. Building on the outcomes of the Mission leadership retreat and subsequent implementation planning, UNSMIL has undertaken a broader strategic realignment to ensure that its substantive and operational activities directly support political outcomes and contribute to the implementation of the UNSMIL-facilitated political road map. Across the Mission, sections have reviewed and updated workplans, priorities and delivery frameworks to sharpen their focus on support to the political process, institutional unification and stabilization efforts, including through the reorganization and redeployment of staffing capacities, refinement of reporting and coordination arrangements, and alignment of individual workplans and senior management compacts with the Mission's central political objectives. Strategic planning instruments, including the mission concept, programme plans and resource proposals, have similarly been adjusted to ensure that activities and resources are directed towards advancing mandate implementation under constrained resource conditions.

	The Mission has already undergone significant structural adjustments, including the redeployment of 33 posts and positions to Tunis in the first quarter of 2026 and the abolishment of 84 posts as part of broader resource optimization measures under the UN80 Initiative. While these measures have generated notable efficiencies, the changes have created staffing constraints and altered the staffing profile and operating assumptions under which previous staffing assessments were conducted. In this context, a staffing review is required to ensure continued alignment between the Mission's structure, operational requirements and mandate priorities, including the identification of emerging capacity needs and the adjustment of staffing configurations where necessary to sustain effective mandate delivery. This exercise is further aligned with the recommendations of the strategic review, which emphasize enhancing organizational efficiency, strengthening prioritization and ensuring that staffing capacities remain fit for purpose.
The Advisory Committee notes the proposed conversion of one vacant post of Translator (P-3) to Translator (National Professional Officer) to enhance the efforts of UNSMIL to build national capacity. The Committee trusts that UNSMIL will review its requirements for translators and propose additional conversions from the Professional level to the National Professional Officer level in the next budget submission (para. 82).	The Mission takes note of the Advisory Committee's observations regarding the translation function and the potential for further nationalization of capacities where operationally feasible. Within the context of the upcoming staffing review process, UNSMIL will continue to assess its capacity requirements, including within the translation unit, taking into account evolving operational needs, mandate implementation requirements and opportunities to strengthen national capacities. At present, however, the translation and interpretation functions remain critical at the proposed level, given the sustained operational demands arising from the Mission's support to the political process, including high-level political engagement, facilitation efforts and the ongoing structured dialogue framework. These activities require timely, accurate and high-quality direct translation support to facilitate engagement with national stakeholders, enhance dialogue processes and ensure effective communication across multiple tracks and levels of engagement. The Mission will continue to review its requirements within the broader staffing review exercise and will reflect any proposed adjustments, where justified by operational developments and mandate needs, in future budget submissions.

Advisory Committee on Administrative and Budgetary Questions (A/80/7/Add.14)
The Advisory Committee trusts that the Mission will provide an update on the recruitment status of all vacant posts and positions to the General Assembly at the time of its consideration of the present report and in the next budget submission (para. 24).	As at 31 March 2026, UNAMA had 91 vacant posts and positions, of which 16 are proposed for abolishment. Information on vacant posts and positions is provided in the supplementary information.
The Advisory Committee, noting that the proposed abolishments coincide only in part with vacant posts, trusts that, where feasible, staff currently encumbering posts proposed for abolishment shall be reassigned to existing vacant posts, in order to retain institutional memory and ensure continuity of expertise, and looks forward to information in that regard being provided in the next budget submission (para. 26).	UNAMA has, to the extent possible, identified suitable positions for staff whose positions were abolished. Positions were identified for 47 staff, but the Mission has not been able to identify suitable vacant positions for 32 staff members.
The Advisory Committee notes that the postponement of infrastructure projects represents a deferral rather than the elimination of the related requirements and trusts that the Mission will continue to monitor and plan for the eventual costs and potential safety implications arising from such delays and will provide the related updates to the General Assembly at the time of its consideration of the present report and in the next budget submission (para. 35).	No proposal is made in the 2027 proposed budget for these projects. UNAMA will rely on additional funding expected to be generated under cost recovery (10RCR) from the absorption of new agencies into the compounds, primarily the Mission's headquarters in Kabul, to complete works to improve the security and energy efficiency of existing buildings, as well as to create a central warehouse that will permit the consolidation of assets and consumables that are currently dispersed across multiple storage locations, for more efficient management of this material, while at the same time freeing up land for other agencies to co-locate in the compounds, reducing the unit cost for all tenants.
The Advisory Committee trusts that the Secretary-General will ensure the continued implementation of mandated activities and address challenges related to the proposed level of resources. The Committee looks forward to receiving updated information on mandate implementation and comprehensive mitigation plans in the next budget submission (para. 39).	To mitigate the effects of resource reductions, the Mission has adopted the following measures: (a) Strengthened regional hub model for field offices. The Mazar-e Sharif field office functions as a northern hub, with an expanded area of responsibility from four to six provinces, including Baghlan and Faryab. It is supported by redeployed posts from the two closed field offices and operational resources to sustain regular travel and engagement deemed essential for the continued coverage of the two provinces; (b) Continuity of local engagement. Two staff members from each of the closing field offices were selected to fill newly established positions in the Mazar-e Sharif field office, preserving institutional knowledge, access and transition;

	(c) Alternative modalities. Increased use of virtual engagement complements reduced in-person presence, including for interaction with women and other key interlocutors; (d) Partnership arrangements. Collaboration and cost-sharing with United Nations partners will continue to support the implementation of mandate-related activities in cross-cutting or complementary areas of engagement; With regard to the climate, peace and security capacity transition, the extrabudgetary-funded Climate, Peace and Security Adviser, funded until the end of 2027, will be supported by redeployed staff, enabling the practical transfer of knowledge and deeper familiarization with the function. Following the cessation of extrabudgetary funding, relevant tasks will be absorbed using existing resources and capabilities, reinforced by the technical expertise and related programmatic activities of United Nations partners.
